

Chapter 1343

Lori was so angry at that weirdo that she felt as if her lungs were going to explode!

However, the weirdo raised his hands and handed her his 20 million dollars worth of savings to Lori. "Lori, guess how much will I give you out of my twenty million savings? Guess!"

Lori sneered. "You think just because you gave me all..."

"Yes, Lori, I'll give you everything! I won't leave myself anything. Do you know why? Because even though I gave you twenty million, I can make more money, and when I do make more money, I'll give it all to you. My family still has a few acres of corn fields in the countryside. I can be self-sufficient, so I don't need money."

Lori was speechless. "..."

Her original plan after returning home was to become the most well-respected wife in South City, but she never expected to encounter a simp like him when she had just returned home and had yet to find a job.

Simps seemed to be all the rage recently, but when she saw this simp with her own two eyes, she felt thoroughly disgusted.

two eyes, she felt thoroughly disgusted.

The 20 million that he gave her was too little; not even enough to cover her shopping bill. Even his presence disgusted her.

Right when she was considering whether to kick this damn simp away or kick him to his death, she was stopped by Zach.

"Ms. Gibson! You both share the same family name; in a sense, you're family too! Why would you do this? Besides, you just arrived in this city, so this is when you need more connections. If you reject people so resolutely... What if you need their help one day..."

"Yes, yes, Lori! If one day you need me, guess what I would do for you? I will give you my bank account and password before giving my life to you, and then I'll work for you again."

'So loyal,' Lori thought as she looked at this simp, but she felt nauseous at the sight of him, especially his begging smile. It really made Lori sick to her stomach. His greasy voice, and his bulging belly looked like a slab of loose animal fat.

However, Lori did not refuse Steve Gibson again. Instead, she looked at him again. Instead, she looked at him condescendingly. "I just arrived in South City. There are so many things I have to do. I don't have time to hang out with you. Keep your distance away from me. I will call you when I need you."

These remarks were originally made by Lori to anger him, but she never expected him to actually kneel and kiss his feet.

The only thought that crossed Lori's mind was that this person was sick, and not just mildly ill at that!

But after a change of perspective, she thought to herself that as long as this simp was willing to do things for her, and willing to spend money on her, why should she reject him?

During her first few days in South City, all the designer shoes, designer bags, and designer clothes worn by Lori were all bought for her by Steve.

While spending his money, she wondered how she could climb up the social ladder and marry Sebastian Ford.

Of course, she could not tell Steve, the rich country bumpkin, this idea. Even if he was a simp, he would only continue showering her with gifts when she was willing to date

a simp, he would only continue showering her with gifts when she was willing to date him.

If he knew that her ultimate goal was Sebastian Ford, how would he still be willing to be her simp?

Although she did not tell him who she really wanted to marry, she could still use him to deal with Sabrina.

"This woman used to be imprisoned, and now she's married to a living demon of South City; she is so arrogant that she and her mother beat my mother publicly, and then she wants to drive me away from my granduncle's house. She even wants to stop my mother from dating her father-in-law. Steve, can you help me teach this woman a lesson?"

Lori deliberately flew to that remote county town and stayed there for a day, not doing anything else. All she did was sleep with him.

Steve agreed without a second's hesitation. The two of them traveled to South City together. The call to Sabrina last night was made by him.

Lori had poured all her time and effort into granduncle's house. She even wants to stop my mother from dating her father-in-law. Steve, can you help me teach this woman a lesson?"

Lori deliberately flew to that remote county town and stayed there for a day, not doing anything else. All she did was sleep with him.

Steve agreed without a second's hesitation. The two of them traveled to South City together. The call to Sabrina last night was made by him.

Lori had poured all her time and effort into the show today. She refused to believe that Sabrina would be able to escape from her grasp now.

When Sabrina looked at Lori, Lori said to her coarsely, "YOU ARE DEAD MEAT!"