

Chapter 192

As Melissa was laughing, she saw Felicity looking at her from the bed with resentment.

Melissa covered her mouth quickly to stifle her giggle.

Felicity asked bitterly, "William, do you think it's really going to work?"

William nodded. He answered, "Desperate times call for desperate measures. She'll be fine in a while."

Felicity sighed. She chose to place her faith in William till the end.

This was because William had never let her down.

William took a silver needle from the assistant and pricked it into Rebecca's temple after disinfecting it over fire.

Rebecca was in pain and was about to scream exaggeratedly. However, William had already anticipated that and warned, "If you dare to shout, I'll stuff your mouth with my socks."

Rebecca was loathing every minute of it. Even her teeth were chattering in rage.

William applied several more needles on her before his phone rang.

He glanced at the phone once.

Everyone thought that William would ignore the phone and focus on the treatment since acupuncture required enormous attention.

After all, the acupoints William was going to poke were all on the forehead. Any slight miss might lead to devastating consequences.

To everyone's dismay, William picked up a handful of silver needles with one hand and pricked them into her forehead before rotating them.

With his other hand, he answered the phone and asked, "Who is it?"

What the f*ck!

Everyone was cursing at him internally.

Couldn't he concentrate on the task at hand?

Melissa was speechless as well.

While Rebecca might be a prick, a life was still a life!

It would greatly affect William's career if he acted this way!

William remained nonchalant. At this time, a cold and arrogant voice on the other end of the phone rang out, "It's me, Laura."

Presently, Laura was in the office, waiting anxiously.

She had been there since early in the morning, thinking William would come and administer her treatment.

After all, she had two sessions to go before she was fully cured.

She waited for so long, yet William had never showed up.

She even sneaked out to have a look, because she knew from Linda that William was the security guard of the company.

However, the security booth was empty. Not even a single soul could be seen.

She was on the verge of throwing a tantrum.

She had been mentally preparing herself for the treatment all morning.

Yet, William did not show up!

He could have informed her at the very least!

"I got myself all worked up for nothing!" she thought.

What Laura feared most was not William's absence...

But rather, him catching her off guard again and asking her to take off her clothes.

This reminded her of a joke.

There was a man who had neighbors living upstairs of him. Every night, he would hear two loud thuds from upstairs.

His neighbors had a habit of taking off and tossing their shoes at night.

This made the man depressed. One day, he went upstairs to stop the neighbors from tossing their shoes around in the middle of the night.

Expectedly, that night, he heard a single thud coming from upstairs again.

However, he stayed up all night sleeplessly, waiting for the second thud which never came.

He stayed up the whole night waiting.

Laura's present mood was the same as the man from the joke. She thought, "William, you had better quickly throw your other shoe!"

"Otherwise, I won't be able to fall asleep!"

She was not going to just wait. Hence, she got William's phone number from her grandfather, Tyrion, and took the initiative to call William.

"Where are you?!" Laura asked furiously over the phone.

William was working the needles in one hand and holding the phone in the other. He answered nonchalantly, "I'm busy."

"D*mn it! You're just a security guard, yet you're telling me, a superstar, that you're busy! Aren't you ashamed of yourself? Get your a*s over here and treat me now! I'm in a hurry!" Laura commanded over the phone.

William replied indifferently, "You're in a hurry, huh? I'm not free. Call me Daddy then I might come earlier."

Laura was shook.

He was not free? Call him Daddy?

Did he say that he wasn't free?!

How dared he?! This request of his was making her feel even more ashamed than to be asked to take off her clothes!

She retorted inwardly, "Dream on!"

"What's that? Why do I hear a dog barking?" Laura asked as her ears picked up the sound of a dog barking over the phone.

"Oh, it's a dying dog. It's not worth mentioning," William answered calmly.

Hearing that, everyone was dumbfounded.

They had misunderstood him.

They thought he was referring to Rebecca.

Rebecca was so exasperated that she almost spat out blood.

"I don't care! Hurry up and come over!" Laura ordered, slamming her fist on the table.

"I have told you that I'm busy. If you are free, come to the Genuine Care Medical Center," William said. After that, he hung up.

