

The Amazing Son In Law Chapter 3683

Unexpectedly, everyone had been knocking for a long time, and Charlie hadn't even said a word until now.

No way, none of them dared to stop, they could only knock their heads one after another, one by one, their foreheads turned blue and purple.

But Charlie's sister-in-law, Aaliyah, was a little bit overwhelmed, and said, "charlie...If you knock down like this, you will die..."

Charlie shook his head and said faintly: "Don't worry, sister, one of these people counts as one, all of them are timid and incompetent rats, otherwise they can't sneak out to buy filial clothes last night! Since all of them are so scared! Death, why would you knock yourself to death here? This is not logical."

As he said, he clearly saw that Jon Wade's kowtow was obviously a lot less powerful. At first glance, he was refilling the count, so he said coldly: "Sister, have you seen Jon Wade? His forehead is just kissing the ground, not at all. I can't see the effort!"

As soon as Jon Wade heard this, he was shocked with a cold sweat on his back, and he slammed his head down, grinning with pain!

Charlie turned to look at Lord Wade and asked, "Grandpa, who is in charge of the various businesses of the Wade Family nowadays?"

Lord Wade said: "The core business of the Wade Family is basically the responsibility of the manager team. At the beginning, your dad was worried that the members of the family would be unlearned, so he insisted on setting up an elite professional manager team. The most common grassroots employees are basically recruited from the business schools of top schools. Almost all middle and high-level employees come from Fortune 500 companies or top venture capital institutions."

"In addition, we also have a very professional elite lawyer team responsible for all legal affairs of the Wade Family."

"Oh yes, in addition to these two sectors, there is also a trust team responsible for putting the part of the cash that the family does not use into the family trust for investment and management."

Charlie pointed to the row of kneeling kowtows on the ground in surprise, and asked, "Aren't these people doing anything?"

Lord Wade shook his head and said, "The Wade Family wants to be really responsible for them, I am afraid that they will fall long ago! They are all suspended, with vice chairman, general manager, and director, but in fact they do not need to be responsible for business and decision-making. Small decisions are made internally by the manager team, and big decisions are basically made by me, but you will make the final decisions in the future."

Charlie nodded and said lightly: "Since these people are of no practical use, then just take them away from the Wade Group, not bothering to see and not to worry."

Knocking his head and fainting, Corran immediately got up and blurted out when he heard this, "Charlie...you...where are you going to get us?!"

Charlie said, "Don't worry, I won't let you go far."

Charlie said again, "Don't you like wearing linen and filial piety? Since you are so filial, then I will ask someone to install a few simple board houses for you at the foot of Yeling Mountain. Among you, all of you are 18 years old. For the above, or those who are no longer in school, one of them is counted as one, and all of them will stay here for the three years of filial piety to the ancestors of the Wade Family!"

"In the past three years, I will ask someone to put electronic shackles on you and monitor your position 24 hours a day. No one can leave Yeling Mountain for half a step!"

When Jon Wade heard this, he almost passed out and wailed feebly: "Charlie...you can't be so vicious, Charlie! I'm your cousin! It's Wade's grandson! You can't imprison me. On Yeling Mountain!"

Charlie nodded, and said: "People say that the shot is shot, your IQ is really a bit worrying."

After he finished speaking, he immediately said to Lord Banks: "It just so happens that you are going to the local host in Madagascar, and when that time comes, take this guy with him and let him work as a long-term job for you for three years!"

Upon hearing this, Jon Wade collapsed on the spot, crying and said: "Charlie, I am willing to keep filial piety to the ancestors and ancestors in Yeling Mountain! I am the eldest son and grandson, how can Shouxiao be without me..."

Charlie waved his hand: "Don't take yourself too seriously. Shou Xiao can do without you. Without you, you will be ashamed, and your ancestor's face will look better."

After speaking, he said coldly: "Jon Wade, from now on, if you bargain with me again, I will change three years into six years!"

Jon Wade wailed and collapsed to the ground on the spot.

Corran loves his son, but he also loves himself, so he quickly asked, "You let us be here to keep our filial piety to our ancestors for three years. What about our eating and drinking expenses?"

Charlie said indifferently: "Your food and drink costs, I will ask someone to send it to you regularly."

Corran asked again: "Then... what if you get sick?"

Charlie said blankly: "If you are sick, I will arrange for a doctor from Hospital to come and treat you! If any of you is seriously ill and needs surgery or hospitalization, I will build a field hospital for you at the foot of Yeling Mountain! In short, in the next three years, even if the sky falls, you cannot leave Yeling Mountain without my permission!"
