Chapter 1546 Keep The Baby

Sonia could tell he had recognized who she was, so she tried to escape immediately. However, there was no way Harvey was going to let her go that easily.

“The child inside you is mine, right?” He pulled her into his embrace and asked in a deep voice next to her ear. It was a rhetorical question.

He didn't at all expect that the person he had been trying his best to find was Arielle's friend. It made him feel silly for looking around everywhere.

Still, he was glad he came to pick her up. Otherwise, his search would have continued to be a fruitless endeavor.

“What child? I don't know what you're talking about.” When she heard him mentioning the baby, her expression changed as she attempted to free herself from his grip. Sadly, the difference in strength between a man and a woman was too great. Additionally, she was already pretty weak, so she had no chance of escape.

Seeing that she refused to admit it, he abruptly softened his tone. “I know I did wrong by you that night. Can we talk about it? Please?”

To be honest, he never expected Sonia to get pregnant.

However, when he thought about the child, he wasn't at all repulsed. In fact, he was a little excited.

Sonia wasn't sure what to do. He already recognizes me, so not admitting it seems pointless. But if I admit it, it'll be awkward. Besides, I didn't really reject what happened that night...

“How about we meet up with Arielle first?” Seeing that she wasn't making a sound, Harvey narrowed his eyes and suggested.

In reality, he wanted to convince her to keep the child. It was his first, after all. He didn't want to lose it just like that.

If she wasn't willing to keep the child, he would feel sad and remorseful, but he would still respect her decision.

She hesitated for a second before nodding after hearing Arielle's name. I'm going to ask Arielle what I should do about this!

He let out a sigh of relief. Thank god I was quick-witted enough to come up with that. This'll make her stay by my side for the moment.

Then he tried to grab her hand, but she flung his away.

Noticing his slightly perplexed look, she blushed. "I can walk by myself."

"Then feel free to walk slower." Harvey led the way as he spoke.

Sonia followed behind him slowly as she stared at his wide back. When she thought about how softly he was talking to her earlier, her face flushed even redder. She gently slapped her cheeks in frustration. What am I thinking?

"What's wrong?" He turned and saw her slapping herself.

She didn't expect him to see that, so she quickly replied, "It's nothing. My face was just feeling a little uncomfortable."

Upon hearing that, he turned and approached her. Before she could react, his hands lifted her face as he examined her seriously. "I don't see any problem with your face. You can let Arielle give you a check-up later."

With Arielle around, there was no need to go to a hospital.

Sonia stared at Harvey dumbfoundedly. She didn't expect her casual remark would cause him to take such an action.

Seeing that she wasn't showing any reaction after he finished speaking, Harvey lowered his head and gazed into her eyes. Suddenly, his heart skipped a beat.

Both of them stared at each other until a phone call interrupted them and returned them to their senses. He quickly let her face go while she pulled out her phone from her bag. Her face darkened when she saw who was calling her.

Chapter 1547 Do Not Want The Child

Sonia rejected the call and shoved her phone back into her bag. She even intentionally turned the device off as she did.

Harvey was worried about her when he saw that but was thoughtful enough to not ask about it. He opened the door to his car silently and let her go in.

During the ride, he occasionally glanced at her. Her head was leaning against the car window. She looked as though something was weighing on her mind. His lips parted, but he ultimately didn't say what he was thinking.

Even though they had already done the deed, and she was carrying his child, they weren't at all familiar with each other. Therefore, he didn't feel it appropriate to ask her about her personal matters.

If he asked, he might accidentally scare her away.

Upon reaching the apartment, Harvey knew Sonia really wanted to meet Arielle, so he immediately brought her to Arielle's room and knocked on the door.

It wasn't until Arielle allowed them to come in verbally that he opened the door to let Sonia in.

"You really are still alive, Ms. Moore!" Sonia got so emotional that her eyes were turning red when she saw Arielle alive and well. She speedily gave Arielle a hug and choked out, "I really thought you were dead. You have no idea how sad I was. I'm so glad you're still alive."

Arielle knew Sonia was truly worried about her. The edges of her lips curved upward.

"Why are you crying? I'm fine, aren't I? It's just that my situation has forced me to hide." She patted Sonia's head.

Sonia let her go and stared at her with concern. "Where are you hurt? Have you recovered?"

"I'll recover soon enough," Arielle replied as her line of sight shifted to Sonia's abdomen. "What do you plan to do with the child?"

Harvey, who had been on his way back with a cup of water, instantly paused in his tracks when he heard that question. He stopped right outside the room door, wanting to hear the answer as well.

