Chapter 1346 First Time As A Family Member

Ichika's father finally agreed.

"Sure, no problem."

"What do you mean 'no problem'? You have to explain this to the media and everyone else watching. My brother is not here to take your daughter away. He is here to bring his wife home."

Sabrina was not going to let that d*mned old guy get away with it.

She wanted to force him to explain the matter clearly to everyone and clear Solomon's name.

Meanwhile, Solomon remained silent.

Though Sabrina was only slightly older than him, he still felt like something was caught in his throat. In fact, he was so choked up that his eyes started to well up with tears.

At that moment, he honestly felt like she was quite a busybody.

He was not a child after all, and he could have easily stood up for himself.

Despite that, he did not stop her. This was because her actions made him feel very touched.

The blow he had just received earlier felt like it had been treated by a pair of gentle hands.

Ichika's father ultimately told everyone that Yamada was the one who matchmade Solomon. Eventually, Yamada was brought over as well.

Upon arrival, he said nothing but just grabbed onto Solomon's hand.

"You've been wronged..."

One sentence was enough to wipe clean all the injustice that was brought upon Solomon for no reason.

In response, he shook his head lightly. "It's okay. From now on, do you want to come live with me?"

While looking at the two who were slyly planning on escaping, he suddenly posed such a question.

After such a huge ordeal, there was no way his two sons were going to let this go.

Hence, it was best if they just all lived together.

However, Yamada shook his head.

"I'm old. I don't want to go anywhere. To be honest, I just want to stay in the peony garden that your mother and I lived in before. In the future, if you ever get married to Ichika, I hope you'll be able to visit me once in a while."

He lowered his eyes and revealed a tired expression. One could tell that time had taken its toll on him.

Hearing this, Solomon did not answer.

He truly hated his mother. Her sins were endless, yet she managed to win the sincerity of a man's heart. Even after her death, he never forgot her.

What about Solomon? She brought him into this world, but what had he ended up with?

Two hours later, Solomon brought his gifts and officially went over to visit the Minamoto family. Naturally, Sabrina went with him.

"Hold on. What are you planning on giving to them? Money or an actual gift?"

Throughout the journey, she kept asking all sorts of questions.

This was probably the first time she was taking part in planning a wedding as a family member. Therefore, she was a little nervous due to the lack of experience.

Solomon cocked his head sideways in the car and stared at her.

"Don't worry. I've got everything prepared."

"Are you sure? Okay. Well, that's good to hear." Hearing this, she finally breathed a sigh of relief. Then, she took out her phone and started tapping away frantically at her screen.

Solomon kept quiet.

After a while, he could not resist anymore. He slightly leaned his head over and took a glance from the side.

He saw that Sabrina was engrossed in a WhatsApp group chat. The chat was going off nonstop.

Sasha: Wow. So, how is it going? Is everything settled, Sab? You're so cool.

Sabrina: Duh. Don't you know who I am?

Devin: That's right. My wife is capable of anything.

Sasha and Sebastian were left speechless.

The discomfort they felt almost made them leave the group chat.

Fortunately, Rufus appeared just at this moment.

Mr. Wand: So what are you guys going to do now? Are you visiting the Minamoto residence?

Sabrina: Yeah. I don't suppose you have any advice, Mr. Wand? I want to make sure I do everything right. This is my first time appearing as a family member, so I'm quite nervous.

It was surprising for her to admit to everyone that she was feeling anxious right now.

However, it was the truth. Neither Sasha nor Sebastian had any experience in the matter. Besides, Sebastian himself had yet to host his own wedding, so how would he know anything?

Eventually, Rufus gave some suggestions.

Mr. Wand: You can ask Solomon to ask his adoptive father. He's from Jetroina, right? Just ask and see what you should prepare. Although this matter has finally come to fruition, we were the ones who had initially stood them up. Hence, we should probably apologize.

Oh yeah. We need to apologize...

Sabrina raised her head after reading the message.

Coincidentally, she met the eyes of Solomon, who was also staring in her direction. Awkwardness filled the air.

Solomon was stumped.

Several seconds later, he somewhat angrily turned his gaze elsewhere.

"Are you guys crazy? I can't believe you guys created a group chat just to talk about me."

“What else could we have done? You rascal. You never told us when you got in trouble. If I hadn’t made this group for everyone to secretly observe you, would anyone have known that you were getting bullied?”

“Bullied?”

Hearing this, Solomon was furious.

His handsome face was tinted with a shade of anger.

Sabrina gave no reply.

I shouldn’t have said that.

