

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1311

Chapter 1311

“What’s wrong, Ms. Moore?” Sasha asked after seeing the drastic change in Arielle’s expression, “Everything’s fine!” Arielle then turned around and walked away while signaling Sasha to stay put.

Although Sasha did as she was told and stood still, her eyes were fixated on Arielle. After all, she was Arielle’s bodyguard, and it was her duty to protect Arielle.

Not only must Sasha obey Arielle’s command, but she must also take care of the latter’s safety.

“Who are you? Where are my parents?” Arielle asked solemnly as she tightened her grip on the phone.

It turned out that the caller was not Andrea but a stranger.

“Relax. They’re safe for now, the man on the other end of the line said. He smirked as he took a glance at the Wilhelms, whose hands had been tied up by his subordinates.

Arielle knitted her brows when she heard his familiar voice. Why do I feel like I’ve heard his voice before?

“Mmm... Mmm...”

The Wilhelms wanted to caution Arielle to stay away but could not utter a single word as their mouths were stuffed with rags.

The muffled sounds from the other end of the phone disrupted Arielle's train of thought.

Her heart skipped a beat. "What do you want? Don't you dare lay your fingers on them. Come at me if you dare!"

Arielle tried to remain as composed as possible, even though she was deeply worried about the Wilhelms.

In fact, she had avoided contacting them for years because she was afraid she might get them into trouble.

Still, her greatest fear had become a reality.

Meanwhile, over at Lightspring, the man sat by the window and smirked.

He threatened, "If you don't want us to harm your parents, come over on your own right now. Don't say I didn't warn you. They might get in trouble if you tell Vinson or anyone else about it."

The moment he found out how important the Wilhelms were to Arielle, he rushed over to Lightspring and got hold of the couple. He knew he would be able to control Arielle once the Wilhelms were in his hands.

Arielle tightened her grip on the phone upon hearing the threat.

How did he find out about my relationship with Vinson? Who is he? And how did he manage to get hold of my parents?

“I won’t tell anyone. Don’t you dare lay a finger on them, I’m warning you. I’ll hold you responsible if anything bad happens to them” Arielle warned coldly,

Since he did such a thorough background check on me, he should know that I’m a vengeful person.

vont touch them as long as you come alone,” the man promised. After a short pause, he continued, “You’d better come and meet me within the next two days, or I will not be responsible for anything bad that happens after that.”

“I’ll be there, don’t worry. Take good care of my parents and my brother.” Arielle gritted her teeth as she emphasized her words.

UNUPIET

.

Naturally, the man agreed to her condition.

Arielle ended the call with a grim look and recollected herself. After passing her phone to Sasha, she went back to the set and continued to shoot the last scene.

How she wished she could rush to Lightspring right then, but she was afraid that Vinson might find out about

Since the man had threatened to kill her parents if Vinson or anyone else knew about it, she could not tell anyone and risk putting her parents’ lives in danger.

“Are you sure you’re okay to continue with the shoot today?”
Arielle asked Jason as she did not want to waste any more time.
The bloopers Jason made were too much for Arielle to handle.

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1312

Chapter 1312 Save The Child

Is she questioning my acting?

Jason frowned and gave Arielle a sullen glare. In truth, he only made those mistakes because he wanted to spend more time with her.

“Trust me,” Jason reassured her curtly and walked toward the set.

As Arielle watched him leave, she froze for a moment. She regretted asking him that question. What have I done? Everyone in the industry knows he’s an excellent actor. How could I question his professionalism?

He must be mad at me.

Arielle followed right behind Jason. She wanted to clear up the misunderstanding with him but did not have a chance to do so.

Once the crew had completed their preparations, they proceeded with the shoot.

Arielle would act as a cop in the last scene, and the shoot would take place on the first floor of a preschool building.

In this scene, a thug, who tried to run away from the cops, barged into a preschool and held a child hostage.

“Help... Help me...” The child cried for help.

Coincidentally, the child was the nephew of a fitness coach—a character played by Jason. Upon noticing how the thug placed a dagger on his nephew’s neck, the coach named Bailey was ready to charge in his direction. Suddenly, a hand grabbed his arm and pulled him back.

“What do you think you’re doing? Can’t you see that the man is holding the kid hostage?”

Arielle, who was playing the role of a special agent named Sophie, held the impulsive coach back. “Stay right here.”

“You...”

“I don’t want to hear another word from you. We have to think of a better way to save the child!” Sophie raised her voice.

The fitness coach took another closer look at the woman and finally recognized her. He was surprised to see her in a police uniform. Isn’t she the woman I tried to flirt with the other day? She does look like a cop, but I wonder if she’s capable.