Sonia lowered her head as she thought about how to answer that sensitive question.

Her fingers were holding onto the edges of her shirt while there was a lost look in her eyes. "I-I don't know."

Back when she first found out that she was pregnant, she had been scared and worried. However, that night, as she caressed her belly, a magical feeling washed over her as she realized her body was nurturing and growing a new life. If no accidents occurred, it would only take eight more months before she could meet with that new life.

However, she was unsure if she could handle the responsibility of raising a child.

Currently, the father of her child had learned she was pregnant. She didn't know what his opinion of the child was—whether he wanted to raise the child together with her or ask her to abort it.

“You better think through this carefully, Sonia. If you don't want the child, you should abort it as soon as possible. It'll be better for your body, and you'll recover sooner,” Arielle advised.

She didn't want Sonia to give birth to the child because the life of a single mother was too difficult. Additionally, due to Sonia's identity, her parents and grandparents wouldn't be able to accept the fact that she got pregnant before marriage as she would become a single mother.

“I did think about keeping the child, but that was just a fleeting thought,” Sonia uttered as she raised her head to meet Arielle's eyes and smiled bitterly. “However, I don't have the courage to keep it. I don't know if I can endure the consequences of giving birth to this baby. Not only will I be going through hardship as a single mother, but I also don't know if I can even provide it with a comfortable life. If I can't, then why should I give birth to it and let it suffer with me?”

“Then abort it!” Arielle narrowed her eyes.

Harvey couldn't hold back anymore when he heard that.

Chapter 1548 Father

Harvey rushed into the room, stared at both women, and announced seriously, “Let's get married, Sonia.”

Sonia stared at him, flabbergasted. What did he just say? Did he say he wants to marry me?

Arielle narrowed her eyes and glanced back and forth between the two. Suddenly, she realized what was going on. It seems like fate isn't something that can be avoided. Who would've thought the person Sonia had a one-night stand with was Harvey? So this is who he meant.

A faint smile appeared on her face. It seems like Sonia's definitely going to keep the baby. It's quite a good arrangement. Harvey is a good man, and Sonia's a good woman. If both of them married each other, it would be a happily ever after.

“M-Marriage?” Sonia stared at Harvey with shock. We only had a one-night stand! We don’t know anything about each other at all, nor do we have feelings for each other. Isn’t it too hasty to suggest marriage right now? Arielle told me before that I have to marry someone who likes me and who I also like. If not, I should marry a man loyal only to me. Otherwise, my future will be a miserable one.

“Yes, marriage.” He stared at her and uttered seriously, “I won’t let you regret marrying me.”

A plan was already laid out in his mind. If Sonia agreed to marry him, he would devote himself to her. He would give her all the love and care he could muster, thus making sure she would never regret marrying him.

Sonia gazed at his serious expression. To be honest, if Arielle can be friends with him, that means he must be a good person. However, his suggestion of marriage is too hasty.

“Arielle told me before that if I’m to marry someone, I should do it with someone I like and who likes me. That person should also be completely loyal to me. Otherwise, my future will be a miserable one.” She paused. “This is technically the first time we formally meet. We don’t understand each other, and we certainly don’t know if we even like each other. It’s too hasty bringing up marriage now.”

Arielle, who was currently being ignored by the couple, nodded subconsciously when she heard that. That’s exactly what I told her. I’m glad she understood it.

Harvey thought about it and found that line of reasoning to be logical.

Sure, he kind of liked her, but he didn’t really love her.

“Then how about we try going out with each other first? If we end up liking each other, we’ll get married. What do you think?” He stared at her deeply as he suggested in a soft tone.

Sonia remained silent for a second before replying, “One month. We’ll date for one month. If we still don’t love each other and have no intention of taking our relationship to the next stage by then, I’ll abort the child.”

By the end of that month, the child would be three months old. If they couldn’t accept each other by then, she would abort the child because she believed she had no ability to raise the baby alone, even though it would make her feel quite remorseful.

Harvey nodded. That’s not a bad suggestion. As long as she’s willing to give me a chance, I’m good with it.

Once the matter was dealt with, Arielle asked him to send Sonia back. On the way back, he learned Sonia was experiencing morning sickness. Thus, he intentionally bought a bunch of dried fruits for her. Just as she arrived at the campus and took two steps forward, someone grabbed her arm.

Her expression darkened when she saw who it was.

Chapter 1549 Obstinace

“Why didn’t you pick up your phone? You even turned it off!” Kelly stared at her daughter with rage.

