Chapter 151

After David said that, his smile became serious, which instantly made Bobby and his family feel a lot of pressure. Now, they were all looking at David in astonishment.

Although they had not seen David in a long time, David was a yes-man in their eyes.

When David met Bobby and his wife, he would act like a mouse in front of a cat. In addition to that, he was also cautious when he saw Felicia and Quin.

This was the trauma they had given David after many years of abuse. In the past, David would not dare to refute Bobby and his wife. If he ever dared to talk back, he would be beaten.

When they first met David today, they naturally thought he was still the same as before.

Even if David brought two people with him, they did not pay attention to them at all. They did not believe that a timid person like David would dare to do anything to them.

However, David not only dared to refute them now, but he also spoke with sarcasm, which made Bobby unable to accept this strong contrast. He could not bear the fact that he lost his respect.

Therefore, he slapped the coffee table in front of him, stood up, pointed at David, and said, "David, don't think that I won't dare to hit you now that you've grown up. Do you think you can call me by my name? I'm your second uncle and I am your guardian. I dared to beat you all over the courtyard when you were a child and I still dare to do it now!"

Quin also looked at David with an unpleasant look on his face at this time. He grew up with David and he was only one year younger than David. With the help of his parents, he often bullied David when he was a child. He would blame David for everything and David was often made his scapegoat. Hence, David would be beaten instead of him and now, he had a natural psychological advantage against David.

Even now that he was twenty years old, he still had not been admitted to any university after graduating from high school. Moreover, he had been wandering aimlessly through society and he had come into contact with some bad people, which made him feel even more superior.

Now, David dared to come to his house to ask for money and sneer at them. Quin's mother told him that the money was for him to marry a wife and buy a house in the future. That money had nothing to do with David.

"David, if you're disrespectful to my dad again and call him by name, don't blame me for being rude to you!" Quin also interjected.

David turned his head to look at Quin and said in a flat voice, "Quin, shut up, you punk. I'll settle the matter with you later."

"Damn it! How dare you talk to me like that? You're asking to be beaten up!" After Quin finished speaking, he stood up from the sofa and wanted to rush over to hit David.

However, the moment Quin got up, he was pressed back onto the sofa by a big hand such that he was unable to move.

"F*ck, who are you? If you don't let go now, I will make sure you can't leave Shu City, do you believe me?" Quin struggled desperately, but no matter how hard he tried, he still could not overpower the big hand.

Gordon did not reply any of Quin's curses, he simply pressed Quin down a little harder.

It immediately made Quin feel a little suffocated such that he could not swear at all, so he could only stretch out his hand and wave it randomly in the air.

Gordon was a mercenary abroad, so he naturally did not have to waste too much effort to deal with a gangster like Quin.

Seeing that Quin was being pushed against the sofa and unable to move, Karen, who was sitting next to him, immediately got up to help him.

However, she was pushed by Wayne, who suddenly appeared in front of her. She was then also pushed down by a huge force until she fell onto the sofa.

Seeing this situation, Bobby could not endure this anymore. He stood up and wanted to look for a weapon. His wife and son were being bullied, so how could he simply endure this?

“Bobby, you’d better sit still. These two have been mercenaries abroad. They had been baptized in the war and they have blood on their hands. Do you think you can beat them?” David said as he looked at Bobby. Bobby was about to go look for weapons when he heard David’s voice. His body suddenly froze as he turned to look at Wayne and Gordon.

I’ m A Quadrillionaire by Xiruo Huang chapter 152

Chapter 152

Wayne and Gordon also released some of the bloody aura they had developed on the battlefield at this time.

Immediately, the four members of Bobby’s family felt cold, and they looked at the two of them with fear in their eyes.

Bobby’s family were ordinary people, and they naturally could not resist the aura released by the masters who had been baptized on the battlefield like Wayne and Gordon.

Bobby sat down cautiously and said, “David, what the hell do you want?”

“I just want to get back what belongs to me and take back my parents’ compensation. As for this house, I’ll just regard this as a token of appreciation for you not killing me throughout those years I stayed here. If you had been more ruthless back then, maybe David Lidell wouldn’t have existed now,” David said sarcastically.

“There’s no money but I have one life. I don’t believe you’ll dare to do anything to us!” Karen yelled.

This money was for her son Quin to marry a wife and buy a house. If this was given to David, since Quin had no job yet, what would he do in the future?

In addition, this compensation built up a lot of interest every year.

Without this money, their family's life would be difficult.

Therefore, they absolutely could not give David the money.

Bobby had already wanted to agree, after all, the opponent was powerful and the pair who came with David were not easy to deal with at first glance.

