

Chapter 11

"Miriam, you can't borrow it!" Sophia was very determined, "The bank won't lend you money, and you don't have a house to sell, and the friends around you are even poorer, with a huge sum of two million. Where do you get from? do?"

"Do you think he cares about your relationship with Bryan? Oh, I'm afraid you have noticed it yourself. If he cares about you, he won't be married for so many years, and he won't take you to the company to meet colleagues."

Sophia smiled, and continued: "It's ridiculous to say that I have been in the company for more than a year, but everyone doesn't know that Bryan is married. Are you ridiculous?"

It was this simple sentence that crushed the fortress in Miriam's heart.

Funny, why not?

It was a joke since she married Bryan. There was no wedding, only a marriage certificate and the contract he made, and she was married like that.

"Miriam, stop deceiving yourself." Sophia took two steps forward, looking down, with an arrogant attitude: "Bryan doesn't love you, and the gap between you and him is more than a little bit."

Miriam raised her head to look at Sophia: "When did you stay together and live together?"

Sophia didn't expect Miriam to ask this, but she was stunned, but she didn't say anything, as if pushing everything to Miriam, it just depends on what Miriam thinks.

Miriam smiled, probably all understood, and took out the banknote that Sophia was holding, folded it up and tore it hard.

Fold it three times and tore the banknote to pieces. Raising her hand and throwing it on Sophia's body, her voice was soft: "Marriage, I will leave Bryan, but you can keep this banknote for yourself."

Miriam slammed her shoulder away, and strode away.

No matter how well-bred, Sophia's face was embarrassed, and she shouted at Miriam: "You really don't know what's good or bad!"

Miriam ignored it.

After sending Mother Lu back to his residence, the lawyer called and asked Miriam if he had raised the money. The trial will start in a few days. Miriam said that he must hung up as soon as possible and sighed.

She really regretted that she had known that she would not tear the check so arrogantly. Anyway, she and Bryan are going to divorce. What's wrong with taking Sophia two million for nothing?

Mother Lu asked carefully: "Miriam, is the lawyer urging you?"

"It's okay, I can solve it." Miriam smiled, letting Mother Lu relax, "You help me pack my clothes, I'll go out shopping, and come back to make dinner for you, okay?"

"Miriam, don't be too embarrassed. There is no other way. Your dad will go to jail for a few years at most, but your mom is just a daughter and you don't want you to have a bad life."

"Mom, don't worry, I have a sense of measure."

Miriam repeatedly promised that she would not do anything stupid, and this comforted Mother Lu.

After leaving the house, he took out a business card from his pocket and dialed it with his mobile phone: "Brother, do you have time?"

Less than ten minutes after Miriam arrived at the agreed coffee shop, she also came southeast.

He was holding a pink and tender little loli in his arms, about four or five years old, soft and very cute.

After sitting down to the southeast, he smiled helplessly: "Sorry, Tian Tian was a little upset in the afternoon. I went to the kindergarten to pick it up. There was a traffic jam on the road."

"It's okay." Miriam glanced at Little Lolita, "Your daughter is very cute."

Tian Tian seemed to be a little afraid of life. She kept hiding in Xiang Dongnan's arms, and when she asked her to shout to the Southeast, she was also unwilling, but occasionally looked at Miriam with those round eyes.

Miriam looked at it with some envy.

She had just married Bryan at that meeting. Every time she saw someone holding a child in her hands, she was very envious, and she racked her brains to figure out ways, such as poke holes in the sleeve, or Shen Bryan drank alcohol to seduce him in an attempt to get him by accident. child.

Bryan was more shrewd than she thought. He would reveal as many things as she did, so that she wouldn't be fooling around. He said that if she doesn't have a child within four years, he won't want it.

Isn't it? Don't do it within four years, they will divorce after four years.

Chapter 12

Miriam thinks she is quite stupid when she thinks about it. How could a man who doesn't love herself have a child? She has lost her plan and failed, otherwise she will have a child and will not have a complete family.

