It may take some preparation time, but I don't want him to stay in the country, so I will arrange for him and his entourage, as well as Jon Wade from the Wade Family, to travel to Madagascar by ship, which may cost twenty. About days."

After speaking, Charlie said to Zara banks: "In these twenty days, Miss banks can arrange an investment team to fly to Madagascar first to find a piece of land for him, and then buy some other hardware, so that when he arrives, He can be his landlord in Madagascar."

Zara banks nodded quickly and said, "Good benefactor, I understand!"

Charlie continued: "As for Zayne, I will bother Mr. elms to bring him back to Aurous Hill for residential surveillance. Don't go on any business trips."

Lord Elms (Wilfred) immediately said, "MR. Wade, don't worry, it will be done next!"

After simply thanking all his relatives and friends, Charlie asked Stephen Thompson to prepare the car. Then he came to the lonely Helena and said, "Helena, are you ready? Let's set off when we are ready."

Helena nodded obediently, stood up, and whispered: "Back to MR. Wade, I'm ready."

Charlie nodded slightly, beckoned and said, "Let's go, the car and the plane are waiting."

Lord Wade stepped forward and asked with concern: "Charlie, do you go by yourself? How many people do you not bring with you?"

Charlie shook his head and said, "No, I can do it myself."

Seeing Charlie's resolute attitude, Lord Wade nodded and said, "Then you must be careful. We are waiting for you in Eastcliff."

Charlie exhorted: "Tomorrow those collateral relatives of the Wade Family will come, just let Abbas come forward, and the Wade Family won't have to show up, especially you."

Lord Wade said hurriedly: "Don't worry, I know."

Charlie bid farewell to everyone, and then he and Helena got into the Les Rice sedan prepared by Stephen Thompson.

Half an hour later, Rolls-Royce drove directly into the airport and went straight to the hangar where the Concorde was parked.

Helena still didn't know what kind of method Charlie was going to use to help herself regain the throne. She couldn't help asking several times, but seeing that Charlie had been closing her eyes and rested, she could only hold back the impulse.

When Rolls-Royce was about to enter the hangar, Charlie slowly opened his eyes, looked at Helena next to him, and asked: "Helena, do you usually play short video software?"

"Playing..." Helena didn't know why Charlie asked, but she said respectfully: "Hua Xia's popular short video software is also very, very famous overseas. Men, women and children like it, and I am no exception. "

"Okay." Charlie nodded, handed her a mobile phone, and said: "Log in to your short video software account, take a video, and say that you are very happy now, because you are ready to take the Concorde airliner and rush back to Northern Europe to participate. Sister Olivia's wedding!"

"Ah?!" Helena was startled, and said nervously: "Ye...MR. Wade...If I post the video now, then...Isn't it a self-inflicted trap?"

Charlie smiled slightly: "What you want is to cast yourself into the net. Don't worry, as long as you make this video public, Olivia will definitely not dare to do it on you before tomorrow's wedding, because if you don't appear in her tomorrow At the wedding, everyone will ask her where you are."

Speaking of this, Charlie continued: "Ancient Greek Odipides famously said: God wants to destroy it, must first make it crazy, if you want Olivia to lose even more If it's a bit miserable, let her feel that she has a chance to win!"
