

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 185

Mr Harper immediately apologized when he saw that Daniel was angry, “Who doesn’t know about the great Master Levine? My daughter is young and has been frightened, so her mental state isn’t steady lately. Please don’t take her words to heart!”

Daniel’s mood became a little better.

On the sidelines, Sophia sneakily laughed. Half of Kayla’s words are right. Daniel is really just a quack, but how did she arrive at the conclusion that I’m having an affair with him?

When Kayla saw that Sophia was laughing sneakily with a proud face, a raging anger suddenly burst out of her—she wanted to rush over and kill her!

He further explained, “Your daughter lacks the element of metal, so it’s impossible to change her fate. Now, I have three methods for you to consider.”

The entire Harper Family quickly raised their ears to listen.

He continued speaking, “The first method is to abandon your daughter. You must sever all ties with her and let her destroy herself. From now on, you must not interfere with anything that involves her.”

Everyone in the Harper Family looked at each other. Abandon the daughter? How is this possible?

Kayla's face suddenly paled out of the fear that her parents would believe the quack and throw her out of the family.

Upon seeing the way the Harpers reacted, Daniel knew that it wasn't a viable method, so he smiled and recommended a second option. "Mr. Harper, your daughter is destined to eat away at your wealth. If you don't marry your daughter off and let her ruin another family, you will continue to lose your wealth in the end!"

Everyone in the Harper Family was even more frustrated. How can we marry her off when her reputation is terrible lately? Even though we've covered all the scandals up, rumors about her mental illness have still leaked out. Who will be willing to marry an insane person?

Mr. Harper was getting anxious as he hurriedly urged Daniel. "Master Levine, don't keep us waiting anymore. Please tell us if there is another way!"

Daniel pretended to meditate for a long time before responding, "Naturally, there is a third method!" He then pulled out a world map and explained, "The world consists of five continents. Corresponding with the five elements of metal, wood, water, fire and earth, Asia is earth, Europe is fire, Africa is metal, America is wood, and Oceania is water. Among them, Africa is metal. Therefore, you need to send your daughter to Africa for a year or two so that the lack of metal in her life force can be naturally mended."

Once that was said, Sophia and everyone in the Harper Family was shocked.

The five continents that correspond with metal, wood, water, fire and earth... Who invented this theory?!

She was left in awe as she had a deeper understanding of Daniel's ability to spew nonsense. Will anyone believe in this kind of nonsense? There are really people who believe in it!

Mr. Harper patted his thigh and fiercely shook Daniel's hand. "Master Levine, you are really our savior. We initially planned to send Kayla to Africa for a few months! I can't believe our thoughts are the same as yours!"

They wanted to project a good image for Kayla—and the best way would be through charity, a donation to the School of Hope, volunteer as a teacher in the underdeveloped mountain areas, or head to Africa as a volunteer.

They had already signed Kayla up for a volunteer project in Africa. The living conditions there were very difficult, so they planned to send her over for a few months to suffer. After her return, they would send a draft of her speech for a few days to public relations to clear her image.

At that moment, she was exasperated to the point where she wanted to cry. She initially threatened her family with suicide when they wanted to send her over to Africa. Just when she was about to change their mind, Daniel's words today only made her travel to Africa inevitable, whether she liked it or not.

The Harpers grabbed Daniel's hand and thanked him while paying him millions of 'introduction fee'. When he was about to leave, Kayla's eyes revealed that she couldn't wait to kill him and Sophia. This must be part of Sophia's scheme! She planned all of this with Daniel!

The moment they left the Harper Family, Daniel had a look at the message that was sent to his cellphone. The millions that the Harpers paid him had already been transferred into his bank account, so he put his phone away contentedly while calling Sophia, "Mrs. Fletcher—"

"Hmph!" She grunted because she couldn't get the issue about her reputation out of her chest.

As soon as she exited the room, she found Michael. He was already done with his game of mahjong and now waited for her in the lounge with Nathan. When Michael saw her coming out, he said to her with consideration, "You're done?"

She nodded her head as she felt good watching Daniel mess around with the Harpers. Not only did they lose their beloved house, but they were also sending their daughter to Africa as a volunteer. She took the initiative to approach him and ask, "Hubby, what are we having tonight?"

Michael naturally grabbed her shoulders. "What do you want to eat?"

Sophia thought about it. "I want to eat hot pot! Lamb with hot pot is the best thing to have during winter!"

He smiled and kissed her cheek. "Let's go."

Michael held Nathan with one hand and Sophia with the other as they walked out.

After that, he called Hale to make a reservation at the restaurant. Even though Nathan was stoic, it was obvious that he was happy as he gently hopped around when he walked. After all, he was merely a kid, so it was hard for him to conceal his happiness on his face, no matter how cold he usually looked.

The family of three drove to the restaurant to eat. On the way there, she excitedly thought about what she wanted to do with the Harper's Mansion in the future. Michael already had his phone with him, so he sent the pictures that they took today to his Messenger.

Therefore, his gay friends were able to see his daily interaction with his wife again. Back then, he would send pictures of his son from time to time, but now, he keeps flashing pictures of his wife for no reason. He has finally become insane.

When Sophia took a look at her Messenger, she saw that he had posted a bunch of pictures of the three of them in the Harper's Mansion, as if they were strolling around the park.

She quietly gave it a like.

The family of three were having a good time, but on the other side, the same cannot be said of the Harper Family.

They had already moved into the copycat real estate that they developed—The Luxurious 16—but the new house was not as good as the Harper’s Mansion. Back then, Kayla had the best room in the entire mansion and she even had a little traditional wooden building all to herself, but she had nothing at that moment. The best room in the house had been given to Richard and Xyla as their matrimonial room. Moreover, her family was still trying to send her to Africa.

Kayla had smashed all the antiques and vases in the house, leaving Mr. Harper with no choice but give his beloved daughter a slap. Finally, she stopped.

She felt that she had lost everything the moment her father slapped her. It’s all because of Sophia! If it isn’t for her, I will not have fallen to this point! Sophia Edwards!

Richard’s recent family affairs gave him a headache. Once he was done with a pile of work, he thought about Sophia, so he quickly gave her a call.

It was only in that moment that he knew how to appreciate her. When he reflected on the days that they were together, she always seemed strong and independent. She always took care of him and he did not need to worry about anything else whenever he was with her because she would never cause trouble for him. If only Kayla and Xyla were as thoughtful as her.

Sophia had thrown her phone aside and took a bath after returning home. Therefore, his phone call was answered by Michael again.

As soon as the call was connected, Richard’s emotional voice came through. “Sophia, thank you so much for today. If it hadn’t been for you, we wouldn’t have been able to meet Master Levine so soon... My parents are very satisfied with you, but my sister is in trouble now. What my mother meant was that if you can manipulate your connection with Joel to help Kayla or any bachelorette in the Harper Family to hook up with the Fletchers... In that case, my family’s position will be strengthened and your position in the family will also be even higher. Maybe my mother can even allow you to bear my son. In the future, our son will be able to inherit a part of the Harper Family's fortune."

Michael was rendered speechless as he listened to Richard's words.
