

Chapter 190

"B*stard Doctor?" Felicity was genuinely confused although she found the term 'b*stard' vaguely familiar.

However, in her anxiety, it never occurred to her that the b*stard doctor Melissa mentioned was the little b*stard whom they cursed every day in the Avengers group.

She paused for a moment and asked nervously, "Do you mean that this b*stard doctor is even better than Henry?"

Melissa nodded and said, "Of course."

"Well, is he expensive?" Felicity imagined Henry would cost her missions for treatment. If this b*stard doctor was even greater, wouldn't he cost even more?

Melissa looked at Felicity with a faint smile. "Yes, he is ridiculously expensive. I guess you'll be paying him back for the rest of your life."

Felicity's little face went red as she looked at Melissa with shame and anger.

"Hmph, this little b*tch must be coveting William! That's why she wants to involve me with other men!"

She cursed in her heart!

"Sc*mbag!"

However, since she was the one who came to ask for help, Felicity could only bite the bullet and say, "In that case, I'll count on you to make the necessary arrangements."

Melissa asked the staff members to send the unconscious Rebecca to a separate ward. Soon after, Rebecca woke up.

Felicity was happy to see Rebecca awaken. "Mom, are you finally up? Are you feeling all right?"

Rebecca shook her head, her face as pale as a ghost. "I feel dizzy. Where am I?"

"This is the Genuine Care Medical Center," Felicity answered.

Rebecca's face went frigid. "The Genuine Care Medical Center? Did you bring me here to see a doctor?"

Felicity nodded.

Rebecca's eyes glinted with desperation. She grabbed Felicity's hand and replied bitterly, "Felicity, you must save me. I am in so much pain that death seems to be preferable right now. Isn't Divine Doctor He here? I can only rest easy if he handles my treatment."

Felicity avoided Rebecca's eyes as she stated, "Mom, I have arranged the best for you."

Rebecca saw Felicity's rigid demeanor and immediately became sullen. She squeezed out a tear and pretended to cry as she asked, "Do you want to bear the sin of killing your very own mother? I'm dying here, yet you can't even get me the best doctor! Are you so eager to see me die? Alright, I shall grant your wish! You can leave now, and I will die here today!"

Felicity's face flushed red with anger, and she couldn't help saying, "Mom, didn't I say I've arranged it?"

"Then tell me, is the person treating me Divine Doctor He? If not, I will leave immediately! Just let me die in the street and let everyone see what kind of daughter you are!" Rebecca was putting on a serious act, an air of awkwardness filled the room.

Melissa saw Rebecca's display of arrogance again. She couldn't help but shake her head.

She really didn't know how that little b*stard endured Rebecca all these years.

Thinking of this, she couldn't help but feel sorry for him.

It must have been difficult for him.

"Mom, Director Wang is here! She said that she would be arranging for someone even more skilled than Divine Doctor He to treat you." Felicity was ashamed that the internal affairs of her family were laid bare for all to see.

Rebecca looked at Melissa, then nodded and said to Felicity, "That's right. No matter how expensive the doctor is later, you have to agree to it, alright? You have to remind the doctor to prescribe the best and most expensive medicine. Otherwise, I won't take them in peace. I am your mother, and my life is in your hands now. You should be willing to afford at least that much."

Felicity stiffly nodded and replied, "I know."

At this moment, a man pushed open the door and walked in.

Felicity's face lit up with joy when she saw the person who had come in. She hurriedly went up to him and mumbled, "William, you're finally here."

However, Rebecca was unhappy at William's arrival. She roared, "What are you doing here? You're not welcome here! I don't want to see you!"

Melissa's heart exploded in a bout of sympathy as she dragged William before Rebecca, saying, "Look carefully. He is the one who I have arranged to handle your treatment today."

Her words silenced everyone in the room.

Felicity's eyes widened.

She quickly waved her hand. "No, no! William has indeed dabbled in medicine. But this is too much for him to handle!"

In Felicity's mind, William's medical skills were entirely self-taught. It was only a coincidence and a pure stroke of luck that he cured her and Yasmine last time.

Felicity was extremely worried about William's ability to treat a serious illness.

However, Melissa answered half-truthfully, "William has been working in my clinic for a period of time and it's time for him to finally reveal his true ability. Otherwise, no one will know of his skills."

Melissa wanted William to display his prowess so that he could intimidate these snobs.

In an instant, Rebecca flared up in anger.