Unfortunately, she realized it too late. She did not care anymore and tapped away at her phone for a moment. Soon, Solomon, who was sitting beside her, heard his phone notification ring.

He then took out his phone.

“Hurry up and open it. We should all discuss what to do for you. This is a huge matter.”

Solomon stared at his phone in disbelief.

In the end, he had no choice but to reluctantly accept.

Chapter 1347 Against Marriage

Sasha: Oh my God! What?!

Sebastian was silent.

Mr. Wand: Solomon? You’re in the group too now? That’s great.

Devin: A warm welcome to you, Solomon!

Sabrina: Glad you could finally join us!

Old Mr. Jadeson: Huh? The man himself is here too now? Nice going. Well, you guys go ahead with the discussion. If you need me, just drop me a message. I have to go pick up my granddaughter now.

Solomon did not know how to reply.

He kept quiet for several moments. There were not a lot of people in the group, but the atmosphere was lively. He had no idea what his opening line should be.

Sabrina: Hey. Aren't you going to say anything? Everyone is concerned about you.

No words came from Solomon still.

After a long time, he finally typed several words out onto his screen and hit send.

Solomon: Thank you everyone, but there is no need to worry so much for me.

Sasha: Why not? Have you already prepared something? What is it?

At that, Sebastian sank into his thoughts.

After several seconds, Sabrina could sense that something was wrong. She quickly sent a message.

Sabrina: As if he prepared anything. His hands are completely empty. Earlier, I even asked him if he was planning to just give money.

Mr. Wand: Money? That doesn't seem appropriate. The Minamoto family is very prestigious. I doubt they care how much money you can give.

Old Mr. Jadeson: Maybe give something more valuable? Back when I was marrying off Devin's father, I gave the other family a jade seal. Although it wasn't a family relic, it was something that I had gotten from the war. At the time, they were overjoyed with the gift.

Out of nowhere, Jonathan surfaced to talk about his story.

A jade seal? That's a very hefty gift.

Everyone in the group was stunned silent, including Sabrina who was sitting at the side.

The Hayeses were definitely a wealthy family. However, due to the fact that Frederick passed away early, Sabrina and Sebastian had no idea what valuables their family carried.

"Why don't I give you my wine cellar?"

"What?"

"The wine cellar. I've collected all sorts of wines over the years. You have no idea, do you? This was what I used to get in with the Jadesons previously when I had to rescue my brother."

Even now, thinking of that incident made her flinch.

At the time, Jonathan had drunk a fair amount of her collection.

Solomon finally understood now. Immediately, he turned to look at her. For a moment, he did not know what to say.

Who would give wine cellars as a gift?

This time around, he was trying to show his sincerity. If the Minamoto family prioritized material gifts, then that was up to them. They had the right to deny the marriage.

Either way, Solomon was not planning to take it to heart.

Unexpectedly, as soon as he stepped into the glamorous Minamoto residence, a servant dressed in a Jetroinian traditional outfit came running over to him.

"Mr. Akiyama, Ms. Minamoto asked me to pass you this."

She politely handed him a clean, white handkerchief.

Solomon stared at it confusedly.

After returning to his senses, he accepted it and opened it.

"What is this?"

Sabrina came over. Seeing the item enclosed in the handkerchief, she too revealed a puzzled expression.

She had no idea what it was.

The item in question looked like a strand of hair. It was snow-white in color. When picked up, it was cooling to the touch. Under the light, it was even slightly transparent.

Sebastian: That looks like zirconium wire.

Sabrina had uploaded the picture into the WhatsApp group chat. Sebastian, who rarely spoke, suddenly identified the item.

Zirconium wire? What on Earth is that?

Everyone waited patiently for his explanation.

Sebastian: In Jetroina, after the nobles separated from the royal family, they would rely on the excavation of minerals to make a living. If my guess is right, the Minamoto family probably specialized in glassware manufacturing. This development can only be done with the use of zirconium wire. It's similar to how we locate oil fields. We need to use chemicals to find hints of its topographical features.

Sebastian took the time to explain everything in detail.

After reading his message, everyone was quiet.

After all, no one else was knowledgeable on the area.

It was very odd how someone who spent most of his time handling money would have such a deep understanding of something so niche.

Sasha: Sebby, why would Ichika want to give this to him? Is it very rare?

Sebastian: Not really. However, it is rare to see it made into a wire, especially if it's completely natural. With a wire this pure, it'll be much easier to locate minerals.

Devin: So, what you're saying is Ichika gave it to Solomon on purpose. She was worried about her family making things difficult with him.