However, when he heard what Karen said, he came back to his senses too.

Yeah, if they did not give David the money, would David dare to do anything to them?

So what if they were mercenaries abroad?

They were not abroad anyway. Would they dare to kill them?

"David, we finished spending the money. You won't get anything no matter how badly you want it. Plus, I am your second uncle, and I am your guardian. I have the right to manage this money," Bobby said.

David wanted to laugh.

Second uncle?

Guardian?

"Bobby, do you know what a guardian is? Are you even worthy to be called that? Even if you're a guardian, I'm an adult now, so you are not my guardian anymore. I don't care whether you have money or not. It's written clearly in this agreement which you've signed. You said you'll give me back the money when I turn 18. I won't ask for the interest either."

"I don't have any money!" Bobby insisted.

"Alright, I've hired the best lawyer in River City and they should be on their way here now. I think you'll get a summon from the court this afternoon. Think carefully," David said.

"You..." At that moment, Bobby did not know what to do.

If they gave David the money, their son Quin's life would not be guaranteed.

If they did not and David sued them, they would definitely lose with the evidence David had. When the time came, it would be troublesome if this matter affected their daughter Felicia's work.

On one hand, he needed to guarantee his son's life in the future. On the other hand, their daughter's work they wasted so much effort on was in danger.

Bobby and Karen did not know how to choose.

The living room fell silent for a while.

David did not urge them either. He was still sitting in the chair leisurely as if waiting for the other party to make a decision.

"David, if you want money, we don't have it. You can just sue us! We don't have any money even if we are charged! If you don't believe me, you can kill me right now!"

Ultimately, Karen made the decision.

This was basically equivalent to choosing money and giving up the future of her daughter Felicia.

Bobby breathed a sigh of relief. Since Karen had made the decision, then so be it!

"Mom, how could you do this?" Felicia cried while looking at Karen.

However, Karen did not say anything to her.

At the end of the day, Felicia was a daughter, and she would definitely be married off in the future while the son was the one who would look after Bobby and her when they were old and arrange a proper burial for them after they die.

So, of course, they would choose money!

"Since you have decided not to back this money, just wait for the summons from the court in the afternoon. I don't want to waste my breath talking to you," David said indifferently.

In truth, David expected Bobby and his wife to make such a decision, so he was not surprised.

He had already expected this to happen, so he contacted the lawyer first and asked him to come over as soon as possible.

“Now, let’s move on to another matter,” David said, standing up and walking over to Quin and Gordon. Gordon’s hand that was on Quin’s chest grabbed Quin’s clothes directly and lifted him off the sofa.

Quin was already paralyzed with fright as most of Gordon’s murderous intent was directed at him just now.

Although he was a gangster in a small county-level city and had been in a few fights, how could he endure the aura of a master like Gordon?

“Quin, I don’t want to quibble with you about the things that happened when we’re children, but how dare you touch Aunt Sally? I’ll settle this account with you properly.”

“D-David, if you have the balls, you’ll let me call my people. I promise you won’t be able to get out of Shu City,” Quin said weakly.

At this moment, he was still threatening David, thinking that he could do whatever he wanted just because he knew some bad people in Shu City.
Slap!

David slapped Quin in the face. Although he did not use much force, David’s current physique was much stronger than that of ordinary people. Hence, Quin’s face swelled up instantly.

There were even traces of blood dripping from the corners of his mouth.

“David, don’t do anything stupid! You’re breaking the law!” Bobby shouted from one side.

“Oh? So, apparently you do know when something is illegal. Are you not breaking the law by withholding my parents’ compensation from me?” David replied.

Seeing half of her son’s face swelled up after getting slapped by David, Karen took out her phone and wanted to call the police.

However, it was snatched by Wayne and thrown to the ground.

Slap!

David ignored the others and slapped Quin’s face once again. This time, both sides of his face were swollen, making him look like a balloon. Quin's tears flowed after David's two slaps as it hurt too much. Both Bobby and Karen looked very distressed, but they were helpless as they were being controlled by others.

"Come on, say more harsh things to me," David said. Quin watched David silently with tears in his eyes.

"What? Do you not dare to do it anymore? Then why did you hit my Aunt Sally?" David continued.

Quin remained silent.

"Tell me!"

David roared.

Chapter 154

Bobby's family was so frightened they shuddered.

"H- didn't hit her, I j-just gently p-pushed her," Quin said while shaking. He was really scared now. David was like a different person after not seeing him for two to three years.

It made him a little scared.

