

Chapter 2005 I Want To Accompany Her To Study...

After calling around all morning, Brandon finally learned that Frank was at a restaurant.

When Janet heard this, she quickly shared the restaurant's address with Elizabeth, washed up, and joined Brandon as they headed there.

When they arrived, they saw Elizabeth standing outside the door, staring in.

They followed her gaze and noticed Frank inside, chatting and laughing with a pretty woman.

Janet couldn't tell what they were talking about but could see the woman smiling brightly.

Janet walked up to Elizabeth, wrapping an arm around her shoulder to comfort her. Brandon, however, was furious. He shoved the restaurant's door open and marched to Frank.

Seeing Brandon, Frank was taken aback. "Why are you here?" he asked, puzzled.

Brandon sneered down at him and demanded, "How old are you? Are you a child? How could you pull off something so immature when you're an adult?"

"What are you talking about?" Frank asked, still confused as he looked up at Brandon.

Ignoring Frank, Brandon faced the attractive woman across from him and said sharply, "Sorry, but the man

Chapter 2005 I Want To Accompany. 🎁 +120 Points at most sitting opposite you already has a girlfriend."

It took a moment for Frank to process this. He glanced at the woman before thinking over Brandon's words and then understanding what was happening.

Did Brandon think he was cheating on Elizabeth?

His frustration grew as he quickly explained, "What are you talking about? She's just a college classmate who recently returned from studying abroad. I asked her to catch up and discuss the admissions process and academic focus of her school. I also wanted to learn more about studying abroad these days. What did you think I was up to?"

As soon as Frank finished, his old classmate covered her mouth and laughed, watching him like she was enjoying the show.

Brandon realized he'd misunderstood but was even more surprised the next moment. "Wait, you want to study abroad?"

Frank scratched his head, hesitating to respond before his classmate spoke up first.

"Yeah, he didn't want to lose his girlfriend, so he decided to go with her and asked me for information."

She sighed and added playfully, "Why didn't I know you were so devoted back when we were classmates? You were so aloof to everyone then. If I'd known how committed you were, I'd have chased you ages ago."

Brandon frowned deeply, reached out to pat Frank's shoulder heavily, and gave him a secret pinch, all while maintaining a friendly smile. "Frank, you're quite the love-struck type," he teased.

Feeling the pinch, Frank quickly recoiled, glaring at Brandon

Chapter 2005 I Want To Accompany. 🎁 +120 Points at most with distaste.

Brandon's face turned serious as he addressed Frank. "Why didn't you tell me earlier that you wanted to study abroad? Why did you disappear? Your girlfriend thought you were breaking up with her. She's been crying over you everywhere."

"What?" Frank exclaimed, suddenly jumping up with concern. "Where is she? Where is she now?"

Instead of responding, Brandon pointed to the door. Frank turned to look.

Outside, in the drizzle, Janet held Elizabeth, and they both looked back at him.

Elizabeth, held by Janet, was drenched in tears.

Brandon was already irritated because Frank's actions had caused the couple to spend the entire morning running around. He snapped, "It's still raining outside. If you don't care about your girlfriend, I care about my wife."

Exclusive Offer For You

GO NOW