Sonia stared at her mother and took a deep breath. “When I was about to answer the call, the phone ran out of power and turned off by itself. If you have anything to say, just say it to me here.”

It wasn’t that she didn’t want to answer her mother’s call. It was just that she couldn’t accept what her mother was saying.

Her mother was telling her to go to the palace and comfort the queen since Aaron was still missing. If she did that, the queen would definitely make her Aaron’s wife in the future.

However, she had no interest in gaining the queen’s favor or being Aaron’s wife.

When she had a conversation about that with Arielle back then, she already knew she didn’t like Aaron at all. She had no feelings for him.

That was why she had been avoiding her mother’s calls.

“Prince Aaron is back. After your classes end, pack your things and move into the palace to take care of him,” Kelly demanded. “He’s weak right now. If you treat him well, he’ll treat you well, and you’ll be his consort in no time.”

“I already said I don’t like Prince Aaron, Mother. Why do you insist on making me stay by his side?” Sonia stared at her mother, upset. “He doesn’t like me. Even if I serve him for the rest of my life, he still won’t like me.”

“So what if you have to serve him forever or that he doesn’t love you? As long as you’re his consort, that’s enough. Is love really that important?” Kelly was infuriated by her daughter’s rejection, but she still suppressed her rage as she spoke. Everything that I’m doing is for this stupid brat, yet she keeps getting in her own way. Aaron’s the most distinguished young man in Turlen! As long as Sonia marries him, with his status, she’ll live a worry-free life for the rest of her days. Should Aaron become king in the future, her brothers may get a pretty good boost in their careers if he's feeling generous. I don't understand why she doesn't see how much good it'll bring her and the family.

"There's no way I'll get together with Prince Aaron, Mother. Please just forget about it already." Sonia was so mad that her fingers were trembling.

Besides, she was pregnant at the moment. Even if she wasn't, she still wouldn't be willing to marry Aaron and live a life of misery.

What she truly wanted was a happy, fulfilling life, much like Arielle and Vinson had. Every time she looked at them, she could see joy pouring out of their eyes.

Seeing how obstinate Sonia was, Kelly was livid. "Sonia!"

"I still have classes to attend, Mother. I'm leaving now." Sonia then quickly tried to return to the campus. However, Kelly wasn't going to let her daughter go before she obtained the answer she wanted. Her grip on Sonia was so strong that Sonia couldn't escape.

It rendered Sonia speechless.

Her eyes were turning red as she asked in a desperate tone, "What do you want from me?"

Kelly ordered coldly, "You're coming back with me. I'll help you apply for leave."

Sonia was on the verge of laughing out loud from anger. She really isn't going to give up until I agree to marry Prince Aaron, huh?

"Does Father know about your visit, Mother?" Before Kelly could reply, she continued, "Does he really know?"

"So what if he doesn't or does? I gave birth to you! You will do whatever the hell I want you to do!"

"I won't leave with you! If you want to go there, do it yourself!"

"You will return with me today!" Kelly tried to pull her daughter again, but then a loud yell rang out next to her. "Let her go!"

Chapter 1550 Crossing The Line

After Harvey sent Sonia to the campus, he didn't return to the apartment immediately. Instead, he called Arielle to ask her what a pregnant woman could eat to get energy if she was unable to tolerate eating normal food due to nausea.

He listed down the food Arielle told him and went to the supermarket to buy them. When he left the building, he was holding two bags of food. Just as he returned to Sonia, he saw an older woman pulling her, which made him angry.

"Who are you?" Kelly glared at the man who had appeared out of nowhere. "This is my daughter. What I'm doing to her doesn't concern you!"

Harvey was stunned. He didn't expect the older woman to be Sonia's mother and his future mother-in-law. Why am I so unlucky? I've already offended my future mother-in-law on the first day I met her!

However, when he saw the pain in Sonia's eyes, his heart ached. So what if she's Sonia's mother? A mother shouldn't be treating her daughter like that!

"I'm her friend!" He calmed down and spoke seriously. "Sonia may be your daughter, but she's also her own person with her own thoughts. Can't you see the way you're treating her is hurting her and making the gap between the two of you wider?"

"Friend? What friend? Why don't I know she has a friend like you?" Kelly stared at him unkindly. Clearly, she didn't buy his lie.

Slowly, she became certain he was one of Sonia's admirers. After all, her daughter was elegant and graceful, so of course, there were a bunch of men who wanted to court her. Upon determining him as one of them, she coldly ordered, "I don't care what kind of friend you are. You better stay away from my daughter. She's not someone you can be together with."