"Just a gentle push? Then how did she hurt her waist so bad that she couldn't get out of bed for half a month?" David asked Quin with a cold light in his eyes.

"I-I don't... don't know."

"You don't know?" David reached for Quin's chin.

"I really d-don't know! David, I-I was wrong! P-Please spare me!" Quin cried.

Quin was begging for mercy. He really had no choice. David was putting too much pressure on him now.

David smiled and released Quin.

Gordon dropped him too.

Quin sat back on the sofa immediately, gasping for breath.

David turned his head to look at Bobby and said, “Bobby, to be honest, to me, I really don’t care about the money. I didn’t want to ask for it initially, but Quin dared to hurt my Aunt Sally, so he’s the one you should blame. Remember to transfer the money earlier if you can do it. The court will freeze all the property in your family’s name in the afternoon at the earlier. See you in court.”

After David finished speaking, he turned and left the living room.

Bobby’s family looked at each other in the living room.

They could all see the shock in each other’s eyes.

They had not seen David for two years and the yes-man back then had become so powerful and so domineering

Back then, David was the first one to wake up in their family and the last one to sleep. He would eat worse than a pig and did more work than a cow. Sometimes, he would even be beaten ruthlessly.

The sudden change of status made it hard for them to accept in an instant.

“W-What should we do?” Karen asked.

She was also terrified by David.

“Go! Go borrow a card from your parents and we’ll move the money there. If not, everything will be frozen!” Bobby quickly said.

The family rushed to Karen’s maternal home completely ignoring the wound on Quin’s face.

As long as their money was still here, that wound was nothing!

Over the years, Bobby’s family had been living a pretty carefree life because of the two million compensation from David’s parents.

They also rented out David’s former house.

The annual interest plus the rent was enough for their family to live on, so they did not work at all.

Now, there was only a little bit of money left in the family. If it was frozen, then their life would be difficult.

As a result, when they got the card and went to the bank to transfer money, they found that their bank card was not working and was temporarily unavailable.

This was of course done by David. He just wanted to give Bobby and his family a little hope and then slowly turn it into despair.

Bobby and his family made a fuss in the bank. This was all their assets so they would not give up easily even though it did not belong to them anymore.

However, how would the bank allow them to make such a fuss there? In the end, the bank called the police, and the entire family was brought back to the station.

There, the police charged them with disturbing the peace and informed them that they were going to keep them in administrative detention for five days.

After that, Bobby's family, who was still in the police station, received a summons from the court. At the same time, all assets under their names were frozen.

Now, the entire family knew that they were done for.

Chapter 155

After David left Bobby's house, David asked Wayne and Gordon to drive a car to Aunt Sally's house to help them to move their things.

He drove to Aunt Diana's house by himself.

He wanted to find a way to get Aunt Diana's family to move to River City like Aunt Sally. The house was ready, plus, they could just take a job at the Golden Leaf Hotel so they could get income and live comfortably.

He had already handed over Bobby's matter to the lawyer and had informed them using his connections. Hence, he did not need to pay attention to the matter anymore. It was not like he was short of money.

Aunt Diana was another light in David's life apart from Aunt Sally. She had also been very good to him.

Since junior high, Bobby stopped spending any money on David, so some of David's living expenses and books were paid for by his two aunts.

In his third year of high school, because of the heavy academic work, it was inconvenient for him to study since he could only stay in the same room with Jacey at Aunt Sally's house, so he moved to Aunt Diana's house for a year and worked hard for the college entrance examination. Now that he had the ability, he had to first take care of the two families so that he could feel at ease.

Aunt Diana's home was in an old residential area in Shu City. Aunt Diana and her husband were both employees of a nearby factory. They only had one daughter, who was four years older than David. Her name was Judy Tanner.

David drove the G-Wagon directly to a familiar residential area. Since it was already a very old residential area, there was no watching the gate. After parking the car downstairs, David went upstairs to Aunt Diana's home.

Walking down the corridor where he had lived for a year, David felt a little emotional. He seldom came here since he left for college.

It was not that he was ungrateful and unappreciative, but instead, he would go to work part-time during the winter and summer breaks.

He also wanted to make more money himself and try to lighten some of the burden on Aunt Sally and Aunt Diana. That was why he did not often come to visit.

The situation at Aunt Diana's house was slightly different from that at Aunt Sally's.

When Aunt Diana gave birth to his cousin Judy, something went wrong and she was unable to get pregnant again.

Because of this incident, the relationship between her and her husband deteriorated, and they even wanted to get a divorce a few times. However, it gradually got better toward the end.