Laura was so pissed upon hearing the disconnect tone coming from the phone, rage throbbed in her like a heartbeat.

What a b*stard!

A son of a b*tch!

She must be too nice to him that he started to be so arrogant!

She never chased him out when he showed up the last two times uninvited. She even suppressed her anger when he asked her to take off her clothes!

How dared he stood her up?!

He even had the audacity to ask her to seek him out at the Genuine Care Medical Center!

How thick-skinned could he be?

Laura was so pissed off!

Presently, everyone was dumbfounded at William.

They thought, "This brat is seriously arrogant!"

Moreover, what was wrong with him? How could he be so careless while dealing with another person's life?

Rebecca's eyes were bloodshot, and her chattering grew even louder.

She was infuriated by William.

Felicity was looking paler by the minute.

She reminded William, "Let's concentrate a little more, shall we? She is still your mother-in-law..."

William nodded apologetically and promised,

"Okay, I will concentrate."

After that, he resumed the acupuncture session with total focus.

He received a few more calls in the process but he ignored the calls as they came from Janet.

She was probably calling to ask about the negotiations this morning.

While Felicity was looking at William's serious face, a wave of bizarre emotions washed over her.

It was as if William had fused with the silver needles and that he held complete control over the situation.

It was as if he was born to save people with these silver needles.

It was as if his sole purpose was to vanquish all illnesses from the world.

It was such a bizarre experience... a weird sense of harmony....

As Felicity was about to drift off, she suddenly shook her head, thinking, "That's not right!"

She should count herself lucky if William, with his half-a*sed medical skills, did not stab her mother to death.

An illusion! This must be an illusion!

The room was deathly silent, save for the incessant barking of the stray dog in its cage in the corner.

The longer the time went on, the more everyone got used to the sound.

Nobody noticed its cries weakening over time.

In order to dispel this weird illusion she had on William, Felicity asked softly, "William, what's wrong with my mother?"

"I'll explain later. Be quiet now. It's almost over," William replied. Then, he pricked the last needle into Rebecca's forehead.

At this moment, Rebecca looked like a hedgehog.

After a while, William began to pull out the needles. Rebecca felt relieved in an instant.

She was free!

She was finally free!

Suddenly, she felt a surge of energy from within her body. As she was about to push William away, she heard him say, "There's only one last procedure left."

Rebecca was taken aback.

William looked at Melissa.

Melissa felt a chill creep down her spine all of a sudden. She had a bad feeling about this!

Once again, she was reminded of how William instructed her to catch the stray dog a while ago.

Sure enough...

"Hey, I saw a honeycomb on the door on my way in. Go and grab me a few bees. We are going to neutralize the poison with another poison," William ordered.

VAMP20 WORKS

Chapter 193

Melissa was ready to erupt with anger!

Her face was flushed. She pointed at William and rebuked, "Am I being too nice to you? How could you see so many things when you entered the clinic just now? Why didn't I see anything when I came in? You must be thinking you're the only one who is sharp-eyed enough to notice the dogs and the bees! You are obviously trying to take me for a fool!"

After Melissa scolded him, everyone was stunned. No one had ever seen Melissa so enraged.

To think that Melissa, who had always been so elegant, lost her temper. The loudness of her roar at this moment was not unlike that of the dog that was barking its head off in the corner.

For no reason, Felicity was pleased to see Melissa snap.

She chided internally, "You deserve it, you little vixen!"

"William will never take a fancy to you!" Felicity looked at Melissa, grinning.

"Go catch your bees."

Felicity was now consumed by her own happiness.

She had not thought about why William needed the bees.

It had not even crossed her mind what torturous treatment awaited Rebecca.

William glanced at Melissa, his gaze placid.

Melissa planned to continue rebuking him, but his gaze struck fears into her heart. Hurriedly, she left the room.

The people were silent.

They thought, "How arrogant could William get?"

William was but an ex-employee of the Genuine Care Medical Center.

They could not believe that William would be so haughty now that he had resigned.

He even dared to order Melissa around!

He was digging his own grave!

Melissa was so pissed that she was about to burst into tears.

She cursed inwardly, "This little b*stard, he doesn't know how to respect others! He won't even spare me!"

He had gone too far!