Harvey didn't expect his intentions to be that obvious.

However, upon analyzing the look in her eyes and her facial expression, he let out a sigh of relief in his mind. She's just saying it willy-nilly.

And so, he continued in a sincere tone, "I really am her friend." Pausing, he added, "You're treating her a bit too harshly."

There was no way he was going to give up on Sonia.

He had made up his mind to take care of her for the rest of her life if she wanted him by her side. However, seeing how violent his mother-in-law was acting, he decided to not bring up the news just yet to prevent making things worse.

Kelly was already experiencing a mild headache from the anger Sonia caused her. Hence, when she heard what Harvey said, she didn't mince her words at all. "This is a matter between me and my daughter. This has nothing to do with you, so stop butting into our business."

"You're going too far, Mother." Sonia didn't expect her mother to still treat him that harshly when he had already said he was a friend.

It made her angry and embarrassed.

Seeing how her daughter was close to tears, Kelly suddenly experienced a bout of motherly love and said, "Don't forget what I told you. Come back tonight."

With that, she left.

Sonia's eyes had turned red as she was thoroughly pissed off by her mother.

At that moment, she kind of looked like a rabbit in Harvey's eyes. His heart ached as he gently pulled Sonia into his embrace and patted her head. "No need to be sad. I'll be there to support you if you need help."

She suddenly felt peaceful as she listened to his strong and steady heartbeats while in his embrace.

However, they were at the campus entrance. Therefore, it was rather embarrassing for her to hug him in front of so many people. She immediately escaped from his embrace and suggested, "You should head back. I still need to attend my classes."

Obsessed CEO Throws Himself at Me Chapter 1551

Chapter 1551 Who Is Worried About That

Harvey abruptly felt as if something was missing when Sonia vanished from his arms.

He stared at her intently as a strange feeling filled his heart.

"I've bought some food for you. You should bring this with you, just in case you don't have the appetite to eat your regular meals," he stated as he opened the door and gave her the food he bought. She refused, which made him think she was worried about the food affecting the baby's health. Thus, he assured her, "Don't worry; I bought these after asking Arielle for advice. These are all safe for pregnant women to eat."

Sonia blushed. W-Who's worried about that? Fine, I guess I was a little worried about it. The important part is that all my classmates are doctors-to-be! If they see me eating these, they'll suspect or know I'm pregnant!

However, seeing how earnest he appeared to be, she felt it would be bad to reject his kindness. She thought about how to respond and said, "I can only bring two back with me." Then, feeling like that was still trampling on his kindness, she added in a small voice, "I need to keep my pregnancy a secret, after all. They're all medical students, so I'm concerned they'll figure it out."

In truth, Harvey wasn't that bothered by her refusal. For some reason, though, her explanation made him feel quite happy. The edges of his lips curved upward.

"All right then." He then reminded her sincerely, "If you need anything, just call me. I'll be there, no matter what time it is. Just call me and let me know what you want to eat. I'll bring it to you."

Sonia widened her eyes in shock. Is that really necessary?

He chuckled faintly upon seeing her surprised look. Did she forget about what we discussed?

"Don't forget that we're in a romantic relationship right now. Besides, you're carrying my child. It's only natural that I'm treating you nicely. There's no need for you to feel bad. Just call me whenever you need me," he informed softly.

She didn't expect him to take the matter so seriously. However, it did make her curious if he really was willing to go that far. "Got it. If I need your help, I'll call you."

After she returned, the edges of her lips were still quirked up.

Bella stared at her in shock when she walked out.

"I thought you applied for leave? Why did you come back?" She was also a little surprised that Sonia appeared to be in a good mood, which was unlike her usual self.

It wasn't until Sonia heard her friend's voice that she realized Bella was standing in front of her. She had been so focused on thinking about Harvey that she didn't notice a person was in front of her. It made her slap her head in annoyance.

"Why are you hitting yourself?" Bella grabbed her hand and smiled. "I'm not going to take care of you if you slap your brain out."

Before Sonia could reply, Bella repeated her question.

Although she did view Bella as a good friend, she still wasn't certain if she should let her secret out. After thinking for a while, she revealed what she could.

"So you met your child's father, and now he's asking for your hand in marriage?" Bella widened her eyes in astonishment. She realized her voice was getting too loud, so she quickly covered her mouth. After looking around, she let out a sigh of relief upon seeing no one near them.

“Mm-hm!” Both of them chatted as they headed to the dorm.

Meanwhile, in Paelsford Manor, Aaron’s eyes widened in disbelief when he received a certain piece of news from his subordinates.