Also, since the couple did not have a son, after David's parents passed, they fought hard for custody over David.

However, David did not choose them at that time, which led to Uncle Alex Tanner not liking David very much after David moved into their house.

David went to the fourth floor and knocked on the door to Aunt Diana's house.

Knock knock!

Soon the old security door opened from the inside. A familiar face appeared before David's eyes. It was Aunt Diana.

"Dave! Aren't you at university in River City? Why are you back? Come in!" Diana asked.

However, there was clearly a hint of joy in her tone.

Because Diana did not have a son, she genuinely treated David as her son.

"Aunt Diana, it's the weekend, so I came back to see you," David replied.

"Come in, come in, don't stand outside." Diana grabbed David's hand and pulled David into the house.

After entering the room, David found that seven or eight people were sitting on the sofa in the living room.

In addition to Uncle Alex and cousin Judy, his fourth uncle, Leslie Lidell, was also there. David did not know the other people.

"Uncle Alex, Uncle Leslie, Judy," David walked over and greeted them one by one.

The three also nodded in response to David.

Uncle Leslie's relationship with David was rather normal. Even though he did not help David, he did not hold any grudges against him either. Aunt Diana's family and Uncle Leslie's family were close. As for Uncle Bobby, they had stopped interacting with him after David's incident.

"Dave, let me introduce you. This is Judy's boyfriend, his name is Jude Holton and these are his parents. This is Jude's aunt, and this is his cousin," Aunt Diana walked over and pointed to the five people David did not know as she introduced them one by one.

I' m A Quadrillionaire by Xiruo Huang chapter 156

Chapter 156

“Hello everyone!” David greeted them all but was ignored.

Only then did David realize that something was wrong.

Cousin Judy’s eyes were red, as if she had just cried.

Uncle Alex also seemed rather angry where he sat.

“In-laws, this is my nephew, my third brother’s son! He’s currently studying university in River City,” Diana introduced David to the others. After being introduced, David followed his aunt Diana to the kitchen to prepare food. The atmosphere in the living room was too solemn and he did not want to stay there.

However, Aunt Diana chased him out since his Aunt Lisa was in the kitchen and his help was not needed.

Without another choice, David sat in the living room and pretended to be preoccupied with what was showing on the television.

He had originally planned to come clean with his aunt Diana about his current financial situation and persuade them to move to River City with him. However, there were too many people here for him to say anything, so he would have to wait for the next opportunity to tell her.

At this moment, Judy’s future father-in-law started talking.

“So, what do you think about our suggestion?”

“I don’t agree!” Alex replied angrily.

“Then what do you want? Don’t tell me you want my son to come and live in a house as run-down as this! How many years have you lived here, huh? There isn’t even a good school nearby, where will their children study? How do you plan to solve the issue of education? I would have broken them up if not for how deeply in love they were!”

“Mom! What are you saying?” Jude shouted.

“Shush, Jude. Don’t tell me you actually plan to stay here your whole life? You’re our only son, there’s no way I would allow you to live with them!” Jude’s mother insisted.

Jude did not say anything more.

He did not want to live in this place forever either.

Extremely infuriated, Alex wanted to refute but could not say anything.

Their family conditions were indeed worse than Jude's.

It was indeed too much to ask for Jude to marry and stay with them, but Judy was his only daughter and he did not want her to move out.

He wanted to be able to play with his grandchildren after he retired.

If his daughter married out, then he and his wife would end up alone and pitiful after they retired.

Just then, Diana walked out and said, "Actually, we've already decided to buy a house. We've been looking at some options lately, so you don't need to worry about their child's education."

"Buy a house? You think I don't know about your financial situation?"

Both you and your husband are just ordinary laborers! There's no way you can buy a house! Do you know how expensive houses are these days?

Even second-handed houses are expensive, and there's no way my son's living in a second-handed house after marriage!"

Diana remained quiet.

They were indeed planning to buy a second-handed house in a school area, a rather old one at that.

They just could not afford a new house.

Judy started sobbing quietly

Her parents wanted her boyfriend Jude to move in after they got married, while her boyfriend's parents strongly disagreed. Most importantly, her family conditions were not as nice as her boyfriend's, and she too wanted to give her child a good educational environment.

The only thing stopping her from agreeing with her boyfriend's parents was that she felt bad for her own mom and dad.

However, since she was already pregnant now, they had to move the wedding forward. They could not afford to drag the issue of where to stay on any longer. All Jude could do was pat her shoulder silently next to her. He did not have a win-win solution either.

I' m A Quadrillionaire by Xiruo Huang chapter 157

Chapter 157

After listening to them for a while, David finally got a general idea of what was going on.