He must be getting his revenge!

He must be getting back at me for creating that group and adding Felicity into it to badmouth him.

There was no other explanation for it.

Although furious, she ordered several men to knock down the beehive. Then, they caught about ten bees despite being stung and sealed them into a bottle for Melissa.

She brought the bottle into the room and threw it gloomily at William. "Take it! I'm leaving!"

Turning around, she left the room without looking back. She shuddered at the thought of William coming up with more strange ideas.

Everyone stared blankly at the bees crawling in the bottle and at William, unsure what he was about to pull off.

"William, what are you doing?" Felicity asked, finally coming to her senses.

William looked at Rebecca, who was trembling with fear.

Rebecca shivered instinctively.

Rebecca thought, "He must have an ulterior motive for catching these bees."

William answered, "Didn't I just say it? I'll use the bees' venom to counteract the toxin in her body. She will be alright after a few bee stings."

Everyone's jaw dropped to the ground once again in shock.

Worried, Felicity muttered, "William, stop kidding."

However, William replied seriously, "I'm not joking."

Let's start the treatment. It will be troublesome if we delay it any further."

After that, he opened the bottle.

Everyone stepped back in fear, afraid of being stung by the bees.

Rebecca's face turned pale. Her instincts told her to flee.

However, William grabbed her and asked the two nurses to hold her down. Taking a transparent plastic bag, he poked a few holes in it.

Pouring the bees into a bag, he bagged Rebecca's head with it, much to her dismay.

Rebecca immediately roared like an animal at the slaughterhouse!

"You b*stard! I'm going to kill you! You're torturing me!" Rebecca screamed.

"I'll kill you later! I swear I won't rest until I get my revenge!"

She then turned to look at Kaleb as she bellowed, "Kaleb, save me! It hurts so much!"

As everyone watched the bees crawling on Rebecca's face, their eyes widened.

Fortunately, this peculiar treatment did not take long.

A few minutes later, William removed the plastic bag.

The bees were wriggling on the ground, apparently on the verge of death.

Everyone looked at Rebecca, whose face was red and swollen like a baboon's butt. One by one, their faces turned red.

They were trying their best to hold back their laughter.

Although Rebecca looked pitiful and miserable, Felicity couldn't help tottering while glimpsing at Rebecca.

She forced back a laugh and changed the subject, asking, "William, is it over now?"

William nodded. "Yes. Fret not, she's alright."

"Now can you tell me what she is suffering from?" Felicity asked.

Rebecca tried to claw at William, but William pushed her back onto the bed with one hand.

"D*mn it! I wasn't sick at all! This b*stard was just trying to get his revenge on me! I'm definitely going to kill you!" Rebecca cursed furiously.

William said to Felicity, "Yes, she's right. She wasn't sick, or to be more precise, she doesn't have any disease."

"What's that then?" Felicity asked blankly.

William answered blandly, "She was over-exposed to radiation from radionuclides, leading her to experience dizziness and tinnitus. If she were to expose to it any longer, she could have prolonged vomiting or she might even fall into a coma."

"Radionuclides?" Felicity asked, unfamiliar with all these medical jargons, obviously more befuddled.

William continued, "Therefore, I used acupuncture to stimulate the meridians in her body again so she could self-heal."

"What about the bees?" Felicity asked again. She was still unhappy about the fact William used the bees to treat Rebecca.

"Radionuclide is a metal element, while bee venom is, categorically, belongs to that of a fire. Theoretically, fire overcomes metal. The use of bees' venom can neutralize the toxin in her body," William explained calmly.

Everyone looked at William, puzzled. To them, at this moment, William was just a man who was babbling nonsense.

Felicity couldn't help but ask, "If it's about radiation, wouldn't she be fine with treatment from a usual hospital?"

William nodded. "Yes, that's why I said that her illness is a small matter."

Felicity's face fell. She could not help but ask again, "Does that mean that there are other available treatment methods?"

William nodded. "Of course."

"Then why did you choose to use the guillotine and bees method?" As soon as Felicity blurted that out, her face became flushed instantly.

Sure enough, like everyone else, Felicity also found that Rebecca looked like a prisoner on the guillotine a while ago.

