I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1963-What happened in West End of the Central Sacred Continent was quickly relayed back to the Palmore family.

Everything pointed to one person-David.

Not only did he rescue the members of the Fellowes family, but he also killed almost all the powerhouses sent by the Palmore family.

His last wave of the sword seriously injured Anders and the two True Saints of the Palmore family. There were also many witnesses.

Now that things had come to this point, it was very clear.

The deaths of Anders and the others were inseparable from David, so the Palmore family reported the news to Zenon.

At this time, Zenon was busy incorporating various departments of the Saints Association into his army, so he was temporarily unavailable.

He had to integrate the Saints Association as quickly as possible.

Otherwise, if he was too slow and he let Sid win these people over, what would he do with an empty Saints Association?

As long as the Saints Association was completely in his control, David had no possibility of escaping from within Star Kingdom with the help of the Saints Association's intelligence network

Thus, Zenon's reply to the Palmore family was to wait for now.

Since their enemy could kill two True Saints, he would not be easy to handle.

Only once Zenon completely controlled the Saints Association and acted himself could he be absolutely certain of the result.

Otherwise, if the Palmore family sent others, most of them would die.

They had already lost two True Saints, so they could not lose more.

The deaths of Anders and the two True Saints temporarily caught the Palmore family's attention.

This could also be regarded as an indirect help for the Fellowes family, allowing them some breathing room.

After David used his clone to finish off Anders and the others, he wanted to go to the Iridescent Sect immediately.

However, after thinking about it for a while, he felt that it was not appropriate.

The news here would be relayed to the Palmore family, and they would definitely send stronger people over.

How would Alba and the others fight back if he left them to face the Palmore family?

In the end, they would still fall into the hands of the Palmore family.

The safest place right now was the Fellowes Residence.

The Fellowes family was also a family with three True Saints.

Therefore, it was not easy for the Palmore family to take them down.

David soon found Alba and Valerio.

He was preparing to send them back to the Fellowes Residence.

It was in West End of the Central Sacred Continent anyway, so it would not take much time for him to do so.

After he went to the Iridescent Sect to rescue Celeste, he would then help the Fellowes family take care of the Palmore family.

However, Alba and Valerio frowned involuntarily upon hearing this.

The Fellowes family went through a lot of hard work to send these direct descendant geniuses out to preserve hope for the Fellowes family, but now David wanted to send them back.

Wasn't this completely contrary to the decision of the seniors of the Fellowes family?

If David had not rescued them just now, both of them would suspect if David was siding with the Palmore family.

It sounded like he wanted to gather all the members of the Fellowes family so he could catch them all in one go.

“Master David, you want to send us back to the Fellowes Residence?” Alba asked, feeling very puzzled.

“Yes! For now, the Fellowes Residence is the safest place. The Palmore family may track you down if you go elsewhere. So, I’ll send you there first, and then go back to join you after I finish my business,” David replied.

“But Master David, these direct descendants were sent out with great difficulty by the elders of the family. The purpose was to preserve some of the Fellowes family’s bloodline, so isn’t it too risky to go back now? If the Palmore family decides to act again, they will catch us all very easily.”

“Miss Fellowes, don’t worry! As I said, as long as I’m here, the Fellowes family will be fine, and there’ll be no need to protect your bloodline. No one will be able to do anything to you, not even the Palmore family.” David said domineeringly.