Judy was pregnant now, so they had to get married soon.

However, Uncle Alex wanted the newlywed couple to move in with them after they got married.

Judy's future in-laws did not agree because of Aunt Diana's poor family conditions, and they were worried about the child's future education.

This issue had been going on for almost a month and seeing how Judy's unborn child was growing larger day by day, the wedding could not be postponed.

However, there had not been a solution that both sides could agree to.

David realized that the heavens were on his side.

His biggest problem currently was how to persuade Aunt Diana and her family to move over to River City. Especially when they had lived here for decades.

Had it not been for Jacey, Aunt Sally's family might also be a hassle to persuade.

Now was the perfect time for him to suggest a solution.

Since Judy's in-laws would not accept a second-handed house, then what about the first-handed house he owned in South River International Residence worth a hundred million dollars? They should have no qualms accepting that.

If the in-laws were worried about education, the best school in South River Province was right beside South River International Residence! There was even a kindergarten.

There was nothing they could say to decline him.

David's mood immediately brightened.

He ate happily during lunch.

Coupling his good mood with the fact that it had been a long time since he could eat Aunt Diana's cooking, David ate quite the sizable portion during lunch. Of course, enhancing his Body stats naturally meant he had to eat more as well.

Jude's family shook their head when they saw David eat.

They wondered how long David had been left starving and if he was here just for the food.

Everyone else did not eat much, though, since the issue of the couple's residence had yet to be resolved.

No one was in the mood to enjoy lunch.

Especially not Aunt Diana's family. Everyone on their side seemed to be lacking an appetite, while Judy did not eat a single bite at all.

After eating and clearing the table, everyone sat together to discuss the issue again.

However, they could not seem to agree no matter what.

David saw a chance and stood up to say, "I have an idea that I'm sure you'll all agree to!"

Everyone looked at David and hope flashed through Judy's eyes.

"What's the idea?" Diana asked.

"Aunt Diana, you can all move to River City! Not only is the environment good there, but the education level is great as well! Lots of room for further development as well," David said.

Before Diana could say anything, Jude's mother shouted first.

"Move to River City? How? Do you know how expensive a house costs in River City? They can't even afford a new house in the school area of Shu City and you want to move to River City? Have you gone mad?"

Diana originally thought that David had some good idea, only to realize how unreliable it was once she heard him.

They would not have to argue here if they could afford to move to River City.

The glimmer of hope in Judy's eyes went out.

"Aunt Diana, I actually came here to discuss something with you! I was hoping you could move to River City so I can show filial piety and repay the care you showed me all these years. I've already prepared a place for you to move to in River City."

David said seriously, but no one present believed him.

Diana and Alex thought David was bluffing, and they felt slightly embarrassed in front of their future in laws.

Jude's family looked at David with mockery.

"You're David, right? You can't just make a lie as unbelievable as that, okay? You're telling us you can buy a house in River City? And one to gift to your aunt Diana? You're just a university student, how can you afford a house in River City? You must've gone mad from school, huh?"

Jude's mom questioned sarcastically.

"Exactly! Do you even know how expensive it is to buy a house in River City? You think you're the only one who wants to buy a house there? At least show a little shame for making such an unbelievable bluff! Who knows how you got into your university? It must be some questionable university, huh!" Jude's aunt added.

"We'll know later whether I'm bluffing or not. But if South River University, one of the top ten universities in the country, is considered questionable, I'd like to know what you consider good," David asked.

"What?"

"South River University?"

As people who lived in South River Province, they were all well aware of SRU's prestige.

They did not expect David to be a student of SRU.

No one in their huge family had managed to get into SRU before.

"So what if you study in SRU? Just because you study there doesn't give you the right to bluff as you wish!" Jude's aunt rebutted.

"Think what you want, but if we find out that I do indeed have a house prepared for Aunt Diana and her family, then you will agree to let Judy and her boyfriend stay with Aunt Diana after they get married. Plus, their first child will take Judy's surname! How's that?" David replied.

"Sure! If you can find them a good house in River City, I'll agree to your request!" Jude's mom said.

Then she added after some thought, "But even if the house is in River City, it cannot be somewhere rural, it has to be close to a school! The house also can't be smaller than two hundred square meters!"

She naturally did not believe a university student like David had the financial ability to afford a house in River City, let alone gift it to someone.

In the case that David decided to fool her with a house in the middle of nowhere, she added those conditions as well.

"Sure! Did you drive here?" David asked.

"Of course! What era do you think it is now? To have a car is the standard, so of course we would have one!"