Sabrina: Oh, I get it. I knew Ichika was on our side!

Beside her, the vein on Solomon's forehead was bulging.

God. Can't this woman use her brain? If this is really that hard to find, and I suddenly produce it, the Minamoto family will obviously know that Ichika was the one who helped me get it.

Solomon felt his head pound.

In the end, he still had no choice but to bring it along with him because Sabrina was clutching onto it for dear life.

When they reached the main hall, Solomon saw Ichika's parents and her grandfather. Their expressions toward him were not the kindest.

After all, he had asked them to take Ichika back previously.

/ Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 1348 Are You Really Marrying Me

"Akiyama, why have you suddenly changed your mind about marrying my daughter? I thought you said previously that you had no intentions of starting up a family."

"Yes, that's right."

Solomon knelt down in front of them. He did not deny anything.

"However, I was lying to you guys at the time. The reason I rejected the marriage back then was not because I didn't want to start a family. The truth was that I felt I wasn't good enough. I did not want to be a burden to your daughter. Besides, I'm sure you've seen it for yourself today."

Finally, he chose to tell the truth.

When he raised his head and looked at Ichika's parents, his expression was filled with sincerity and remorse.

Ichika's father was stunned.

Ichika's mother was also silent for a long time as she stared at Solomon.

Seeing this, Sabrina could not help but interject. "Mr. Minamoto, my brother has messed up before. However, he really means it this time. I hope that you can give him another chance."

For the sake of acting as a supportive family member, Sabrina was willing to completely disregard her title.

Solomon looked back at her.

He realized that she was not looking his way at all. Instead, she was looking expectantly ahead.

He was shocked by her actions.

After roughly an hour of waiting, Giichi Minamoto, the head of the Minamoto family, finally nodded.

"Fine, but this time, you must announce it to the entire Terrandia that you are marrying my daughter. Furthermore, you must host your wedding for everyone to see, and it must follow my country's culture."

Finally, he had agreed.

However, his approval came with conditions. He would only marry Ichika off if Solomon held a grand wedding following their culture and announced their matrimony to the entire world.

Isn't that a given?

When Sabrina heard his requests, she still had not really understood the situation yet. She thought it was great news.

It was not until they left Giichi's room that one of the subordinates following Solomon explained the reality of things to her.

"Ms. Sabrina, following our culture, if Mr. Akiyama wants to marry Ms. Minamoto, he must, firstly, honor the Minamoto family with a generous gift. The gift has to be something that no one in Terrandya can look down upon.

"Secondly, when he comes to propose the marriage, Mr. Akiyama's father must be there too. It is a way of showing respect.

"Finally, when Ichika is about to marry off, since the Minamoto family are nobles, there is a procedure to follow that has been passed down from the royal family. From the acceptance to the blessings, and finally the wedding, there are a total of ten steps. Every step must be followed carefully. It will be very troublesome."

After so much explanation, the subordinate could feel his mouth going dry.

On the other hand, Sabrina was baffled listening to all this.

It's just a marriage. Is it really necessary to make it so complicated? From the acceptance to the blessings... Also, what ten steps is he talking about?

Her mind was a complete mess. Looking to the man ahead of her some distance away, his expression was not particularly pleased either. She was left with no choice. There was only one thing she could do. Hence, she whipped out her phone and began discussing it in the group chat.

At this moment, Solomon was already at the door and was about to step out.

"Mr. Akiyama!"

Suddenly, a light, feminine voice rang.

Solomon turned to look back. He saw a girl dressed in the Jetroinian traditional outfit with her hair in a bun come running over.

"Mr. Akiyama, d-did my father agree when you went to talk to him about our marriage? What did he say?"

There were beads of sweat lined on her forehead from the running. When she heard that he was finally here, she had rushed over excitedly. At the same time, she was feeling extremely shy. Her cheeks were blushing bright pink.

Solomon was dazed.

To be honest, when he had come out earlier, he was feeling rather frustrated.

Of all the conditions that Giichi had asked for, there was not a single one that Solomon could comply with. He had no family or friends. Although he had a sister, there was no way he could allow her to take on such a heavy responsibility of planning such a grandeur wedding.

He was nothing but a loner.

Now, he lowered his gaze and looked at the girl who was running toward him. Her clear, bright eyes were filled with hope and excitement.

In an instant, his heart melted.

“Don’t worry. Just wait for me at home.”

“Okay!”

Hearing that, she was over the moon.

Her big, round eyes curved into the shape of the moon. Her tiny face was overflowing with happiness. The sun was not nearly as bright when shining next to her.

