

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 698

Even though Stanley, Sean, Sarah, Nathan, and several nannies and bodyguards were also gathered around the television, Michael could only see Sophia and Sam.

Heaps of awards would be presented at the awards ceremony today. Last year, an arthouse film that Michael starred in received multiple nominations. Michael was also nominated for the Best Actor award. The film informed the public of and criticized drug trafficking. Michael took on the role of a perverse murderer that was also a gambling-addict. With his refined acting skills, he led the whole film as the main actor in portraying the progression of a righteous policeman who turned into a despondent murderer due to drugs. The film garnered massive global attention and influence.

It also won countless awards. This time, Michael was once again nominated for multiple awards. With this film, he might get his second Best Actor award.

Hence, Sophia came home early today to watch the live broadcast. Sam had come over to see Corrado again when he ended up staying for dinner and watching the Oscars live broadcast with them.

He was wearing a pair of new pajamas that Michael had never worn before. It was part of a matching set with Sophia and Nathan, making the three of them look like a family.

Sam was even chatting and laughing away with Sophia.

Moreover, he was sitting in Michael's favorite spot!

He was blatantly stepping over his boundaries.

Michael could not help but feel bothered by it.

He wanted more than anything to fly home this instant and grab hold of Sam.

But, Sophia was still eagerly watching the live broadcast; he could not leave just yet. In the meantime, he could only suppress his jealousy.

*Just you wait, you b*stard!*

Suppressing his anger, he made a phone call and said, "Go home right now."

It was very noisy on the other end of the phone—there was a disorderly and chaotic clamor. It was evident that this person had a very enriching nightlife.

"There are a lot of young, handsome men at home," Michael added, then ended the call.

Shortly after, his face appeared in the surveillance footage at home.

Sam was shocked to see Michael come home, but soon realized when he did not see an Adam's apple that it was Celine Fletcher, Michael's sister.

She was dressed in shabby clothes. Her hair had grown out and was styled in layers on her forehead, making her look rather youthful.

Hearing that there were many young, handsome men at home, she quickly headed home and found that it was true.

Not only were Stanley and Sean there, Derek had also come over and so did Sam, an older handsome man.

“Cece, you’re back,” Sophia greeted her. Celine hugged Sophia’s shoulders and brushed over her tender cheeks before she replied, “I’m back.”

When Celine came home, she started acting flirty as she hugged Sophia all the way into the house and sat between her and Sam.

As expected, Sam looked slightly annoyed.

He knew about Celine and that Michael had such an eccentric sister.

For some time, Taylor kept getting caught on camera for going in and out of nightclubs, and even hitting people. People assumed that the great Best Actor had been destroyed and his reputation was ruined. But, several tabloids reported earlier on that Taylor had a twin sister, and that the person at those nightclubs was his sister.

Nonetheless, Taylor remained low-key on the matter and did not speak up on it. Later, various rumors started to spread and further complicate the issue. Sam, however, figured that perhaps it was all a smoke screen and that Taylor was actually the one who went out and messed around. His sister was simply a scapegoat and an excuse for him to clear his name.

*That dirtbag Taylor is not good enough for Cooper Mitchell’s daughter. Cooper and Annabel’s daughter has to be with a man who is unrivaled and flawless, not a tainted sc*m like Taylor with numerous sex scandals! If Lucy disapproved of him, how could he be a good fit for Sophia? He’s not good enough for her.*

Currently, in the living room, Celine was taking a very subtle stance. The spot that originally belonged to Michael where Sam was sitting in before had now been forcefully taken over by Celine. After Sam got pushed aside, Celine sat down and started flirting with him.

She presumptuously pinched his face and praised, “Oh, who is this hunk? I haven’t seen him before. Is he here just for me?”

The atmosphere in the room changed when she pinched him. Justin, who had tagged along with her, almost grabbed for a knife while Sam’s face clouded over.

After Justin silently pulled Celine’s frolicking hand back, Sophia quickly said, “This is a friend of mine. A friend.”

On the inside, she was quietly hoping that Celine would behave herself.

However, Celine was very interested in Sam. She reached out again to lift his chin and teased, “Oh, he’s a sight for sore eyes! I like him!”

Sam was very unhappy now. With a straight face, he flicked Celine’s hand away and said, “I’m Sam Edwards, the 9th Old Master of the Edwards Family.”

Celine should have understood right away when he made himself clear, but that did not seem to be the case as she inched closer and made eyes at him. “Oh! Are you angry? Wow. You look really good when you’re angry too! I love this side of you.”

Astonished, Sophia quickly pulled her back. “Cece, the live broadcast is about to start soon. Let’s watch it!”

If Celine irritates him further, we will lose our investment.

Finally, the live broadcast started. Celine behaved herself and focused on watching the broadcast. After all, it was another pinnacle in Michael’s life.

When the awards ceremony began, filmmakers and movie actors from all around the world started walking in on the red carpet. Michael and Harry also showed up on the scene.

Michael reached a whole new level of attractiveness with his new hairstyle. He looked like a prince as he stood tall and handsome on the red carpet. Just by subtly lifting his hand, raising his eyebrows, and pursing his lips, he exuded an unparalleled manner and elegance.

As the hot topic at this year's Oscars, he stood in the limelight and was the most dazzling figure present, gaining the attention of everyone who was watching.

Sophia was almost intoxicated by the sight of him. While she looked at him intently, she was also playing with Judge's ear excitedly.

My idol is too handsome!

Meanwhile, Sam had been unhappy ever since Celine flirted with him, but seeing Michael put Sophia in a daze during the live broadcast made him even unhappier.

He always thought that Michael and Sophia did not truly love each other, and that Sophia had gotten fooled by him. That dirtbag does not have any pure intentions. He took advantage of Sophia's young and naïve nature and fooled her. When she grows up in a few years, she will regret marrying someone like him.

On television, Michael was so dazzling that it was a bit difficult to look at him.