Rebecca was so furious that she was about to pass out.

"Oh well, it's the cheapest method," William answered.

A wave of fury crashed through Rebecca as she questioned, "Do I look like I need you to save money for me?"

She was so enraged!

Not only was she slapped by this son of a b*tch three times, but she was also humiliated! Besides being stung by countless bees, she was also seen as a prisoner ready to be beheaded!

She had to endure all these humiliations because this good-for-nothing was trying to save money!

Did she seem so poor that she couldn't afford better treatment?!

Everyone looked at William, speechless.

Undoubtedly, William was trying to take his revenge on Rebecca.

However, he had indeed saved Rebecca's life.

Rebecca had no choice but to swallow her anger.
Brilliant!

When Felicity saw that Rebecca was about to blow up in anger, she abruptly changed the topic, "How could she be over-exposed to radionuclide? She basically stays at home all day long. She never comes into contact with any radiations, not even those that are used in the hospitals."

Everyone nodded in unison, and even Rebecca was confused too.

Thereupon, William looked at the dirty stray dog, grinning.

He pointed to the necklace on the stray dog and answered, "The source of the radionuclide is from the Fortune Necklace."

Chapter 194

Everyone looked at the necklace in unison. Their eyes showed surprise and confusion.

How could a necklace be a radioactive source?

At this time, Kaleb barked in anger, "Don't play tricks here! My son bought this necklace with a great amount of money. How could it be a radioactive source? You are slandering us!"

Rebecca shivered and cursed, "Ridiculous! You're just jealous that Darren bought me such a valuable gift. You've been upset about this matter, so you make up such nonsense at this moment!"

Felicity seemed to be lost in thought. She asked in a low voice, "Mom, you started having headaches the moment you wore this necklace, right?"

Rebecca was so pissed that she didn't even listen to what Felicity said. She sneered and criticized, "Both of you are partners in crime. Surely you'll cover up for each other. I don't believe a word you guys say!"

William curled the corner of his mouth and responded, "Fine. If you don't believe me, I'll give this necklace back to you. Try to put it on again for a few more days, then you'll know what I mean."

A chill ran down Rebecca's spine immediately!

Put it on again?

What if it was true?

Thinking of this, she couldn't help but retort, "Hmph, you had had bad intentions since the beginning! Now, you want me to wear this necklace after it's been worn by a dog? Are you trying to humiliate me? I won't let this slide if you don't compensate me with 500,000 yuan!"

The crowd was once again shocked by Rebecca's shamelessness.

At this time, the stray dog let out a cry of pain. Then, its voice became weaker. In the end, it fell onto the ground in the cage.

Everyone was shocked at this sight. Felicity couldn't help but ask, "William, what's going on?"

William shrugged and answered, "The dog's body is not as strong as hers. So after a while, it fainted due to the excessive radiation."

When Rebecca heard that William compared her with a stray dog again, rage beat at her heart once again.

However, at the same time, her whole body could not help trembling when she saw the dog fall to the ground.

No one dared to say that William was talking nonsense.

Rebecca looked at the panicked Kaleb with hatred and questioned furiously, "Kaleb! Explain to me clearly! Why did you and your son want to hurt me?"

Kaleb's expression changed instantly. He waved his hand hastily and explained, "I don't know anything! I really don't know anything. It was Darren who brought it."

"Ask him to come to see me immediately! I'm going to ask him face to face now!" Rebecca hissed fiercely.

Kaleb nodded and responded, "Okay, okay, I am just about to give him a call! I won't spare him if he has evil intentions toward you!"

After that, he called Darren in front of everyone. On the phone, he only told Darren to come to the Genuine Care Medical Center immediately as he wanted to check with him on something.

Darren was still worried that he couldn't find a reason to contact Rebecca and Felicity. Now that he had gotten a perfect chance, he agreed to come instantly.

Dragging his scarred body, he hailed a taxi and rushed to the Genuine Care Medical Center.

He had no idea what awaited him in the Genuine Care Medical Center.

William took a glass box and placed the necklace inside. Then he put the box on the table.

Rebecca's eyes were bloodshot as she stared at the door, waiting for Darren to arrive.

