

When His Eyes Opened

Chapter 2382

• • •

Chapter 2382

“Would you like me to recruit for you?”

Elliot replied, “I will push you when I see something suitable.”

Avery: “I’ll recruit myself! You have your own business to do, so don’t focus on recruiting people.”

Elliot: “Okay! I’ll go back and take a look. If there’s no problem, I’ll send it to you.”

Avery: “Um.”

After coming out of the airport, Elliot asked the driver to take Avery to the company first.

Tate Industries’s building and Sterling Group’s building were not in the same direction.

The direction of the airport and their companies were in a triangle point.

It was Avery's temporary decision to return to work in the Tate Industries. Some time ago, she was very confused about what she was going to do next. She had two options. One option was to do medical research, a career she preferred. The second was to return to the Tate Industries to work. Between the two, she hesitated for a long time and finally chose the latter. The reason was very simple. If she chose the former, then she had no time to take care of the family. After going through so many things, she felt that family was more important than career in her heart at this stage. After the car arrived at the Tate Industries, Avery opened the car door and got out of the car.

“I’ll pick you up from get off work at night.” Elliot said, “If you tell me not to work overtime, you are not allowed to work overtime either.”

Avery: “I promise not to work overtime. The company has hired a new professional manager. I’ll talk to him later and see how it goes.”

“Who hired it?” Elliot had been in surgery and recuperating for a while, and he still couldn’t understand everything about his company, and even more about Tate Industries.

“Vice President Locklyn was recruited when he resigned. Vice President Locklyn’s physical examination revealed that there was something wrong with his health. The doctor told him to recuperate at home, so he couldn’t be under too much pressure. So Vice President Locklyn retired.” Avery said, “They didn’t follow

you. Speaking of this, it is probably because you were not in good health at the time.”

“Yeah. Send me a copy of his resume and I’ll take a look at the person you hired.”

Elliot said, “Layla told me to leave the Tate Industries to her. Before Layla graduates from university, I can’t let the Tate Industries go bankrupt.”

Avery: “???” Her daughter Layla never said such a thing to her.

Layla was still so young, to say such a thing?

It’s incredible.

“Are you sure she’s not joking with you?”

Avery asked.

“It shouldn’t be a joke. Don’t always treat your child as a child. If Layla wants it, we’ll give it to her.” Elliot said calmly.

“You give what she wants? What if she wants your Sterling Group? You give it too?” Avery teased.

“As long as she wants Sterling Group, of course I will give it.” Elliot did not hesitate, “Mine is the child’s.”

Avery: “...”

According to Elliot’s educational philosophy, it was really difficult to educate independent and hard-working children.

Avery: “Didn’t we agree when we were in Kuoslaville that we can’t spoil children like this?”

Elliot: “I didn’t tell the children this, I just told you. Layla won’t all leave. She will definitely save some for Robert and Hayden.”

Avery: “but we can’t instill in her the idea of ‘ours is hers’.”

Elliot: “We are dead, aren’t our things theirs? I don’t need to indoctrinate it!”

• • •