

The Mans Decree Chapter 1605 -

Chapter 1605 Monstrous

The next day, a sea of people crowded the martial arts arena. They were filled with anticipation for the battle between Skylar and Edgar.

Almost the entire martial arts world of Jadeborough was present at the scene.

A large number of them were hoping that Skylar could win the battle. After all, Warriors Alliance still disapproved of Edgar's brutality.

Soon, Skylar arrived at the martial arts arena with five Black Copper Robe warriors. He regarded the battle with great importance as it would secure his position in the martial arts world of Jadeborough.

As it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, he swore to go all out.

Edgar, too, brought several experts of the Deragon family to the martial arts arena. The originally lively martial arts arena instantly fell into pin-drop silence following his appearance.

Many people felt a deep sense of fear surge within them at the sight of Edgar.

Looking at the crowd's attitude toward him, Edgar raised the corners of his lips. The crowd's fear of him was what he liked the most.

Suddenly, a sharp voice rang out from the crowd, "Edgar's a b*stard! We must end him today!"

Everyone instantly turned toward the direction of the voice. The person initially wanted to flee the scene after shouting those words.

Unfortunately, he was caught by the crowd's gaze before he could do that.

It was a teenager with a boyish face.

"You're courting death!" Edgar narrowed his eyes and unleashed his murderous intent.

There was no way he would endure such a provocation in front of so many people.

He raised his hand as he spoke. Intense martial energy filled the air and suppressed the teenage child.

The crowd promptly dodged as they felt the aura. Horror shone brightly in the teenager's eyes.

When the martial energy approached the teenager, it was suddenly blocked by an aura.

“Edgar, he’s but a child. How could you do that? Are you even a man?”

It was Astrid who stepped forward slowly at that precise moment.

Fernando didn’t let her leave the Gunderson residence at her will. However, it was the battle between Skylar and Edgar that day. Overwhelmed by curiosity, she ran off to the arena.

She wanted to know what kind of battle would erupt between the two Greater Martial Arts Marquises.

Being a highly talented person, she wanted nothing more than to achieve the Greater Martial Arts Marquis level.

When Edgar saw Astrid stand out from the crowd, a smile immediately crept on his grim face.

He flashed her a devilish smirk.

Edgar used to be fond of Astrid. Unfortunately, a gifted person like him didn’t have the current achievements he had back then.

Since he was not as powerful as her, he didn’t dare to confess his love for her.

But things were different now. The whole martial arts world in Jadeborough had bowed to him, and he felt immensely proud of himself.

Astrid’s eyes were filled with disgust when she saw his look.

However, the man was not aware of that and stepped forward, approaching her.

“Ms. Gunderson, being the first talented woman in Jadeborough martial arts world, I’m afraid you’re the only person worthy of me. Do you know why I haven’t made a move against the Gundersons until now? It’s all because of you. I’m obsessed with your beauty.” Edgard went forward to pull Astrid’s hand in front of the crowd.

Astrid’s expression immediately changed. She couldn’t help but take a few steps back instinctively.

“Edgar, look at your monstrous look now. Does someone like you still deserve to like me? I feel sick when I see you. Please don’t come near me anymore,” she mocked him nonchalantly.

The smile on Edgar vanished at her words.

“You’re asking for death.”

His expression changed without a sign. It wasn’t so long ago that he claimed he liked Astrid, yet his eyes were filled with murderous intent then, looking as though he wanted to palm-strike the woman to death at any time.

Chapter 1606 Difference

Knowing she was no match for Edgar, Astrid turned pale.

The gap in power between Martial Arts Marquis and Greater Martial Arts Marquis was way too large.

Just when Edgar was about to attack Astrid, a massive wave of energy suddenly approached him and enveloped his body.

“What a shameless man you are! I can’t believe a grown man like you is trying to lay a hand on children and women.” After saying that, Skylar leaped up and landed steadily beside Astrid.

He turned to her and said in a chivalrous tone, “Don’t be afraid, Ms. Gunderson. As long as I’m here, no one can hurt you.”

However, Astrid’s eyes were filled with scorn as she glared at him. Saying nothing, she turned around and walked into the crowd.

“Don’t you act so pretentiously trying to save the damsel in distress, Skylar. She didn’t even give a d*mn about you! Stop thinking so highly of yourself,” Edgar sneered.

Skylar spat, “You and I are basically on the same level, but I’m much more intelligent than you. Only an idiot like you would take the initiative to stand up against Warriors Alliance and think you’re invincible just because you’re a Greater Martial Arts Marquis. What a joke! The world is so big. A Greater Martial Arts Marquis like you is nothing. I never expect you to be so ignorant.”