More than ten minutes later, Darren dragged his injured body and appeared in the eyes of everyone.

Darren was stunned when he saw so many people in front of him.

Then, his eyes landed on William.

His edge of anger returned when he saw him.

The humiliation that William had inflicted on him in the past few days was too much for him to bear!

"You son of a b*tch! How dare you appear in front of me! I'll kill you!" Darren shouted. He was about to go over and strangle William.

But at this time, Rebecca rushed to the front of the crowd with a glass box in her hand. She pointed to the necklace inside and asked in a deep voice, "Darren, did you buy this necklace?"

Darren nodded heavily as soon as he saw it. "Yes, yes, yes! I spent more than 500,000 yuan to buy it for you. Do you like it?"

In Darren's opinion, it was a great opportunity to get on Rebecca's good side!

But what he said made Rebecca's expression change drastically.

All of a sudden, she slapped hard on Darren's face that had not recovered from previous injuries. Darren was dumbfounded.

"Auntie, why did you hit me?" he asked.

Previously, Rebecca always thought that Darren was a very handsome, promising guy who had a bright future ahead of him. The more she looked at him, the more she liked him.

However, at this moment, she only felt that Darren was but a repulsive and sly-looking scoundrel!

D*mn it! She had yet to deal with him when he molested her previously!

How dared he even want to kill her now?!

When Rebecca was about to hit him again, Kaleb caught her hand.

Kaleb looked at his son fiercely and roared, "Rebecca, you haven't recovered your strength yet. Let me do it! I'm going to kill this b*stard!"

Then, without giving Darren a chance to speak, he kicked Darren to the ground and added a few more kicks.

Darren's bad luck had never come to an end ever since William hired men to beat him up a few days ago.

Now that he was beaten again, he was consumed with indignation. He retorted, "Dad! Are you out of your mind? I am your son! Why did you hit me?"

"I'm beating you because you are a useless person! How dare you try to harm Rebecca! You even molested her previously! I'll kill you!" Kaleb shouted. He looked far stronger than Darren who was injured.

However, he used all his strength and gave Darren a good beating.

After a few kicks, even the people at the side sympathize with Darren.

No one would harm their own child. Kaleb was really terrifying as he beat Darren up to this extent.

Rebecca couldn't bear to see what was happening, hence she stopped Kaleb and stated, "Stop it. If you continue to beat him, he'll die."

At this time, a thought flashed across Kaleb's mind before he exchanged a look with Darren silently. Then, Kaleb put his feet away and stomped on the floor, pretending to be enraged.

He then muttered helplessly to Rebecca, "I really don't know about this matter. I guess that Darren does not know about it either. He will definitely not harm you. As the saying goes, those who are ignorant are innocent. Besides, he really spent this 500,000 yuan. Can't you see that he wants what's best for you?"

With just a few words, he had cleared Darren's wrongdoing without anyone noticing it.

William smirked as he stood on the side.

Interesting. Apparently, Darren and Kaleb were just putting on an act. By making themselves look bad, they would be able to gain Rebecca's sympathy.

Darren had been with Kaleb for more than 20 years. How could he not know Kaleb's thoughts? He hurried to kneel down to Rebecca, crying as he apologized, "Auntie, I know I was wrong. Since these things had happened now, I can only tell you the truth. Please think about it carefully. How would William, that b*stard, know that there was something strange about this necklace?"

Everyone was stupefied and looked at William.

Could there be some kind of secret behind this?

Darren looked at William fiercely and said with resentment, "William was the one who asked me to give this necklace to you! From beginning to end, it was he who wanted to hurt you!"

Chapter 195

Like thunder striking everyone's ears, Darren's words were deafeningly shocking!

Everyone looked at William in disbelief!

Rebecca gritted her teeth and yelled, "It's you! It's you again! You b*stard! You wanted to poison me from the very beginning! You allow Darren to give the necklace to me on purpose. All thanks to you that I almost died! Besides, you even come and humiliate me here! You are worse than a beast! What did I do to you to deserve this?"

The crowd started to point fingers at William. After all, only William knew that there was radiation in the Fortune Necklace. There was no way for him to prove that he was innocent.

It could only mean that he wanted to kill Rebecca from the very start.