"Great! Leave with me later, then!" David said.

Then, he turned to look at Diana and say, "Let's go see the house in River City, Aunt Diana!"

"Dave!" Aunt Diana shouted.

"Trust me, Aunt Diana!" David looked at her and said sincerely.

Diana looked at him for a long while before she replied, "Alright."

She trusted that David would not lie to her.

"Uncle Alex, Judy, come with us!" David turned to Alex and Judy to say.

Then, all of them walked downstairs, with Jude's family following behind David and Aunt Diana's.

They wanted to see how David planned to cover up this lie.

If Judy's family was embarrassed, they would surely stop requesting Jude to stay with them after the wedding.

However, Jude's family was too stunned to move when they reached downstairs and saw David open the doors to his Benz G-Class.

They were a considerably well-off family in Shu City, with a house and a car, but it was just a small car worth a little more than a hundred thousand.

To drive a luxury car like a Benz was something they could only dream of.

Let alone this G-Wagon, one of the most luxurious models among all the Benz.

This was a powerful counter to their mocking remarks just now about how David must have been bluffing. The Holtons flushed in embarrassment.

I' m A Quadrillionaire by Xiruo Huang chapter 158

Chapter 158

Even David's aunt Diana's and uncle Leslie's families were shocked by what they saw, let alone Jude's family.

A Benz was already considered an extremely luxurious car in a place like Shu City.

They might not recognize Porsches or Ferraris, but they would definitely recognize a Benz or a BMW as these two brands were luxury cars ingrained in their mind.

They did not expect David to drive such a car over. David's ability to buy a house in River City felt less unbelievable now.

"Get in, Aunt Diana!" David opened the door to the passenger seat for her.

"Dave! Is this your car?" Diana asked.

She still could not believe that David could afford such a luxury car.

"Yup!" David replied.

"How did you afford it?"

"Don't worry about that, Aunt Diana. Just get in first! I'll explain more when we get there. Aunt Sally and her family already agreed to move to River City, so I arranged for your house to be in the same area. Don't worry, I didn't do anything illegal!" David promised.

Diana did not ask more and got into the passenger seat of the Benz G-Class.

If David promised to explain later, then she would wait for him. Still, she was indeed worried that David's money had come from illicit affairs.

Alex, Judy, and Jude sat in the backseat while Jude's parents drove their car, leaving David's Uncle Leslie and Aunt Lisa to stand by the side, not knowing what to do.

They wanted to sit in David's luxury car and take a look at the house he prepared for Diana, but David did not invite them, and they were not shameless enough to invite themselves.

Their relationship with David was not as good as his with Diana, since they were not given a share of David's parents' two million dollar compensation.

Meanwhile, David got into the driver's seat and ignored Leslie and his wife.

As far as he was concerned, Uncle Leslie and Aunt Lisa were strangers to him. Out of respect, his only duty was to greet them whenever he saw them.

Only Aunt Sally and Aunt Diana had helped him when he was in need, so they were the only family he would recognize.

Igniting the engine, he got ready to drive off.

Diana turned to Leslie who stood outside the car and told them, "You guys go home first, Leslie!"

Before Leslie could reply, David had already stepped on the accelerator and sped off.

The couple stood awkwardly in place. They once had the right to sit in that car.

Diana opened her mouth to say something on Leslie's behalf, but nothing came out in the end.

David had already grown up. The man had his own thoughts and could tell the difference between people who did and did not have his best interests in mind. There was no point in persuading him.

David gave his aunt Sally a call on the way to River City and told her that he was leaving with Aunt Diana's family.

David's car led the way to River City as Jude's parent's followed behind. It was already one in the afternoon when they left Shu City, so they only arrived at River City after seven.

David headed straight for Golden Leaf Hotel, having had his employees prepare a feast before he arrived.

The group entered the hotel and were met with four beautiful receptionists bowing neatly in welcome. Excluding David, everyone else felt rather unaccustomed.

Everyone was shocked by the gold and bright interior decorations of the hotel once they got in.

They were all from a small county, so they had never walked into an eight-star hotel before. There was not even a three-star hotel in Shu City.

"Dave! What are we doing here?" Diana asked.

Everyone else looked at David as well.

They had come to River City to check out the house, so they did not understand why they were in a luxury hotel instead.

"We've been sitting in the car for quite a few hours, Aunt Diana! I'm sure everyone is tired and hungry, so let's eat dinner first! I'll bring you to the house after dinner," David said.

"It must be expensive eating here, right? How about we eat somewhere else?" Diana suggested.

