

Chapter 449

“I don’t agree to a divorce. Savanna, don’t even think about leaving me.”

Brandon opened his mouth and coldly threw out a few words. His deep eyes were filled with possessiveness.

Savanna looked at him without any fear in his eyes. “I’ve decided.”

The atmosphere was tense.

Seeing that, Janet quickly took Tye away. She said, “I’ll take Tye to the toilet, you guys chat.”

“Why?” Brandon asked, “Tell me why? We already have a daughter, and we will soon be able to live at life that we have longed for a long time.”

Savanna held the child in her arms tightly and said lightly, “Maybe that is what you are looking forward to, but for me, it is meaningless.”

“Why is it meaningless?” Brandon was like an angry lion. He took a step forward and grabbed Savanna by the shoulder.

Savanna was in pain. Her arm shook, and the daughter in her arms shook violently.

“Roya!”

Brandon had good control over his strength and would not let anything happen to the baby. “You still care a lot about our daughter.”

He was deliberately probing her.

Savanna looked up and gave Brandon a deep look. “Because Roya is my baby.”

She thought, in other words, what I care about is my daughter, and it has nothing to do with you.

“Savanna, you can hate me and blame me,” Brandon lowered his noble head and pleaded, “I only have one request. Don’t divorce me.”

He thought that as long as he was willing to make a concession, Savanna would continue to stay by his side.

However, the next second, the woman’s light tone shocked him.

“Brandon, I fell in love with someone else.”

“What did you say?” Brandon asked, his eyes widening.

“I fell in love with someone else. I love him very much. I have gained respect and understanding from him.” Savanna smiled like a young girl and said, “At the same time, I also understand one thing. My feelings for you are just an obsession.”

“You are talking nonsense.” Brandon was so angry that his hands were shaking. He could not even utter a complete sentence.

“Brandon, you know that I’m not someone who jokes about feelings.” Savanna glanced at him, her eyes calm and emotionless.

Brandon clenched his fists and said, “Who is that person?”

“I can’t tell you that. I’m afraid that you will cause trouble for him.” Her words were full of concern for that man.

Brandon felt heartbroken and asked with a cold smile, “Are you two together? Why are you protecting him?”

“We still need your help.” Savanna pleaded, “Please let go and divorce me.”

Brandon laughed even louder as tears seeped out from the corners of his eyes.

“Savanna, what makes you think that I will let you go and let you be happy?”

Savanna said, “Winnie is back. As long as we divorce, you can be together with her again. This is good for everyone.”

A tear slid down from the corner of her eyes.

She reached out to wipe it away. “Mr. Cassel, I used to be ignorant and always pestered you. Now I understand, separating is our best ending.”

“Don’t use Winnie and me as a shield. You just want to divorce and be with that man. There’s no way!”

Brandon turned around and left in a hurry after he finished speaking.

When he disappeared at the end of the corridor, Janet, who had been secretly listening at the corner, came out with the child.

“Savanna, what’s going on? Why do you suddenly want to divorce Mr. Cassel?”

The baby in her arms made a few noises. Savanna reached out to pat her back and said calmly, “I can’t go on anymore.”

“But I think Mr. Cassel still wants to continue with you,” Janet said.

“Really?” Savanna turned her head and looked at the end of the corridor in a daze. “I didn’t see it.”

At least on the day that Roya was born, she did not feel Brandon’s care.

Savanna survived, but her heart died.

Especially after having a daughter, she could understand even more that feelings were not everything in life.

Savanna thought, moreover, we are not in love. It doesn’t make sense even if we’re together.

Janet could not help but say, "Do you really have someone you like?"

Savanna glanced at her lazily and changed the topic, "It's windy outside. I'm going back to the ward."

"But you haven't come into contact with any men recently." Janet followed behind and entered the ward.

A moment later, a candidate appeared in her mind.

"It can't be Rex, right? He treats you very well. These days, not only did he take care of you, but he also helped you hide it from Mr. Cassel."

As Janet spoke, she suddenly thought of something and suddenly let out a strange sound.

"But isn't he Mr. Cassel's good friend? Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife. Why doesn't Dr. Barton understand?"

Rex, who had just arrived at the door of the ward, suddenly did not know if he should go in after hearing this.

He awkwardly stopped at the door of the room.

"Rex!" Tye shouted excitedly, exposing Rex's whereabouts.

Janet was the first to look over and couldn't help but laugh when she saw the person.

"Well, speak of the devil! Here's Rex now!"

Rex had no choice but to go in. "I heard that Brandon has come here. Therefore, I come and have a look."

He saw that the three pairs of eyes in the ward were all staring at him.

Rex hurriedly explained, "It's not me! I didn't lead Brandon here."

"I know." Savanna smiled in understanding.

Janet took the initiative to admit her mistake. She said, "Mr. Cassel followed my car and secretly chased after me. Therefore, Savanna was very angry and decided to divorce him."

"I am not on impulse." Savanna smiled calmly and said, "It's not a bad thing. It's good for us to settle those things early."

"What do you mean by this?" Rex was shocked.

Savanna smiled, "I told Brandon about the divorce."

It was a very heavy topic, but for some reason, Rex felt a little happy.

There was a sense of joy, as if he had won a big award.

"Savanna, have you considered it?" Rex asked.

Savanna nodded, "I know that you and Brandon are good friends. There is no need to persuade me on his behalf. I have already made up my mind."

Unexpectedly, Rex said, "It is good for you to separate. You have suffered too much with him, and it is indeed time to stop the damage."

Janet listened to the conversation between them and felt that something was strange. However, she did not know what was wrong.

Rex stayed for a while and was about to leave. Rex stayed for a while, ready to leave. Just as he was leaving, Janet suddenly realized one thing.

"Dr. Barton, Savanna said she wanted a divorce just now. Why are you so happy? Do you like her?"

"Janet, don't joke around." Savanna glared at her best friend.

Just as she was about to apologize to Rex, Savanna saw that Rex's face had unexpectedly turned red.
