Chapter 1779

David suddenly remembered something.

Archimedes was only a partial Sovereign Ranker, and he did not have mind power yet, so why would he carry around a Space Stone?

Would he need to ask for help from Bernard, someone with mind power, every time he needed to store or take out something from the stone?

It was possible.

After all, Bernard was Archimedes' protector and the two were always together.

After he figured this out, another question popped up in David's mind.

Since the system said that the Space Stone was something precious, why did it not appraise it?

He only knew the God of Thunder Hammer was worth over 11 trillion Star Dollars.

As for exactly how much it was, David had no idea.

According to the system's previous behavior, it would show the introduction and appraisal for every item David touched.

However, it did not do that for the past two items.
What was wrong?

David compared the treasures the system appraised back then with the God of Thunder Hammer and Space Stone.

Then, he noticed a very clear difference between them.

Whenever the system introduced or appraised an item, the item would be something that did not belong to David.

However, the God of Thunder Hammer and Space Stone both belonged to him now.

Could this be the reason?

Perhaps the system figured the treasures already belonged to him so it would be meaningless to appraise them.

David would not spend money to buy something that already belonged to him, right?

‘Whatever!

‘Forget it!

‘I’ll try it out in the future to confirm this.

‘For now, let’s see what Archimedes has in his low-level Space Stone.’”

David released his mind power and touched the Space Stone. Then, he entered a small space effortlessly.

There were a lot of things inside.

There were three Soulbound Weapons: two beginner-level and one mid-level.

There were also some memory stones.

Most of the things were the ones he got at the auction.

David used his mind power on one of the memory stones and took it out.

As he looked at the beginner-level Space Stone in his left hand and the memory stone in his right hand, David grinned.

The Space Stone was so useful.

After crushing the memory stone in his right hand, the content of the stone appeared in his head.

It contained the first three ranks of the Ninth-Rank Undulating Palm.

It was said that its formidable power could be superimposed once someone successfully learned this.

After superimposing all nine ranks, its power would be terrifying.

Unfortunately, there were only three ranks here.

As he held the low-level Space Stone, David got up and walked to a corner of the room to put the Exquisite Wine of Hundred Flowers and Fruits inside.

David also placed the other treasures inside.

It would be convenient to only carry around a stone next time.

After he did all that, he lay down in bed.
Now, he would wait for Alba to spend more money so he could get more lavish points behind the scenes.

David did not want to worry about East League
Trading Company anyway.

After all, Marlee was the head, not him.

Since starting from Earth, to the Milky Way, and now to Star Kingdom, David realized something.

Strength was the most important thing.

Everything else would be useless without strength.

Money and treasures were all external, and they could dissapear at any time.