She pointed at Melissa and swore, "I thought you were a benevolent doctor! No matter what, I, Rebecca, am still a member of the Bai family. Our family is still in a cooperative relationship with you! How dare you send a watchdog to treat me! You obviously look down on me and want to take my life, don't you?"

"Otherwise, could you be thinking that we cannot afford the treatment from Divine Doctor He? You're such a snob! Felicity, go and get the money! Give me one million yuan! I'll pelt this little b*tch to death with the money!"

Hearing these words, Felicity furrowed her brows slightly.

Rebecca did not even think twice before she made those remarks!

They were in the Genuine Care Medical Center after all!

On top of that, the person in front of them was Melissa!

Who in Qena City would dare to offend Melissa?

But without realizing the inappropriateness of her statement, Rebecca continued to curse. She pointed at William and scolded, "And you b*stard! You just want to kill me so that you and Felicity can do as you wish, right? I won't let you have it your own way! I'm not dead yet! Do you want to kill me? Not in this lifetime!"

Felicity looked at Melissa helplessly and spoke softly, "Director Wang, is the b*stard doctor you mentioned earlier really William?"

Melissa nodded seriously and answered, "Yes."

"But William..." Felicity immediately became anxious.

At this time, she felt William's hand gently on hers, and a gentle voice rang out beside her, "It'll be alright. I'll give it a try. I'm roughly aware of her illness. It's no big deal."

Felicity was doubtful.

However, Rebecca threw a cup from the nightstand fiercely at William. "Get out! Get out of here! I'm dying. How dare you say that it's no big deal! You're a quack!"

William turned around abruptly and stared at Rebecca, his gaze slowly turning cold.

What a reckless ingrate!

He walked over to Rebecca, who was still cursing and shouting, as if she wanted everyone in the world to see. "Everyone, come hither! The Genuine Care Medical Center is truly black-hearted! They are trying to kill me! Even this son of a b*tch who should be subjected to punishment wants to kill his mother-in-law! Everyone..."

A loud slap rang across the room.

Rebecca's outburst was halted abruptly!

She held her face and looked at William in disbelief!

The shock sent goosebumps all over everyone's skin!

William...

He had just given Rebecca a slap in the face!

Mercilessly!

What a deafening slap!

Chapter 191

The way Felicity looked at William changed all of a sudden!

It was not because she was mad at William for slapping her mother!

Instead, she was in shock!

Over the past ten years, William had always knuckled under to the Bais at home!

He'd keep his distance from Rebecca most of the time, and that was how they had lived in amity for the past ten years.

Now, however, William had actually slapped Rebecca in the face!

The slap sent shudders all over Felicity!

Frankly, Rebecca's words earlier carried so much venom in them that anyone would have slapped her on the spot.

Felicity had always kept such thoughts to herself, but she had never acted upon them.

William had done it.

What a good slap!

Rebecca was rendered speechless by William's slap!

Melissa's jaw hung wide. She could hardly contain her excitement at the scene before her.

Rebecca deserved this slap!

Melissa had long since wanted to put a sock in Rebecca's incessant yapping.

William's slap relieved the anger in Melissa's heart.

Rebecca was stupefied.

"How dare this mutt do this to me?"

William had been leeching off of the Bais for so long. How dared he slap her?!

What the f*ck!

William was but a dog that the Bai family had been raising for ten years. She could not believe he had the audacity to lay his fingers on her!

Anger permeated her mind in an instant. She stretched out her hand and was going to scratch William!

Slap!

Another slap to her face!

The place burst into chaos!

Since one slap wasn't enough, she should have a second one!

Felicity's eyes were about to drop from their sockets.

Rebecca shouted, "How dare you hit..."

Slap!

Everyone was speechless.

Their awe-filled gazes fell directly on William.

Whoa, that was merciless!

Kaleb wanted to give William the beating of his life. But after seeing the three merciless slaps given in succession by William, he faltered in his steps.

As if he were connected to Rebecca, Kaleb could feel the stinging pain on his cheeks too.

Rebecca's eyes were red with hatred, but not a single hateful word came from her mouth.

The scene descended into a mysterious silence.

Felicity promptly stepped forward and restrained William, "William, that's enough."

Following that, she had lost the courage to look at her mother in the eye.

This was because instead of blaming William for hitting Rebecca, the only line she managed to say was 'that's enough'.

Subconsciously, she thought Rebecca deserved three slaps. Nothing more, nothing less.