"I'm afraid you won't be enough, so I wrote 2.5 million." To the southeast, he took out a check to Miriam.

Miriam didn't pretend, and took it directly. After confirming, he took out a pen and paper from his bag and wrote an IOU to Xiang Dongnan: "Brother, I will try my best to return it to you within a year."

"This is nothing more than a small amount of money to me." Xiang Dongnan pushed the IOU back and smiled: "Besides, that's also my teacher. You can pay back the money you borrowed, don't worry."

"No, if you don't accept the IOU, I won't borrow the money." Seeing Xiang Nan's behavior, Miriam simply pushed the check back and stood firm.

Xiang Southeast had to fold the IOU and put it in his pocket: "Then I will accept it, but the interest will be ignored."

Miriam wanted to say something, rushing to the southeast to speak in front of her, half-jokingly said: "You have to really feel sorry, otherwise you have time to teach Tian Tian to read words, you should offset the interest, she is a little disgusted to go to kindergarten."

Miriam thought for a while and agreed, "Okay, anyway, I used to study very well."

"That is, I got to Beijing University for the first time in the province!" Xiang Dongnan also followed with a smile.

Miriam was grateful for borrowing money from Dongqian. Originally, she wanted to invite him to have a good meal. When she left, Xiangdong received a call from the company and asked him to go back and have a look, "I'll have dinner next time, maybe this time there's no way."

"It's okay, brother, do you go ahead." Miriam said he could understand.

After watching Xiang Dongnan hugging Tian Tian and leaving, Miriam also left and went to the supermarket to buy vegetables. When she returned to the community, she unexpectedly saw Bryan's car. He himself was leaning against the car and his face was slightly dark.

"Why did you come here?" Miriam stood still one meter away, and at the same time of questioning, she regretted in her heart. She had long known that she had rented a house to Mother Lu, so she would not tell Bryan her mother's address.

When Bryan turned his head to see Miriam, his face darkened again, and he strode forward, almost questioning in his tone: "Why are you packing up your clothes and not living there?"

"That's your house, and I don't need to live anymore." Miriam said, avoiding the importance as much as possible: "And my mother often suffers from insomnia. I came over to take better care of her."

"What about this, what's the matter?" Bryan held the document in front of Miriam's eyes. The cover was dazzling with the words 'Divorce Letter', and he was not too upset.

There are so many things in the company that he realized that it was already afternoon when he was finished.

He felt that Miriam should have been discharged from the hospital on his own, bought some vegetables and went back, but the house was extremely quiet and there was no sound at all.

It wasn't until he entered the bedroom and saw an empty table that he found that Miriam had packed everything that belonged to her. There were only two coats left in the closet, and there was a divorce letter signed by Miriam on the bedside table.

Inexplicably, he was a little flustered, and he didn't even know why Miriam did this.

Haven't you been fine after three years of marriage?

He dialed the phone very quickly, and he didn't know if Miriam had blacked him out, and no one answered after making a few calls. He kicked the closet with great anger, and his irritability grew.

Later, after calming down, Bryan thought that Miriam had said to rent a house for Lu Mu before, and gave him the address. He immediately went to the drawer and searched for the small note. After finding the small note, he drove straight to the community where Lu Mu lived. I don't know exactly which floor Lu Mu lives on, so she has been waiting downstairs.

"That's what you see." Miriam glanced at the divorce letter, and said calmly: "I want to divorce you."

"Miriam, you!" Bryan's calm expression made Bryan very irritable. She stretched out her hand and grabbed her wrist hard. The bag in Miriam's hand fell and the vegetables spilled all over the floor. "It hasn't been four years, why are you? divorce?"

"I'm tired, I don't want to live it!" After a day of depression, Miriam also broke out and stared at him: "What if we don't love each other again, and the divorce is wrong?"

Before Bryan said anything, Miriam went on to ask, "Bryan, have you ever loved me?"

