

Chapter 1349

The police firmly believed this.

However, there was no evidence to support the fact that Sabrina and the black-suited man were accomplices. Even after questioning everyone present in the hotel lobby, no one could provide an answer.

On the other hand, a few women stammered for a while, then shook their heads. They wanted to say they felt Sabrina had been framed, but in the end, they lacked the courage to do so. Because now, nothing was certain, and with one wrong word, they might turn into public enemy number one. It was better if they just kept their mouths shut.

Without any evidence, the police could only send the half-dead Steve to the hospital and then chase after the black-suited man.

As for Sabrina, naturally, they did not arrest her.

Seeing her daughter stand there uninjured, Gloria burst into tears of happiness. "Sabbie, I was worried just now."

Sabrina shook her head. "I'm fine, Mom."

"Fine?" Jennie glared at Sabrina viciously. "

"Fine?" Jennie glared at Sabrina viciously. "The police did not have evidence to arrest you, but all of us saw your obscene actions with our own two eyes. Sean is here too, and he's your father-in-law, so you better start thinking about how you're going to explain all this to him!"

With that, Jennie looked at Gloria smugly. Gloria came here because she received a call from Jennie. Jennie wanted Gloria to see what happened to her daughter with her own two eyes.

Ha!

Gloria would always be the loser in her battle against Jennie! She was determined to show Gloria and her daughter what it meant to lose all honor and integrity!

"Sean, let's go, Rose is terrified too." Jennie shifted her eyes from Sabrina and onto Sean.

Sean slung an arm around Rose, who was so frightened her limbs had lost all their strength. She pointed at Sabrina and said, "Even... Even if you don't tell me, I know who he is. His family name is Payne, which means he must be a son of the Payne family from Star Island! Just you wait! I'll ask Sebastian to teach you a lesson!" With ask Sebastian to teach you a lesson!" With that, Sean left, hugging Rose against him.

Behind them, Jennie felt a little jealous to see them together like this. But now was not the time to act on her jealousy. She glared at Gloria arrogantly then left with Lori.

Gloria looked at her daughter worriedly. "Sabbie..."

Sabrina raised his eyebrows and looked at her mother. "Mom, I'm fine."

Gloria's eyes were red. "My dear, how can I not worry when I know you were targeted?"

Sabrina wrapped an arm around her mother and headed out of the doors, saying as she walked, "Mom, listen to me. When I was at my poorest and most miserable, I was pregnant and broke, I didn't even know whether my mother was dead or alive. Besides, the people of South City chased after me and beat me up, as if I was a sewer rat. But even so, I survived."

Gloria: "..."

"Now, the situation is different. Now, I have you, you have a little house, my daughter is already six, and I also have a stable job. Mom, what are you afraid of?" Sabrina's Mom, what are you afraid of?" Sabrina's tone was strong and steady, confident.

Gloria nodded resolutely. "Yeah, you're right. I will bear everything with you. We'll be better off than we were in the past."

Sabrina nodded. "Mom, I'll send you home now. Just stay there while I..."

"While you what?" her mother asked, still worried.

Sabrina looked as firm as always. "Go and see Sebastian."

That was right; she would go and see Sebastian. He was the person she trusted the most, her husband. Now that she had fallen into Lori's trap, Lori allied with her in-laws to frame her. Also, she saw with her own two eyes that the black-suited man was indeed Holden. She had to inform Sebastian of this immediately.

After settling her mother down in her mother's home, Sabrina stuffed herself with some food and took the time to organize her thoughts, sorting out the whole incident in her mind from start to finish.

After calming herself down, she drove to the Ford Group. Parking her car, she stepped out of the car and was about to head upstairs when she saw two figures in the near distance.

It was Sebastian, and right beside him, was Lori! Both of them walked shoulder to shoulder as they headed in the direction of Sebastian's car.

Sabrina: "..."