Felicity's face turned pale, but she stood up for William. She denied firmly, "William is not someone who would do this. I know his character. He disdains to do such sinister things."

Darren demanded immediately, "Then ask him to show us the evidence! Prove to us that the necklace does not belong to him! I have the evidence. I received this gift from him while we met in our company's lobby that day. You can check the surveillance cameras if you don't believe me."

Darren was trying to frame William, planning to make William a scapegoat.

Felicity stomped her feet in anger. She bellowed, "Darren! Stop framing William!"

Darren looked at William, who remained silent, unable to suppress a triumphant smile!

Hahaha, he didn't expect that he would vanquish William here!

The truth was he was the one who snatched the necklace from William.

However, he had laid out all his plan. When he retrieved the surveillance video later, he would not reveal the scene of him snatching it from William.

As long as he could prove that the necklace was in William's hands from the very start, William would have to take the blame!

All he needed to do was to say that William stole the Fortune Necklace from the office, it would then prove his innocence. On top of it, it could also ruin William's reputation.

William was doomed!

"Hahaha, you son of a b*tch, how dare you to come against me!"

Darren cheered inwardly, "Just wait and let Rebecca be the end of you!"

But at this time, William's lips curled up into a simper. "Yes, this necklace is in my hand at first."

The scene fell silent at his words.

Everyone looked at William, dumbfounded.

They wondered, "Has this dude been driven into the corner? Is this why he admitted it?"

Rebecca's head went blank. Dizzily, she rebuked, "A thief will always be someone you least expect him to be. Felicity, look at the man you married! He is trying to harm me!"

Felicity's eyes turned red. She looked helplessly at William and asked, "William, there must be something more than meet the eyes, right? Hurry up and tell us now."

William looked at the door and answered smilingly, "Hey, here you are. Come in."

Everyone turned to look at the door.

A woman in a black dress entered the room furiously, her face covered by a mask and sunglasses.

As soon as she came in, she went straight to William and roared, "I'm being too f*cking nice to you, aren't I? If you don't apologize to me now, I will skin you alive!"

The atmosphere at the scene was at a standstill. Felicity's heart was about to jump out of her chest.

It seemed like another enemy of William was looking for him for payback.

What should they react ?

Laura dashed towards William and grabbed his collar, looking as if she wanted to bite him to death.

Well, it was only right for Laura to react in this way!

This little b*stard had actually summoned Laura, a famous celebrity, like summoning a nobody. Needless to say, no one would be able to stand him!

Laura was blabbering at William to vent her anger when Darren stepped forward and said to Laura, "Hey, where did you come from? Can't you see that I'm teaching this b*stard a lesson? First come, first serve. Understand?" Darren was apparently irked by Laura.

It was not easy for Darren to get a chance to get back at William. He did not want the focus to change because of Laura who appeared out of nowhere.

Laura looked at Darren, her slight frown hidden under her sunglasses. Darren felt familiar to her. However, she could not recall his name.

She looked at Darren, who was simpering smugly despite his face being covered with scars. She stepped aside temporarily and responded indifferently, "Okay, you first."

Well, she was delighted to have someone to teach William a lesson.

She did not expect that William would cause so much trouble. He definitely deserved a good beating!

Frankly, Laura could not wait to see how Darren would mete out the punishment that this little b*stard deserved.

Darren raised the glass box in William's hand and hissed fiercely, "Everyone is waiting for your explanation! If you don't explain it clearly to us today, we will never let you go."

William glanced at Laura calmly and asked, "You want an explanation, don't you? Fine, someone gave me this thing too."

Laura looked at the glass box, stunned.

Was this not the Fortune Necklace that she asked Linda to buy for William as a present?

She still remembered how surprised she was when Linda sent her the photo of the necklace.

She could not find any flaws with the design of the necklace. It left an unforgettable impression on her.

Certainly, she would never forget this necklace.

However, what exactly happened here?

Why did Darren take the necklace she had given to William as a tool to question him?

She became curious before she asked the person around her what had happened quietly.

The nurse next to her was positively excited as she quickly briefed Laura everything that had happened.

Laura was in great shock!

She did not expect this necklace was so diabolical!

