I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1817–The news that Anders broke through to partial Saint Realm and was holding a party had a certain impact on the David arrest warrant

Especially to the young people as they had begun to shift their targets.

Originally, everyone was discussing who David was and how he could make the Lightfoot family so helpless that they had to issue a wanted warrant and ask the entire Star Kingdom to look for him.

Now it was time to talk about who else in Star Kingdom was eligible to participate in this event besides the Six.

Using the news of Anders, one of the Six, breaking through to partial Saint Realm, this party could be said to be a gathering of the highest level among the younger generation in Star Kingdom.

The guests were also the best in Star Kingdom.

Countless young people were looking forward to it.

They all hoped to be invited to participate in this grand event.

This would be a great opportunity to make a name for themselves.

As long as they had the opportunity to show their face at the event, they would have bragging capital in the future.

As the invitation cards were being sent out, the young people who were somewhat famous in Star Kingdom including the seven fairies of the Iridescent Sect, the younger head of Star Mansion, Amadi, and the third young mistress, Alba of the Fellowes family, all received invitations.

If Archimedes and Cornelius were still alive, they would have been invited too.

After all, the two of them were also outstanding among the younger generation in Star Kingdom.

The Lightfoot family was very dissatisfied that Anders was hosting such a grand event at this juncture.

As the news of the grand event spread, many people turned their attention away from the warrant.

As a result, the popularity of arrest warrant declined.

Therefore, their chances of finding David also decreased.

However, even if they were not happy, the Lightfoot family could not do anything about it.

The Palmore family was one of the six top forces in Star Kingdom.

Moreover, they were on the same level as the Lightfoot family's backer, the Ginger family. Hence, the Lightfoot family could not afford to mess with them.

As time went by, there was still no trace of David.

The Lightfoot family also realized something was wrong.

"Are we looking in the wrong direction?"

'Is it possible that someone is protecting David?"

"Otherwise, why has there been no useful news at all?"

'The arrest warrants have been issued for so long and countless people in the entire Star Kingdom have participated in the search

'The number of people actively looking for him in West End has also doubled.

'Under normal circumstances, this won't make sense.

A person can't just disappear out of nowhere."

The only place the Lightfoot family had not searched in West End were the properties of the Fellowes family and Treasure Trove.

After connecting the dots, when they remembered how the Fellowes family refused to provide any information about David, the Lightfoot family became suspicious.

'Is the Fellowes family protecting this boy David?"

If this is the case, we won't find David no matter how hard we search."

At first, the Lightfoot family thought that even if the two families were at odds with each other, the Fellowes family would not disregard the bigger picture.

Protecting David was equivalent to openly declaring war on the Lightfoot family.

Once the news leaked, there would inevitably be a war between the two families.

Judging from the Fellowes family's situation today, how would they have the energy to start a war with the Lightfoot family?

Were they not afraid that the Palmore family would take action and kill them all in advance?

It was reasonable to refuse to provide information about the VIPS of Treasure Trove.

The Lightfoot family would not dare to openly trouble the Fellowes family with this matter as that would only increase Treasure Trove's prestige, proving that Treasure Trove was not afraid of power, but would also protect the privacy of its customers.

However, if they were protecting the person the Lightfoot family issued a wanted warrant for, then the Lightfoot family would be the ones in the right.

Normally, it would be impossible for the Fellowes family to do this.

However, the Lightfoot family had searched every corner of West End except for the properties of the Fellowes family.