She really was just an innocent little girl.

No one knew why she insisted on marrying a man who was almost thirty years old.

When Solomon stepped out of the Minamoto residence, Sabrina was already chattering away in the Whatsapp group chat. Notifications were sounding nonstop.

Sasha: Sab, give us more detail. What is the Minamoto family asking for? You have to let us know so we can get ready.

Sabrina: Please! I’ve already said so much, do you still not get it?

Mr. Wand: Sab, I don’t really get it either...

Devin: Darling, can you repeat it one more time?

Sabrina felt completely helpless.

The only people that had not responded so far were Sebastian and Jonathan.

However, this was not surprising at all. Jonathan was well into his old age, so he could not stand the chitter-chatter of the younger generation. He probably had not joined into the conversation because he could not keep up.

Chapter 1349 The Kids Are In Trouble

Sebastian did not even appear in the group chat as he thought what Sabrina said was all nonsense.

It drove the latter mad.

Yet, someone suddenly said something in the group chat just then.

Solomon: To put it simply, I need parents, relatives, and friends to come to Jetroina. The more the merrier.

Everyone fell silent at his response.

Does my sudden appearance scare them, or is it because they can't satisfy my conditions?

Solomon stared at the phone for a while. Seeing that no one replied, he had a sudden urge to throw the phone and drive away.

He had plucked up a lot of courage to tell others something like that.

His upbringing had made him a person who was unwilling to ask for help and accept help from others, so he had to summon up all his courage to send the text earlier.

Mr. Wand: You gave me a scare. Isn't that just like the aristocratic wedding under the feudal system of our country? That's easy. I'll go, Solomon. After having raised you for ten years, I can be considered your father, can't I?

Sasha: I freaked out. For a moment, I thought Solomon's account has been hacked. Yeah, I see no issue in this. We can go there together.

Devin: Would you like me to bring along a whole troop?

Old Mr. Jadeson: Seriously? We're not going to war. I'll just bring a few people over. Since these Jetroinians actually wanted such an arrangement, I'll make it grand. Heh.

Upon that, Jonathan started laughing.

Everyone in the group chat was stunned because Jonathan had a status that was sufficient for him to participate in a royal wedding of Jetroina, let alone the wedding of the Minamoto family.

Because of that, the gloomy atmosphere in the group chat earlier was finally dispelled.

Solomon even felt a lump in his throat and could not speak for a long time.

Shortly after that, Sebastian also appeared.

Sebastian: As for the gift, a zircon mine will do.

Solomon: I've got it ready.

Everyone else was rendered speechless at the two's responses.

Just like that, time went by in the blink of an eye.

As the wedding would be held in Jetroina three days later, everyone in the family was preparing for it after Solomon and Sabrina returned.

"What should we do with the hillside villa?" Sabrina asked as the question crossed her mind upon her return from the wedding planner and hotel.

Yet, Solomon was still busy working at his desk. Hence, when he heard her, he just replied nonchalantly, "Up to you."

Speechless, Sabrina walked toward his desk and reprimanded, "What do you mean by that? Why do I feel like I'm the one getting married and not you?"

Instantly, Solomon stopped typing on his laptop and looked up at the angry woman.

"It's not like I know anything about it."

Sabrina was rendered speechless at once.

Fine. I won't count on such an ahole.

Thus, she turned and left.

However, Solomon suddenly added, "Don't worry. When you get married to Devin, I'll hold a grand wedding for you too."

At that, Sabrina stopped in her tracks.

Is this ahole saying that he'll help me hold a wedding if I help him now? Hah!
How ridiculous!

She inwardly cursed, but her eyes turned red when she left the room.

Meanwhile, at Frontier Bay, Sasha was busy as well.

As she had just recovered, she could not strain herself, so she was in charge of choosing the custom-made wedding gowns and jewelry for Ichika for her wedding.

"Look, Sebby, these Chanaean wedding outfits are so pretty."

The bridal shop sent more samples of the dresses to her. After going through them, she instantly fell in love with a bright red wedding gown.

Sebastian, who was checking the kids' homework, stood up and looked at the gowns with her for a while upon hearing her words.

"Yeah, it's really pretty. If you like it, we can buy this in the future."

"Really?"

The woman with sickly pallor was happy to hear his words.

Suddenly, a kid was heard running up to them from outside the house.

It was actually Jaena, who was covered in soil and grass.

After she ran over, she immediately grabbed Sebastian's hand.

Despite being merely one year old, she was smart enough to know that she had to get an adult to do something she could not do.