If she really got William in trouble, what should she do?

Although she was indeed angry at William, she could never bring herself to hurt anyone if given the chance to. Her conscience would never forgive her if she did.

Meanwhile, Darren continued his interrogation, "Haha, why did you stop? Why don't you tell us who gave it to you? Haha, you can't tell, right? Well, I am sure that the person who gave you the necklace must also be a villain like you!"

Laura was still in a dilemma as to whether she should stand up for William and clarify the truth.

However, at this moment, Laura blew up instantly at Darren's words!

How dared he say that she was a villain like William who was just a little security guard! She was a world-famous celebrity!

Darren did not have any idea who he was dealing with, did he?!

"Well, if you can't show us any evidence, then I'll show mine! I'm very familiar with the security guards of Lunanica Media. I'll ask them to get me the surveillance video and prove my innocence," said Darren. When he pushed William in the corner, he guffawed, finally feeling a sense of great relief.

Right then, a smile once again spread across William's face. "Sorry, I do want to explain it to you. But, I think there is a person who is more suitable to explain this situation than me. Would you like to listen to her instead?"

Towards the end of William's sentence, his gaze fell on Laura.

Laura's hair stood on end when he stared at her!

What kind of gaze was that?!

His gaze was conveying a message, "If you don't help me, I won't treat you again in the future!"

D*mn it!

Thinking of this, Laura was so exasperated that she was about to collapse!

She came all the way here not to be threatened by him again!

She cursed in her heart and braced herself to walk towards the crowd.

When Darren mentioned Lunanica Media a while ago, Laura finally recalled who he was.

Hmph, since he was an employee of Lunanica Media, then...

Slap!

VAMP20 WORLD

Chapter 196

"Darren, right? Before I explain the situation, I'd need an explanation from you first."

Laura glared at Darren, incensed. "When did I become a villain in your eyes?"

Laura's slap on Darren's face shocked the entire crowd!

Everyone looked at Laura who appeared out of nowhere, dumbfounded. To them, Laura was definitely speaking alien as for a moment, they had no clue what was going on.

Who was this woman?

Having being slapped again, Darren was positively irate. His cheek was glowing red as memories of him being humiliated resurfaced before him.

What the f*ck!

"Not any Tom, Dick, or Harry could just slap me, Darren Liu, whenever they like!"

Darren glowered at Laura, his blood boiling.

Darren raised his hand high and cursed fiercely, "You are f*cking digging at your own grave!"

At this moment, Laura took off her sunglasses, her cold eyes sparkling with a hint of fury. She questioned, "If you have the guts, why don't you try hitting me?"

Darren felt as if his heart was deeply pricked by a needle at the sight of those eyes. His legs went soft, and he fell to his knees!

He looked at Laura in disbelief!

Darren could not see who she was a while ago because most parts of her face were covered.

Now that she had revealed her eyes...

Darren could finally tell who she was. He could not be more familiar with this pair of eyes!

She was Laura Koo, the most highly regarded star of Lunanica Media!

She was so respected that people often addressed her as Sister Koo!

Why was she here?

"S-s-sister Koo..." Darren greeted, his body began to tremble.

Laura was definitely one of the most powerful people in the company.

Even if she did not participate in the company's management, everyone in the company would show reverence to her.

She was definitely one of the most aloof stars in the company.

"Hmph, so you do know me? I thought that you were blind." Laura tittered in a cold voice.

Darren broke out in a cold sweat. "Sister Koo, I really didn't know it was you. Why are you here?"

The people at the scene did not even dare to breathe!

They wondered, "Who was this woman who Darren called her Sister Koo?"

"How could Darren, who was so arrogant earlier, chicken out in a blink of an eye?"

Laura looked at Darren and said flatly, "I gave this necklace to William. How did it end up in your hands? Did William choose to give it to you, or did you snatch it from him?"

When the people around heard this, they gasped softly.

They were right; the things were not as simple as it seemed to be!

There was more to the story!

At the moment, Darren's face was as pallid as a sheet of paper. He knew that he was now a piece of dead meat since he had offended Laura. He did not even dare to mutter another word!

Laura continued, "Didn't you say you wanted to get the surveillance video? Alright, I'll get it."

