

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 1996

Plus, it would be inconvenient to bring so many people along.

At a level 8 or 9 civilization, his strength would be at the bottom again, so he had to repeat what he did when he came to Star Kingdom.

He would then put himself and everyone else in danger.

David was not willing to do something like that.

He would not be so lucky every time to meet a family like the Fellowes family who would be willing to help him with everything they had.

In case something went wrong midway, it would be too late for him to regret his decisions.

Therefore, David thought about it and decided that he would not look for higher civilizations for the time being.

He decided to help the Fellowes family solve their troubles first.

Then, they could begin to collect various resources that Celia and the others needed for their cultivation.

After collecting enough resources, he would take everyone back to Earth and live a life of seclusion.

With Celeste's teaching, coupled with the assistance of a large amount of resources, all of them should be able to enter Eternal Realm with no problems.

After he had enjoyed his life enough, he would go discover more advanced civilizations and explore the secrets of the system.

He had an endless lifespan anyway, so he could go anytime he pleased.

However, there was still a question, would Celeste be willing to follow them to Earth?

After all, this was her hometown.

Earth was a completely foreign place to her.

If Celeste did not want to go, who would teach the women?

He definitely could not.

Even though he was very powerful, he had no clue how to teach others.

He might not even be as good as Selena.

After he took care of everyone, David told everyone his thoughts and asked for their opinions.

Naturally, no one objected.

All of them raised their hands and were very happy in favor of returning to Earth.

After David's narrow escape, they felt extremely tormented, and they were not willing to reexperience such a thing again.

It would be good to be back on Earth.

Wasn't the purpose of their coming to Star Kingdom to have a chance to break through Eternal Realm and stay with David forever?

If this could be done on Earth, why venture to an unfamiliar environment?

Not only could they be with their family, but they could continue to practice. In addition, David would be around them too.

It would be a win-win situation.

Everyone was eager to return to Earth immediately.

Their reaction was within David's expectations.

The only thing that surprised him was that Celeste also agreed without hesitation.

Due to this, David decided to ask again.

Before leaving, he called Celeste out alone.

Then, the two went to a secluded mountain.

David spoke first.

"Celeste, we're going back to Earth. Our hometown is a place completely foreign to you, so if you don't want to go, we won't force you."

"You don't want me to go?" Celeste asked back.

"Of course, not! Of course, I hope that you will go back with us. Celia and the others still need your guidance! Even though I am strong now, I don't know anything about teaching," David replied with a bitter smile.

"You want me to go back to Earth with you just to teach them? That's all?" Celeste stared at David and asked again.

"Well..."

David was at a loss for words for a while. He did not dare to look Celeste directly in the eyes and he also did not know how to answer.

What could he say?

Should he say that he wanted to develop further with her?

He had not settled his messy relationship with that bunch of women yet!

The two remained silent for a while.

Celeste suddenly smiled and said, "David, I actually have nowhere to go. I was brought back to the Iridescent Sect by my teacher when I was a child. I grew up there and the rules stated that we were not allowed to contact the outside world so the people I knew were all from within the sect. Now that I have left the sect, there's no place for me in the vast Star Kingdom."

In the end, Celeste's tone dropped a little.

"Celeste, if you don't mind, Earth can be your hometown in the future," David blurted out.

"Thank you!"
