

Chapter 1857

Maysun wanted to tell Lily that the little fool, Aino, was in the car with her as she was pleased with herself. Haha! All of that was within Aino's expectations. At that moment, the little girl still pretended to be ignorant and child-like. She nodded. "It's fine. I know that you have been living abroad, so you are not familiar with South City. It's very normal for you to drive slower."

Aino even smiled at Maysun after she said that. Maysun continued to drive. An hour later, she was still tailing Lily and they finally arrived outside of the hospital. After Lily had parked her car, she sent Maysun a text.

We've arrived at the hospital. Aino certainly can lead you to the ward. She has been coming here quite often recently, so she is familiar with this place. Maysun, go into the ward to check it out first. When you are certain that only the nurse and that d*mned Jane in the ward, send me a text.]

Maysun immediately replied. [Alright!]

[Wishing you success and having all your wishes come true! Alex is at the Ford Residence. I hope that you will be able to get him to bed with you tonight! Both of us have to do our best!]

Even though both of them had their own selfish plans in their mind, on the surface level, Maysun still had to say nice things to Lily, and that worked on Lily very well. She had been sitting in the car and waiting for Maysun's news, but she did not realize at all that Kingston had just parked his car in a distance not far from her car. Once he parked his car, he made a phone call. "Yes, Lily is also here. She arrived earlier than Aino, but she did not get down from her car. If my inference was correct, Lily should have asked that Maysun woman to go in first to check out the situation. Yes, you guys have to be careful."

After hanging up the call, Kingston sat quietly in the car to watch the situation unfold.

Aino was already leading Maysun towards Jane's ward one step at a time. Before they entered the ward, Maysun and Aino heard a voice humming a song and also a baby's cry coming inside the ward.

Jane was singing. "Oh, my little baby, don't care and don't make trouble. You are my precious baby."

She sighed. "Oh, my dear child. Your dad is not around these couple of days, and you're wailing even more intensely. I have fully recovered yet. I'm not able to carry you. Tell me, what should I do? Baby, how about we hire a caregiver? But, it's difficult to get a caregiver in these couple of days. I had already told the medical personnel here, but the earliest the caregiver could start is three days later. How are we going to get through these three days? Oh, my baby, stop crying, alright?" Jane's voice was patient and also helpless.

Aino, who was standing outside the door, did not dare to enter for a very long time. She was very light on her hands and feet as if she was afraid that she would disturb her aunt and her baby. In that case, she had created a chance for Maysun. Maysun was right outside Jane's ward and she sent a text to Lily.

[Lily! Let me tell you. I heard from outside the ward that nobody was by that woman's side. She was also carrying a baby. It seems that her health is not so good. She couldn't even carry the baby. This is a great chance for you!]

At the other end, Lily swung her car door open in a heartbeat. Only then did she realize that she was a little anxious. She held her phone and quickly replied.

open in a heartbeat. Only then did she realize that she was a little anxious. She held her phone and quickly replied.

[Great! That's really great! I'll wait for you guys to come out, and wait for Aino to leave. Then, I'll go deal with that woman!]

[Alright!]

After she replied to the text, Maysun said to Aino softly, "Aino, quickly go in to see your Aunt Jane..."

Aino then gently walked in and called out softly. "Aunt Jane..."

Jane instantly turned around. When she saw that it was Aino, she was surprised. "Aino, you came!"