He had witnessed the higher-ups meeting of the Warriors Alliance before. Despite Tanner’s great power, he knew the Black Silver Robe and Black Gold Robe warriors’ strength was way more potent than the Black Copper Robe warriors.

In fact, there might even be Greater Martial Arts Marquis among the Black Copper Robe and Black Silver Robe warriors.

“You’re the one who’s ignorant here. You’ve just become a Greater Martial Arts Marquis. Do you think you can fight against me? Although you and I are both rookie Greater Martial Arts Marquises, your strength is far behind mine. I can defeat you with only one hand.” Edgar let out a cold snort, his eyes filling with disdain.

He thought he was different from Skylar as he had been through the thunder tribulation, and Skylar was undoubtedly no match for him.

“Haha! I never knew you were so good at bluffing. Even if you want to defeat me with two hands, do you think you can do it? Look at yourself! Kai had chopped off one of your arms. I wonder where you get the audacity to be so arrogant.”

Skylar’s laughter made Edgar’s expression turn even uglier.

Meanwhile, Kai was gazing at Skylar and Edgar in the corner of the stands. Colin, Renee, and Lizbeth were seated beside him,

He had put on a simple disguise to avoid being recognized.

Just then, Colin asked in a hushed voice, “Kai, who do you think will win?”

Kai remained silent. His eyes were sparkling.

He could not use his spiritual sense to probe the duo as they would immediately notice it.

A few moments later, he parted his lips and said, “Edgar will win the battle.”

“What makes you say that?” Colin asked curiously.

“Don’t ask. Just watch carefully.” Kai went silent after saying that.

At that moment, Skylar and Edgar were ready to get into a fight in the martial arts arena.

“Skylar, although both of us are rookie Greater Martial Arts Marquises, I’ll let you know the difference between us today!”

With that, Edgar unleashed his martial energy and leaped into the air, sending a terrifying aura straight at Skylar.

“Is that the power of a Greater Martial Arts Marquis?”

A look of surprise spread across the crowd’s faces as they felt the aura Edgar exuded.

Faced with Edgar’s attack, Skylar also went all out and unleashed the most potent aura in his body.

The moment the two auras collided, the whole place lit up. After that, explosions rang out, and the ground quaked.

Two Greater Martial Arts Marquises exchanging blows was indeed a rare scene.

Rumble!

The ground shook as if the whole world was trembling under the impact.

The Mans Decree Chapter 1607 -

Chapter 1607 Unscrupulous

Skylar and Edgar used incredibly peculiar magecraft, some of which were even unseen and unheard of.

As it turned out, those were the most powerful abilities of the spirits residing in their respective bodies.

“Edgar, how dare you be so arrogant despite your paltry skills!” Skylar bellowed before seemingly turning himself invisible mid-air.

The next second, Edgar felt a massive force crushing down on him, causing him to tremble ever so slightly.

Skylar’s figure suddenly rematerialized, only to reveal the utter shock and disbelief on his face.

What? That was my most powerful blow, yet Edgar barely flinched from it!

As his face darkened, the rest of the crowd, too, watched on with bated breath.

Most of them had hoped to see Skylar emerge victorious, yet from the looks of it, that outcome no longer seemed possible.

Edgar instantly burst into maniacal laughter. “Hahaha! Just so you know, my body has withstood lightning tribulation before. There’s no way you can hurt me!”

With that, a black aura engulfed him and morphed into a giant hand that hurtled toward Skylar.

Just then, an old voice rang out in Skylar’s mind. “Run! Quick, run...”

Alas, he was in such a daze that he hardly had time to react before the giant hand slammed down on him.

Boom!

In an instant, Skylar lost his balance and plummeted to the ground.

Edgar, however, wasn't ready to let up on his opponent. Instead, he launched a relentless attack by blasting Skylar with energy beams from his hand, rendering the latter unable to move or retaliate.

By then, the crowd was utterly dumbfounded. Never in their wildest dreams did they think a fight between two Greater Martial Arts Marquises would end that quickly.

Having witnessed the scene, everyone in the Deragon family started jumping for joy. "Mr. Edgar is the best! Mr. Edgar is the best..."

To the crowd's surprise, Skylar suddenly let out a thunderous roar as a dark shadow appeared on his body.

With it being enveloped in a cloud of black mist, there was no way of making out the shadow's features or even its gender.

"You've forced my hand!" the dark shadow bellowed before making Skylar jump to his feet.

Interestingly, the shadow stayed attached to Skylar, and from afar, one would think the latter was carrying a person on his back.

As Skylar felt his power increasing, his eyes, too, began turning red.

Edgar, on the other hand, remained unfazed. "Ah, even the spirit has decided to join the battle. Alas, those efforts are too little, too late. I'll see to it that you die today..."

