

Chapter 4

Rick's face turned pale from her fright.

However, Selena sat down next to Rick, didn't do anything, just closed her eyes and fell asleep.

Being dragged by Janice to drink with others tonight, I have a terrible headache right now.

When Selena woke up after sleeping for a while, she felt the side of her leg was warm, and when she lowered her head, she saw that the little bun had rubbed against her leg at some point, and her little hand was still grabbing the corner of her clothes.

Selena laughed.

When she was in the country before, she raised a cat. She was very timid and afraid of people, and would run away when she saw people. However, as long as you don't pay attention to it, let it relax and feel that you are not a threat, it will sneak up to you by itself, and even climb onto your lap to sleep.

Little bun noticed her gaze, and his little face flushed a little, but this time there was no panic in his eyes, his big eyes were full of curiosity.

It really looks like a little milk cat, even the eyes are similar.

The corners of Selena's lips curled up slightly, her hands were itchy, and finally she couldn't help stretching out her hand to rub that hairy head.

With this touch, his expression immediately changed.

Why is your forehead so hot!

"You have a fever?"

Janice will at least lock her up until the end of the audition tomorrow or even longer.

It's dangerous for the child to burn like this.

While anxious, she found something was wrong, the light bulb was obviously broken, why is there still light in the room?

When I looked up, I realized that there was a small skylight above my head, and a little bit of starlight was falling from the window.

Selena searched around and brought a ladder over.

"Little bun, come here, I'll help you out!"

The little guy reacted to her words for the first time, but shook his head with a firm gaze.

Selena understood what he meant, smiled and pinched his face, "You're quite loyal, do you want to share weal and woe with me? Go up, the window is too small, I can't get out, you go out first, then Get someone to save me."

Seeing that the little guy was still hesitating, Selena directly picked him up and put him on the ladder, "Quick, don't ink if you're a man, I'll protect you below!"

After finally sending the child out, Selena was dizzy for a while, her feet went limp, and she fell off the ladder...

On the edge of the window, Little bun watched this scene with great horror on his face, which had been sluggish all the time...

Selena forced herself to say a word, "Go..."

Under the starlight, the woman's face was pale and haggard, but she couldn't hide her stunning beauty. Especially those eyes, clear and delicate, like a sea that reflects the stars.

She is no longer the bumpkin and ugly duckling she used to be.

But what's the use?

Selena smiled wryly, she hadn't avenged her revenge, she was about to fall to her death here...

However, saving a little bun before he died was considered a good deed.

If her child hadn't died back then, it would probably have been this old...

After the car accident five years ago, the Ning family thought she was ashamed and sent her to a pheasant university in the country that specially accepted playboys, and left her to fend for herself.

She dropped out of school and reapplied to USC, absorbing all kinds of knowledge almost crazily.

Because she wanted to defeat Susie and take back everything that belonged to her! Most importantly, acting is her biggest dream in this life.

After returning to China, with this face and solid acting skills, she was favored by Janice and successfully joined the industry's largest economic company, Empire Entertainment.

The family was supposed to be open-minded, but Susie joined Empire right after her, and suppressed her everywhere...