William reached out and fondled Felicity's head. Everyone stared at him without blinking.

He did not even hold back his strength when he slapped Rebecca a while ago. Yet, he was as gentle as a feather when fondling Felicity at this moment with the very same hand.

Cold chills spread throughout the crowd.

William asked Rebecca, who didn't dare to speak, "Have you calmed down now?"

Rebecca looked at William. Too ashamed to look William in the eye, she averted her gaze quickly.

She must be going mad!

She was the one who had been slapped!

But under the gaze of this son of a b*tch, she actually felt that she was at fault!

She felt as though she had made a grave mistake after receiving these three slaps!

What the f*ck!

"If you've calmed down now, I'll start the treatment. Bring me the needles," William said as he sat at the head of the bed.

As his hand reached out to Rebecca, she flinched instinctively. However, as though nothing had happened before, he applied pressure on her forehead. She gritted her teeth, pissed beyond words.

How humiliating!

She had never felt so humiliated in the past ten years!

To think the family dog would 'bite' her three times!

D*mn it!

William tugged on Rebecca's hand. In an instant, pain coursed through her body. She began to wail instantly.

Noticing what William had done, she lost her temper again and yelled ferociously, "You! Give me back my Fortune Necklace!"

What William had tugged off was the Fortune Necklace Rebecca had been wearing for the past few days.

William ignored her and threw it to Melissa. He said, "I saw a stray dog at the entrance when I came just now. Help me catch the dog and put it on the dog."

His words caused the scene to descend into a state of stupefaction once again.

Melissa was so furious that she felt a sharp pain in the chest.

She cursed inwardly, "You little b*stard!"

William would always do something out of her expectation. He deserved a good beating too!

She couldn't believe that she was worried about him a while ago! How dared he ask her to catch a stray dog!

"I am a beauty after all!"

Did he think it was appropriate for her to dirty her hands catching a dog?

Didn't his conscience hurt?

However, seeing William's indifferent gaze, Melissa knew deep down that he would never change his mind.

He didn't even have a conscience, to begin with!

She huffed out of the room!

Meanwhile, Rebecca was trembling with anger!

She criticized silently, "A stray dog?!"

He wanted to put her necklace on a dog, huh?!

"How dare he humiliate me!"

Was he implying that she didn't deserve to wear such an expensive necklace?!

And that even a dog would be more deserving than her?!

What an a*shole!

"Go to hell!" Gnashing her teeth, Rebecca cursed.

William ignored her and said to Felicity, "Felicity, hold her head for me."

Felicity was dumbfounded and asked, "Why?"

She had never seen anyone, who was treating someone with acupuncture, needed help to hold the patient's head.

William answered indifferently, "As you can see, she is trembling. How am I supposed to perform acupuncture on her like this?"

Felicity looked at Rebecca and put on a bitter smile.

Obviously, her mother was on the verge of collapse, hence her whole body was quivering uncontrollably.

Especially her head; it was shaking like a leaf.

Felicity held Rebecca's head with both hands carefully, only to find that her hands were also shaking along with Rebecca's head.

Awkwardly, Felicity said to William helplessly, "I can't do it. I can't do it."

"You can do it. You're doing great," William cheered. Suddenly, he pulled out a small desk from under the bed. He then reached out his hand and pressed Rebecca's head sideways on the table.

With the support from the desk, he could lock Rebecca down with one hand.

However, the rest of them, Rebecca included, were extremely angry!

They thought, "Do you know what Rebecca looks like when she's held on the desk like this?"

"She's like a prisoner who is about to be beheaded by a guillotine!"

Rebecca was biting down on her lips so hard her teeth drew blood!

What a son of a b*tch!

Rebecca cursed inwardly, "He's avenging himself!"

D*mn it!

She swore to kill him later!

At that thought, she felt dizzy again.

In that instant, Melissa came with a few people carrying an iron cage.

In the iron cage, there was a dirty stray dog with a fierce look in its eyes.

The Fortune Necklace was hanging on its neck.

"That's enough!" Melissa interrupted William, her voice sounded annoyed.

"Push it to the corner. Away from us," William ordered.

Melissa gave the men a look, signaling them to push the dog cage to the corner.

No one was able to wrap their heads around the purpose of this.

It was not until then that Melissa noticed that Rebecca, who behaved so arrogantly earlier, was now held down like a prisoner on the guillotine. She couldn't help laughing.

The little b*stard was indeed wicked! She could not wait to see what he would do next!