Hearing this, Darren could hear his head buzzing. He immediately replied pitifully, "Sister Koo, I admit it. I snatched this necklace from William. But I really didn't know that you were the one who gave it to William. I thought he stole it from somewhere else."

The crowd roared as Darren admitted his fault.

Who knew that Darren snatched this necklace from William!

Very well!

Not only did he snatch the necklace from someone, but he was so shameless that he used it as a gift for Rebecca!

Moreover, he even claimed that he spent more than 500,000 yuan on it!

Darren was truly despicable!

Rebecca was so pissed off that her teeth were jittering.

She had been disappointed with Darren. For a while ago, she had been hoping to make use of Darren to teach William a lesson.

Her hope amounted to nothing again!

D*mn it! Who was this woman?

Rebecca stared hatefully at Laura. The more she looked at Laura, the more she felt that Laura looked familiar.

She had seen Laura from somewhere.

After telling the truth, Darren, who was on the ground, looked at Laura in fear.

Laura was looking down at him condescendingly, giving off an unwelcoming aura.

At this moment, Darren's heart was filled with doubts.

Why would William know Laura?

He was just a security guard!

Laura was way more superior than him! No way that they would know each other.

She even gave such a valuable gift to William!

Although this necklace could bring detrimental effects to one's health, no one would be able to deny the fact that it was indeed an exorbitant gift.

Besides giving William a present, she even came here to look for William?

This was unbelievable!

Could there be some kind of secret between the two of them?

At the thought of this, Darren's eyes lit up.

If he dug into this further, he might find some breaking news that would shake the whole entertainment industry!

Then, this exceedingly gorgeous woman would have no choice but to kneel at his feet and beg him not to expose the scandal.

Huh!

Darren's heart fired up.

He looked at Laura, his eyes burning.

This was Laura!

Well, she was indeed less attractive than Felicity. However, it was an undeniable fact that she was a popular star!

Any man would have a strong desire to subjugate a girl like her.

Moreover, she was a celebrity who never cared about men.

This characteristic of hers drove people crazier.

Darren instantly let out a deafening scream as he bent over with his hands on his stomach.

Laura had long noticed the fiery in his gaze for a long time.

She cursed inwardly, "Such a reckless b*stard. You're planning your own destruction!"

Laura made a step backward and stood in front of William coldly, asking, "Are you satisfied now?"

William smiled faintly and replied, "Not bad. It's just that you talked too much nonsense."

Laura was so furious that she gritted her teeth.

She just taught Darren a lesson on William's behalf. How could he not show any appreciation?

And on top of that, he even complained about her!

"So, can you go with me now?" Laura asked, suppressing her anger.

William raised his eyebrows and answered, "Not yet."

He knew things would not end that easily.

As he expected, Rebecca, who was still deep in thoughts, caught Laura standing in front of William. Suddenly, a picture came across her mind.

She suddenly remembered who Laura was!

She rushed towards Felicity and pulled her aside before she pointed at William and reproached, "Felicity, I finally remembered who this little b*tch is! Didn't I tell you a few days ago that I ran into William and saw him cheating? He was with this woman! I can recognize her even if her body was cremated!"

Felicity was stunned. Rebecca had indeed told her about it before, but she did not take it to heart.

Now that Laura had appeared again, Felicity could not help but study Laura carefully. Besides, Laura even gave William such an expensive gift.

Felicity thought, "She's trying to take William away right in front of me, isn't she?"

Was it because...

Felicity felt a wave of jealousy welling up her heart.

Hmph, here came another little sly b*tch again, just like Melissa!

Why were there so many women who wanted to seduce her husband?

Felicity swore to keep William close in the future to prevent all these little sly b*tches away from him!

Darren, who was at one corner, overheard their conversation. "Cheating?"

Haha! So it really was!

This was getting interesting!

It was definitely worth his time to dig out more secrets!

Rebecca then reproached Laura, "Where did you come from, you little b*tch? Don't you have any shame? How dare you show up in public? Are the mistresses nowadays so arrogant?"

"Slap!" Laura slapped Rebecca on the face, enraged.

Then, she took her mask off in front of everyone.