"Don't worry, Aunt Diana. Let me arrange everything," David assured.

Once again, Diana did not protest.

She realized David had changed a lot now that she saw him again. He was no longer the meek little boy who could not make decisions.

She was relieved to see that David had grown up and become successful.

David and the others had just entered the grand hall of Golden Leaf Hotel when the new hotel manager quickly came downstairs to welcome them.

She had just sent a group of VIPs to their rooms upstairs when she received notification of David's arrival. Thus, she quickly rushed downstairs.

“Mr... Mr. Lidell! Welcome to Golden Leaf hotel! We’ve already prepared the dinner your preordered, please come with me!” The pretty manager told David.

She was about to give him the welcome of a chairman, but immediately changed her greeting to that of a mere patron when she met David’s eyes. David and the other followed the manager to a private room prepared especially for him.

The manager opened the door for them, and the others followed David inside.

Diana’s and Jude’s family were stunned by the view inside the private room.

The huge table before them was filled with exquisite delicacies, while the steam from the freshly cooked dishes filled the room.

The huge lobster and king crab were the most eye-catching dishes. There were also all kinds of dishes that they did not recognize. Everything looked delicious and much classier than what they would see on television.

Those two families were already starving to begin with, and they could not help but salivate at the food.

David pulled out a chair for Aunt Diana first before he ushered everyone else to sit.

Everyone still felt overly aware of their behavior after sitting. They only grabbed their cutleries after David helped Diana to a few dishes and started eating himself.

Instead of eating, the youths; Jude, his cousin sister, and Judy, took their phones out to post a picture of the dishes on social media first.

They would not miss an opportunity like this to show off.

Soon later, their pictures received the exclamations of their friends. There were all sorts of comments, mainly of envy or jealousy.

No one was able to reject such good food, except perhaps people with eating disorders. The reactions of their friends thus satisfied their vain desires.

Judy's post consisted of a few pictures and the caption, "Enthusiastic hospitality from my cousin!"

Chapter 159

At Leslie's house.

Leslie and his wife were sitting in the living room watching television. Cedric had plans to play basketball with his friends today since it was the weekends, so he did not go to his Aunt Diana's house with his parents. At this moment, Cedric came across Judy's Instagram post on his phone. He was immediately stunned by the good food in the picture. He had not even seen such great food before. The lobster and the king crab looked absolutely scrumptious, and he quickly ran to the living room.

"Mom, Dad, you two went to Aunt Diana's house today, right? I thought you were discussing Judy and her boyfriend's wedding. Why didn't you bring me along to eat good food?"

He thought the pictures were taken during lunch.

Then, he passed his phone to Leslie and Lisa.

Leslie and his wife were no longer calm when they saw the pictures. They had only seen such food on television before. They could only imagine how much this table of food must have cost.

Coupled with Judy's caption, they understood that this must be the dinner David treated those two families to.

It seemed like David had truly become successful. David even promised Diana's family a house in River City, but this was not a benefit they could also enjoy.

As David's uncle, Leslie had the chance to build a good relationship with David like Diana did years ago. If so, his family would be able to enjoy David's wealth as well.

However, after losing the fight for David's guardianship and the two million dollar compensation, Leslie never cared about David again.

No longer interested, Leslie tossed the phone aside and said, “This wasn’t lunch. The lunch we had with your aunt Diana was simple home-cooked food.”

“So this is dinner? Aren’t you guys close with Aunt Diana’s family? Why didn’t they invite us to eat with them? I’ve never seen such good food in my whole life! I don’t care, I want to eat this too!” Cedric said slightly angrily.

Leslie was already irritated over the missed opportunity of cultivating a good relationship with David.

Cedric throwing a temper now had only added to his ire, and he shouted at his son, “All you know is eat! Go to your room and finish your homework! All you’re going to eat is sh*t if you don’t get into university!”

Cedric was stunned as he did not expect Leslie to suddenly shout at him. Tears welled in his eyes as he ran into the bedroom and slammed the door behind him with a bang.

“What is wrong with you? You were the one who made that decision back then! None of this is our son’s fault! All you know is to vent your anger on our son! I told you to be nice to Dave, he’s still your nephew, isn’t he? But no, you wouldn’t listen, you said he’s the problem of whoever got the compensation. What do you want to do now, huh?” Lisa complained resentfully.

Leslie did not reply as he laid down on the sofa.

It was the truth that he did not show concern for David after the boy decided to live with Bobby.

All he knew was what Diana told him, that David did not seem to be living well under Bobby’s care. There were signs of child abuse and Diana hoped that he could intervene.