Sophie then walked to the preschool’s entrance and spoke to the thug, “What do you want? Tell me. I’ll try to fulfill your needs, but you must promise not to harm the kid!”

“Five million in cash and a full-tank SUV,” the thug demanded.

“All right. I’ll speak to my boss right now. We’ll get everything ready once he approves your requests.” Sophie tried to appease the thug.

Upon hearing that, Bailey panicked. “How could you give in to his demand? We don’t have the money!”

“Shush!” Sophie glared at him. “You want to tell him that to agitate him? What if he decides to kill the kid?”

“But we don’t have the money. What are we gonna do?” Bailey’s face turned pallid. He wanted to rescue his nephew, but his financial status did not permit him to do so.

“Leave that to us. Just stay away and trust us.”

Sophie then instructed the other cops to distract the thug while she planned to rescue the hostage from the back. As Sophie made her way to the back entrance of the preschool, Bailey followed right behind.

In the next scene, Sophie and Bailey were seen observing the thug behind some trees. They were merely a stone’s throw away from the man.

“Could you stop following me? I’m on a rescue operation here, can’t you see?” Sophie expressed her dismay.

“I won’t get in your way,” Bailey looked into her eyes intently and said.

Initially, he thought that Sophie hit the gym because she was interested in him, but apparently, it was all a misunderstanding.

Sophie took a glance at him before turning her attention to the thug

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1313

Chapter 1313 Deceiving Herself

Watching her teammates arguing with the thug, Sophie waited for the opportunity to fire a bullet at his right hand. The latter was immediately disarmed, and his knife fell to the floor.

However, the thug was still reluctant to let go of the hostage. He rolled on the ground to pick up his fallen knife.

Then, Sophie quickly ran toward the thug to snatch the hostage away from him. However, the thug thrust his knife in her direction. In order to keep the child from harm, Sophie turned her body around. At that critical moment, Bailey rushed forward and kicked the thug away.

“Cut!”

Sam smiled and walked toward the two of them. He came to Jason and patted him on the shoulder. “You’re in the zone this time. Well done!”

Arielle also thought that Jason did a great job as he only used one take for that scene.

After all, he needed at least three or four takes for the previous scene, which agitated her.

“Okay! That’s all for today’s filming. Let’s wrap it up!”

When the filming was finally over, Arielle couldn't help but exhale a long sigh of relief. At that moment, Sasha came over and informed her that Vinson called and was waiting for her outside.

Surprised that Vinson would come over, Arielle took leave of Sam and walked out without even removing her makeup.

Jason felt a little displeased to see Arielle leave. He felt bad for her for loving a cheating man.

In fact, he still didn't believe what Arielle told him. After all, it was common for a man of Vinson's status to be with several women, and he wondered why Arielle would deceive herself.

"Aren't you going home?" Sam asked when he noticed the motionless Jason, oblivious to his sentiments.

"I'm going now," Jason replied and immediately strode out. He wanted to see if Vinson really loved Arielle wholeheartedly as she said.

Meanwhile, Gracie hastily bid farewell to Sam and hurried off when she saw Jason walking away.

Outside the studio, a Rolls-Royce was parked by the road. A tall man stepped out of the car as soon as Arielle approached.

"Are you cold?" Vinson walked to her side and reached out to hold her hand.

Arielle was happy to see Vinson. However, she was also anxious at the same time. Although she was worried about her adoptive parents, she suppressed her emotions and smiled. “I’m not cold at all.”

“Are you tired? Let’s go for a movie after dinner.” Vinson held Arielle’s hand and walked to the car. Then, he opened the door to the passenger seat and waited for her to enter. After that, he went around the front and sat in the driver’s seat.

“Why are you driving today?” Arielle struck up a conversation with him to distract herself from worrying about her adoptive parents.

“Because I want to bring you out on a date like a normal couple.” Then, Vinson kissed her hand. Arielle gave him a sideways glance and smiled smugly. “Is Mr. Nightshire guilty of something?”

“Yes, I am.” Suddenly, Vinson leaned toward Arielle’s ear and whispered in a deep, seductive voice, “I’m guilty of not bringing my wife to the movies and holding her hand while crossing the road. I feel so sorry for not giving her experiences that every other couple enjoys.”

As his warm breath hit the back of her ears, she shuddered in response, and her cheeks began to blush as she pushed Vinson away. “Why must you speak so close to me?”

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1314

Chapter 1314 A Date

Looking at her reddened face, Vinson smiled. “Let’s go. I’ll take you to dinner. Then, we’ll watch a movie. I’ve already bought the tickets.”