Hence, Sebastian was taken outside by her.

Chapter 1350 Ian Will Be Taken Away

"F-Fish..." Jaena pointed at the fish pond in the garden after taking Sebastian outside.

The latter looked in the direction she was pointing and saw three kids looking inside the fish pond nervously on the edge of the pond.

What are these kids doing?

Carrying Jaena in his arms, Sebastian walked over.

"Ian, Matteo, what are you guys doing?"

"Huh?"

The sudden appearance of Sebastian shocked the triplets.

"N-Nothing, Daddy." Being a smart kid, Matteo immediately wanted to run away with Vivian and Ian so as to avoid being punished by Sebastian, but it was too late.

Right at that moment, Jaena, who was in Sebastian's arms, pointed at the fish pond. "Fish..."

She's good at telling on others, isn't she? Ugh!

The triplets pulled a long face while glowering at the child in their father's arms.

Walking over to look into the pond, Sebastian finally saw what happened. It turned out that the koi fish he had been keeping for several years that worth more than tens of millions had died.

"You—"

"Oh, Daddy, don't be mad at Ian and Matt. They just wanted the fish to listen to some music. They didn't expect all the fish would die after that thing was thrown inside," Vivian hurriedly went up to Sebastian and pleaded upon seeing that he was angry.

Wanted the fish to listen to some music so they threw it in? And now the fish are all dead? Are you serious?

Sebastian thought that it was nonsense because Ian and Matteo had recently become more naughty than they were and frequently engaged in shenanigans.

He put the child in his arms down to take a closer look at the fish.

But at that moment, a housemaid in the garden suddenly ran over. "Mr. Hayes, someone's looking for you."

"Who's it?" Sebastian asked with a frown.

"I've never seen them before, but they're driving a black van with a logo on it," the housemaid replied with a strange expression on her face.

A logo?

Feeling suspicious, Sebastian decided to deal with the fish's death afterward as he left Jaena with Vivian and walked to the gate.

Having had a status higher than his previous position as the president of Hayes Corporation, he rarely had any visitor when he was at home nowadays.

In no time, he reached the gate.

"Mr. Jadeson, it's really your house. Please allow me to introduce you to the director of the Internal Communication Office and also the head of the national research institute, which is responsible for the research of special projects in the country."

Sebastian was a little surprised that the visitors had gotten off the car.

Upon seeing him, one of the visitors excitedly called out the name he used in Jadeborough and introduced the two middle-aged men who had also gotten off the car to him.

Internal Communication Office? Research institute?

Sebastian was baffled at their sudden arrival.

"Is something wrong?"

"You see, Mr. Jadeson, our men at the Internal Communication Office often find that our signal is quickly cut off by someone recently. As you know, the signal for internal communication is much stronger than those in the market, so being cut off like this has attracted our attention."

"Then what?"

"Then, they looked into it and found that the location of the person who cut off our signal is situated here... at your place," one of the middle-aged men faltered, revealing the true intention of their visit.

Sebastian was dumbfounded once again.

At my place? Is he saying that...?

"No, don't get me wrong, Mr. Jadeson. You're a great hero of our country. We won't suspect you. We just heard that your sons are very smart and that the elder one is particularly good at hacking, so we just came here to find out."

"That's right, Mr. Jadeson. If it's really your sons' doing, they're valuable talents. Our institute is hungry for such talents. If I remember correctly, Mr. Pence's son used to be your friend, am I right ?” The head of the research institute interjected in a pleading tone.

It was true that they had a vast appetite for talent.

Such institutions of the state actually played a vital role in domestic development. They aided in improving the country’s defense and attack in terms of the military as well as economic development that led to the prosperity of its people.

This was why these institutions were still safe and sound even when the country was in turmoil some time ago.

It was like they were the foundation of the country.

Even Eddie did not think about laying a finger on them back then.

As it all finally made sense to Sebastian, he directly took the visitors inside.

Half an hour later, Ian confessed that it was his doing.

“Daddy, I didn’t do it on purpose. After reading the books that Aunt Sabrina gave me, I wanted to give it a try, but I didn’t know that it was their optical cable. I chose it only because it had a stronger signal.”

Everyone was speechless at his answer.

Some people spent their whole life learning about the skills, but they might not even be on par with him.

Yet the kid actually did it just because he wanted to give it a try and merely chose the signal because it was stronger.

Upon that, the head of the research institute was so excited that his hands trembled. “Mr. Jadeson, can he leave with me? I promise you that I’ll definitely train him and make him the backbone of the country!”