Whoosh!

As soon as he said those words, Skylar swiftly appeared before him and slammed a fist onto his body.

Having been caught off guard, Edgar lost his balance and staggered backward.

Skylar once again felt a glimmer of hope, and the crowd began cheering him on.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

Knowing that he had to strike while the iron was hot, he threw out more than a dozen punches in a row, forcing Edgar to retreat in fear.

After seeing how Skylar had turned things around with the spirit taking control, everyone started to wish they had one in them too. "Wow. That spirit's so powerful! How I wish I could have one attached to me..."

"Wouldn't that make you a puppet, though? You'd lose all your privacy!"

"Who cares about privacy when you can have that insane amount of power? I wish the spirit would possess me right now!"

"Yes, and with the spirit's help, I'm sure we'd get a significant boost in our cultivation..."

Kai said nothing as he listened to the chatter around him. Gosh. If the martial arts world were to continue on this course, its end would soon be in sight. There's no way people can make real progress when they'd resort to unscrupulous behavior to attain power!

The Mans Decree Chapter 1608 -

Chapter 1608 Escaped

"Kai, Skylar looks rather formidable. Do you think Edgar can hold him off?" Colin asked.

"Don't worry. Let's keep on watching. I reckon Skylar is already looking for an opportunity to flee. He may seem to have the upper hand now, but he's only dishing out all those attacks to buy himself a chance to escape," Kai explained. "After all, he knows he'd lose if the fight were to drag on. By attacking with everything he's got, he's hoping it'd distract Edgar long enough for him to make a break for it."

Even though Colin didn't quite understand Kai's words, he did as instructed and kept his eyes fixed on the fight.

Meanwhile, Skylar had gotten even more fearsome and continued to rain blows on Edgar, leaving the latter struggling to fend off the attacks.

Now that Skylar was getting stronger and on the verge of winning the fight, several people in the crowd grew excited.

"President Norton is the best! Go on and kill Edgar! Kill him..."

"Edgar Deragon doesn't deserve a swift death. He should be skinned and flogged!"

Upon seeing those people cheering Skylar on, Kai couldn't help but shake his head. Ha! Given Edgar's character, there's no way he'd let those fools off once he wins the fight.

Boom!

An earsplitting explosion suddenly rang out, and Edgar found himself stumbling backward once again.

This time around, however, Skylar didn't take the chance to attack further. Instead, he paused momentarily before leaping into the air and heading toward the exit of the martial arts arena.

Naturally, that turn of events left everyone shell-shocked.

To them, Skylar had clearly gained the upper hand in the fight, so there was no logical reason why he should be running away.

They couldn't, for the life of them, justify his actions.

Colin's jaw had also dropped as he turned to look at Kai, his eyes full of admiration.

My goodness. His analysis was spot-on! That's impressive!

The next second, Edgar burst out laughing. "Hahaha! At least he was smart enough to run. If he hadn't, I'd have killed him..."

More importantly, I'm not going to give chase. I've never even thought about killing Skylar. All I want is to prove to everyone that I'm undefeatable!

With Skylar gone, it went without saying that Edgar was crowned the winner.

Of course, nobody had expected the epic battle between two Greater Martial Arts Marquises to end in such a comical manner.

Given Skylar's status, it was even more shocking that he would throw his ego away and flee with everyone watching.

By doing something like this, he would become the public's laughingstock.

What many people didn't know, however, was that Skylar couldn't care less about his ego.

Now that he had run away, those in the crowd who were clamoring for Edgar to be killed began to quiver with fear.

"Who were the ones who wanted me dead earlier? Step out right now!" Edgar yelled, a menacing aura radiating off of him.

Alas, one of the men was so terrified that he coughed out blood and died on the spot, leaving the rest to fall to their knees and beg for mercy.

"Please spare us, Mr. Deragon! Please! We'll pledge our eternal allegiance to you..."

Unfortunately, Edgar was devoid of emotion as he waved a hand and promptly reduced the begging men to a pool of blood and ribbons of flesh.

Upon witnessing his cruel actions, everyone fell into a tense silence.

As for Edgar, his gaze had shifted to a teenager in the crowd who hadn't moved an inch from his spot.

From the way Edgar's eyes were blazing with fury, it was clear he wasn't going to let the teenager off.

Just then, Astrid stood in front of the teenager. "Edgar, why do you keep staring at the kid? All he did was say something wrong!"

"Oh, are you trying to save him?" Edgar retorted, eyes narrowing as he did. "If so, take off your clothes now, and I might spare his life..."

Astrid's face instantly flushed with anger. "Scmbag! You're a scmbag!"