“Quickly. I’m starving.”

Knowing that Arielle was hungry, Vinson started the car and drove to the restaurant.

Meanwhile, Jason witnessed the entire scene from the side of the road. When Gracie came out and saw him staring at the leaving car, she couldn’t help but sigh. Of all the women he could have, he had to have designs on Vinson’s wife. There’s no way he can win over Vinson’s woman!

“Jason, there’s no point wasting your time worrying about Arielle’s personal affairs,” Gracie advised.

Jason stared intently at Gracie without saying a word.

“Why are you looking at me like that? I’m telling the truth. Don’t tell me about Vinson cheating on her. Even if he cheated and left Arielle behind, you still won’t stand a chance. She doesn’t even like you.”

Gracie had the urge to crack open Jason’s skull to see what was going on in his head.

“Let’s go,” Jason said while walking toward the parking lot.

In fact, he had already known that all along. However, he always thought that Vinson didn’t like Arielle anymore and actually did cheat on her. Hence, he confessed to Arielle again and again.

Unexpectedly, what Arielle said was true. The couple had a great relationship, and Vinson didn’t cheat. If Vinson were cheating, he wouldn’t be here that day to pick her up from work.

Arielle, I wish you all the happiness in the world!

Jason whispered in his heart. He decided to slowly let go of Arielle from then on.

On the other hand, Arielle didn't know that Jason saw Vinson pick her up from work that day.

She also had no idea that Jason finally believed her relationship with Vinson was going strong and decided to give up on her.

If she was aware of all that, she would definitely be delighted. After all, she had to work with Jason for two months. If he kept pestering her, it would cause her many problems.

Vinson and Arielle had a candlelight dinner at a romantic restaurant with a pleasant environment and melodious music. The date was going perfectly.

Arielle got so absorbed in the ambiance during dinner that she temporarily put the matter of her adoptive parents at the back of her mind.

To be exact, she was suppressing those worries deep in her heart.

After dinner, Vinson took her to the cinema.

On the way there, Arielle curiously asked Vinson, "You didn't book an entire theater, did you?"

Usually, a person of his status would book an entire theater to avoid being disturbed when they took their girlfriends or wives to the movies.

However, Vinson wanted Arielle to experience the romance between ordinary couples, so he never thought of booking an entire theater. He thought that Arielle was asking him because she was afraid of getting disturbed. Hence, he hurriedly replied, “I didn’t. If you want more privacy, I will ask Rayson to make the arrangements.”

Ariella hurriedly waved her hand dismissively and shook her head.

“No, no. You don’t have to do it. I just thought you did,” Arielle smiled and said. “Actually, I like it when it’s livelier, and everyone is watching the movie together. The more, the merrier.”

“I’m willing to do everything you want with you.” Vinson held Arielle’s hand, and they looked into each other’s eyes lovingly without saying a word.

When they arrived, Vinson parked his car and walked into the cinema while holding Arielle’s hand. As she was already considered a public figure, Arielle didn’t want her private life to be photographed.

Hence, she took out two face masks from her bag, and the two of them put them on before entering the cinema. Then, Vinson went to queue up to buy popcorn and soda.

Arielle watched as Vinson stood in line among the crowd and wondered if she would be happy right now if her adoptive parents hadn’t been kidnapped.

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1315

Chapter 1315 Perfect Couple

“What are you looking at?”

As Vinson strode toward Arielle with popcorn and soda in his hands, he chuckled and teased when he saw her staring ahead.

“I’m looking at you!” Arielle returned to her senses and crossed her arms. She gave him a sidelong glance and remarked, “Hmph, as expected of Mr. Nightshire. You’re so eye-catching even with a mask on.”

Chuckling, Vinson walked over to her and put the popcorn in her arms while holding the soda in one hand and circling her waist with the other. Then, he leaned his head forward and snickered next to her ear. “Are you jealous?”

“You wish!”

Arielle snorted and shot a glare at the women who were staring at Vinson. Indeed, she was jealous.

You women can look all you want. He won’t be yours anyway.

The incident with Penelope might have triggered her tendency to get jealous. She felt like she was becoming more like an ordinary girl when it came to relationships.

Looking at the pouting Arielle, Vinson was even more head over heels for her.

When he was with Penelope back then, he didn’t notice her jealousy at all. One could only imagine how troubled he felt.

However, he felt a sense of relief right then when he saw Arielle behaving that way, knowing that she truly loved him.

Vinson smiled and said, “I belong to you. Not just my body but my heart as well. No one else can take me away. Arielle, only you can have me completely.”