Only for Leslie to say that David had it coming and that it was not his problem.

David was wealthy now, he could afford a luxury car, buy a house for Diana’s family, and bring them to eat good food.

As envious as he was, he also felt regretful. He should have shown David some form of concern, or things would not have gotten to such a point today.

It was too late now, and nothing he said would change anything.

‘Sigh! If only I knew!

Lisa did not say anything to further aggravate her husband. She might have persuaded him to treat David better, but she did not take any actual action. All she did was talk.

It was just that now that David was wealthy, Diana went from having the worse financial conditions to being the richest of the siblings, and this frustrated them.

People had unlimited potential.

It was a huge table of food, and the nine of them had taken two whole hours to finish around a dozen dishes.

David ate the most, though this was due to his enhanced Body stats. His appetite had grown ever since the enhancement.

What shocked him was the large appetites of the ordinary people seated here. It had been mind-blowing.

He did not know that these people were only eating so much because they had never seen such good food in their whole lives. As a result, they were reluctant to waste food so they did not stop even after they were full. They would rest a bit and continue eating until almost everything was finished before putting their cutlery down.

Jude and the two other young ladies even pulled out their phones during the short rest to search up these dishes.

Chapter 160

They found the prices of these dishes, and after totaling them according to the prices online, they found that the meal cost at least a million dollars.

This made them more reluctant to waste food.

After eating, they rested for a while as well.

David had the hotel manager check them into a few high-class suites so that everyone could rest for the night.

It was already too late to look at houses tonight as the sales department would have already clocked out for the night. They could not sign any papers today either, so the only option would be to wait until tomorrow.

After breakfast the next day, David brought everyone to South River International Residence.

David's G-Wagon drove into the residence easily but Jude's family's cheaper car worth around a hundred million was held back by the security guards outside. 1

These security guards have been working here for a couple of years already, and they have never seen any cheap cars drive into the Residence. David's G-Wagon was already considered the cheapest car there was among the tenants who lived inside, so it was only right that they stopped and checked the visitors.

"Hey! What are you people doing? Leave! This isn't a place for you!" A security guard walked over to Jude's parents and shouted.

He might not be able to afford such a car, but he did not feel the need to be respectful to people who drove such a "cheap" car.

The guard might not have much savings since working here, but his standards have surely skyrocketed.

"Here, man, have a smoke. We're following the car in front of us, we're with them," Jude's father said politely as he passed the security guard a cigarette.

He still seemed rather awkward, since this was a huge city and he was a stranger here.

The guard took the cigarette and spoke into the walkie-talkie, "No. 6, No.6! A Benz G-Class drove in just now, have the driver bring his proof of residence, and come to the main gates! There's a visitor here!"

"Copy! Copy!" Came a voice on the other end of the walkie-talkie.

Then, the security guard told Jude's dad arrogantly, "Stop your car by the side first and don't run off! This isn't a place you guys can simply enter as you wish!"

Both Jude's mom and aunt were infuriated. They had never been subjected to such arrogance back in Shu City! This man was just a mere security guard, he had no right to act so arrogantly with them.

"What are you implying, huh? What do you mean it's not a place people like us can simply enter as we wish? You're just a security guard! We'll have property management fire you once we become tenants!" Jude's mom shouted at the security guard.

"That's right! You're just a security guard! Who are you to act so arrogant? I'll have you fired!" Jude's aunt helped out.

"Hah! You, a tenant? You'll have me fired? Do you even know where this place is? This is the most expensive housing area in South River Province! The cheapest house in here costs fifty million and prices can range up to four hundred million dollars! As if you can become a tenant here! Keep dreaming, why don't you!" The security guard mocked mercilessly.

This shocked the people in the car.

"The cheapest house here costs fifty million? And prices can range up to four hundred million?"

This had completely exceeded their imaginations.

Their house in Shu City only cost around four to five hundred thousand. Bigger houses in better areas might cost more, but prices never exceeded one million dollars.

It was a drastic difference from houses like these which cost at least fifty million.

Seeing how his words had shocked these visitors, the security guard further believed that he was talking to people from the villages.

Thus, he continued to mock, "Go drive your car to the side. Don't block the entrance, everyone who comes here is a big shot! You can't afford to waste their time by blocking the way!"

Jude's dad quickly drove his car to the side and waited for David and the others to come and fetch them.

The others in the car also suddenly remembered that David was here to show them the house.

Was the house in this residence ?

A house that cost at least fifty million ?

He was going to gift this house to their son after marriage ?

The three in the car shared a look of shock and surprise.

They were stunned by the sudden arrival of such great luck.
