

The Mysterious Wife-

Chapter 18 Runaway

The next day...

In the exam room...

Alyssa and Emily were taken to the Language University next to A University.

Language University had a live studio, and the exams were arranged to be carried out there.

Alyssa sat down fearlessly.

In contrast, Emily was slightly nervous and sat down with a butterfly in her stomach.

Not only students and teachers of A University could see the progress of the exams, but also those who watched the live broadcasting online.

It was impossible to cheat in full view of everyone.

After a quick glance at those questions, Alyssa began to answer them. Most of them she had met before. Even for those she had not, she could recall similar ones to mind.

She perfectly mastered the knowledge points with the help of Ella's notes. No matter how those questions were set, she could figure them out smoothly.

One after another, Alyssa answered them with a calm look in her eyes.

On the other hand, Emily was much more nervous. From time to time, she looked up at the camera with nervousness.

The exams began in the morning and ended in the evening. Along with its progression, more and more people visited the broadcasting room online. By the time it was over, 100,000 views were recorded.

When the last exam was finished, the results of those previous tests were released.

After the two girls handed in their papers, the examiners began to mark their last exam performance.

Five minutes later...

All the results came out.

Emily's total score was 442.

And Alyssa's total score was 490!

Upon learning the results, Emily hurriedly went to check the papers.

Although Emily did not find anything wrong, she looked at the examiners, saying, 'No way! Something must be wrong. Please recheck them. Seriously, there must be something wrong!'

'Humph! Are you suggesting that we are old and dim-eyed? Do you really think all of us have made the same errors?'

'I...' Emily realized that she had put her foot in her mouth, looked at the professors apologetically, then said, 'Sorry. I didn't mean that. Just, it's so weird and unbelievable. I am not challenging your authority.'

'I originally had a rather good impression of you. How come you suspected Alyssa's performance like this? We've spent two whole days on this, and it's apparent that Alyssa did not cheat and finished all those questions on her own. Don't you think you're going too far?'

‘I...’ Emily was still not convinced. However, she could tell that the professors were on Alyssa’s side.

Emily lowered her head to conceal the mutinous look in her eyes.

However, there was nothing left for her to alter the situation.

‘Emily, you wronged me. You don’t think you can pretend that nothing had happened, do you?’

‘I...’

‘Apologize to me.’ Alyssa stared at Emily.

At Alyssa’s words, Emily glanced at her, snorted, then turned to leave.

Alyssa frowned slightly at Emily’s back. The latter soon disappeared from the awkward situation.

‘Never mind!’ Alyssa thought inwardly.

Emily’s escape did not upset Alyssa at all. There would be plenty of opportunities for them to meet in the future.

Alyssa heaved a sigh of relief and stretched out. She had not slept for days and wanted to go home immediately for a nice sleep.

When Alyssa stepped out of the exam room slowly, it was already dark outside. She hailed a taxi and directly returned to the villa of her and Leon.

When Alyssa arrived home, she saw Leon’s car parked on the side of the road at once.

That was unusual.

Leon was home.

In a honeyed mood, Alyssa entered the house and saw Leon reading something on the sofa.

‘You’re back. What do you fancy eating? I’ll make it for you.’

At Alyssa’s question, Leon turned to look at her with a slightly surprised expression, wondering if the woman’s question meant that she could cook.