Upon hearing that, Arielle let out a smile as a surge of warmth rose in her heart.

Vinson was extremely considerate. He had even prepared a change of clothes for Arielle when he came to pick her up. Otherwise, she would be trending on the internet if she were to walk on the streets in her police uniform.

“You’re such a smooth talker,” Arielle said and hit him lightly before withdrawing herself from his embrace.

“Come on, the movie is about to start.”

Although Arielle wore a face mask, Vinson could discern her embarrassment and delight. He stepped forward, grabbed her hand, and led her into the theater.

“What a perfect couple.”

A girl commented when she saw Vinson, a slender man who was close to two meters tall, queueing to buy popcorn. Even with his face mask on, she noticed his exceptional temperament. Initially, she wanted to strike up a conversation with him to see if she could get lucky with him.

But when she saw him walking toward Arielle, she immediately felt envious and thought that the woman was just lucky to meet such a fine man.

However, after watching the couple's interaction, she realized that Vinson wasn't someone she could ever have a chance to be with, especially when she noticed that his eyes were filled with affection for Arielle.

Meanwhile, Arielle had no idea that it only took a while for someone to develop feelings for Vinson before realizing she couldn't be with him upon seeing the couple who were a match made in heaven.

However, Arielle wouldn't take it to heart even if she knew. After all, Vinson just told her that she was the only woman in the world who could have his heart and body.

The couple walked into the theater with their fingers intertwined. After that, they found their seats and sat down.

At that moment, there were still four to five minutes before the movie started. Apart from the empty seats in their vicinity, the theater was almost full.

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1316

Chapter 1316 Happiness

“Which movie ticket did you get?” Arielle moved closer to Vinson and asked curiously. She kept her head down as she was worried that someone would see her with Vinson. At the same time, she wondered which movie Vinson had chosen.

“It’s a secret!” Vinson whispered into Arielle’s ear, prompting her to growl in annoyance.

She glanced away and proceeded to ignore him.

On the other hand, Vinson could not stop looking at Arielle. The more he looked at her, the more adorable she seemed. He smiled as he did not expect to discover this side of her.

“You shall find out soon, so please don’t be angry.” Vinson gently pinched her cheek through her mask. The softness of her cheek between his fingers softened his heart.

“Vinson, you’ve been very bad lately,” Arielle replied indignantly.

“You call this bad? I don’t think you understand what bad means.” Vinson smirked and leaned closer before whispering into Arielle’s ear, “Do you want to experience how bad I can be?”

Argh! He is driving me crazy! How dare he tease me like this in public?

“No! Never!” Arielle refused firmly and blushed underneath her mask. She quickly sat straight and focused on the giant screen. At the same time, she kept quiet as she feared Vinson would say even more outrageous things if she continued to speak.

She did not think her ears and heart could bear any more shocking words.

What Vinson said just now caused her heart to beat rapidly, and she thought she was going to die from a heart attack.

Meanwhile, Vinson smirked but stopped teasing her.

As promised, she soon knew which movie he had chosen. The screen began to play the movie after the commercials. It turned out that the movie was a romantic film.

It was also Arielle's first time watching a movie with Vinson. She smiled with her eyes glued to the screen attentively. Soon, she became immersed in the film.

On the other hand, Vinson could not stop looking at Arielle. She was the leading lady of his heart, and her emotions dictated his; he would smile when she was happy and frown when she was sad.

While other men focused on the movie, Vinson only had eyes for Arielle. He fed her popcorn from time to time and placed a straw between her lips so that she could take a sip of the soda. Vinson took care of her attentively like a caring and thoughtful husband.

“Look at how nice that man treats his girlfriend. Why have you never done anything like that for me?” A woman behind Vinson and Arielle nudged her boyfriend enviously.

The woman's boyfriend, who was engrossed in the movie, immediately looked away from the screen upon hearing her and saw Vinson feeding Arielle popcorn. In an attempt to appease his girlfriend, he coaxed, “Oh, darling. Please don't be angry. Let me feed you popcorn. Here's a little popcorn to sweeten up your day.”

“Oh, shut up!” the woman complained but was secretly happy.

At that moment, the woman realized that happiness was different for every couple. Although her boyfriend was not perfect, he still loved her in his way.

Moreover, she was happy that he acted immediately upon hearing her complaint.

He was much better than other men who refused or were reluctant to make improvements despite repeated reminders.

Therefore, the woman felt she should cherish her boyfriend and stop comparing him to other men. At that thought, she rested her head gently on her boyfriend's shoulder. The latter glanced at her and smiled blissfully.