I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2101-Boom!

A stronger and more domineering aura erupted from Azul's body.

Two of David's three clones were immediately blown away.

The remaining one remained in front of Azul because Azul was holding the blade of his sword.

If it was someone else, they would have released the Ice Soul Excalibur at this moment.

However, David's clone was summoned by a drop of blood essence, and he was not afraid of sacrificing himself. Thus, he held onto the hilt of his sword tightly and was not blown away.

David wanted to see up close how Azul did it.

There were two consecutive explosions, and it was unreasonable for him to continuously get stronger with every explosion.

Perhaps Azul had used some forbidden technique.

If it was a forbidden technique, then there would definitely be a time limit.

Once the time was up, it would lose its combat effectiveness.

Thus, it would be better to use a clone to attract Azul's attention.

In the event that all the clones were destroyed and Azul attacked the main form, David would really suffer.

"David, you forced me to do this. So don't think you'll have it easy after I die. All of you will be my burial offering and I will wait for you in hell. Hahaha! All of you will die!" Azul roared with a ferocious laugh.novel.xo

After speaking, he grasped the blade with his right hand, yanked hard, and pulled the clone holding the Ice Soul Excalibur over.

When the clone realized he was being pulled by a huge force, his body started leaning over to Azul.

Azul's left hand, which was crippled by the God of Thunder Hammer, was also forcibly regrown. Then, he used the generated hand to punch.

Naturally, David would not give up just like that.

So, he punched back.

Boom!

After the loud noise, the clone felt a huge force rushing at him and his body flew backward.

At this time, his left and right hands were caught by Azul, and he was forcibly yanked back.

Before David could react, Azul's sinister face appeared in front of him.

Boom!

Then there was a sharp pain in his head.

Azul had hit him violently with a headbutt.

Although the clone was summoned by the blood essence, the mind power used to manipulate the clone was derived from David himself.

Therefore, he would also feel pain when the clone was badly injured.

However, after the clone died, David could recover his mind power. Therefore, aside from feeling pain, it would not do much harm to him.

David would only suffer damage if the opponent could destroy the mind power in the clone.

After all, a part of him would go missing.

Even if David's mind power was strong, losing some of it would have an impact on him.

Azul slammed his head directly into David's clone's head, causing David to feel a little dizzy as well.

This all-out fighting style made David feel overwhelmed.

He cursed secretly in his heart, 'F*ck, this kid wants to die.'

At the same time, he was very glad that his main form did not participate in the battle, otherwise, it would be troublesome if the main form had suffered this attack.

David never thought that Azul would fight back with everything he had when he felt his life being threatened.

Azul held the clone's hands, so the clone could not run away.

Right now, Azul was furiously emitting his energy, so David did not want to go over to join in the fun. He did not want to experience the pain of being attacked.

Therefore, he retracted his mind power from the clone.

Without the mind power, the clone was just a shell.

Azul had no idea that David had secretly recalled his mind power.

He only knew that the person in front of him was a partial Pre -Deity.

He had already cast Soul Blaze, and at the moment of crisis just now, he had ignited all his soul power, so he would die soon.

With that being the case, Azul had to take one of their lives and make them his burial offering no matter what.

After that, he would wait until someone from the Feather family came to avenge him.

The clone, who lost his mind power, could no longer hold the sword in his hand, so he dropped the sword.

At this time, Azul had gone mad.

He paid for his powerful strength with his life.

When he first ignited the Divine Fire, it was burning slowly, and it could be stopped at any time. As long as the soul power did not burn to a critical point, there was still hope of survival if he stopped it in time.

However, the second eruption indicated that Azul had completely ignited all his soul power in order to gain more power.

This was irreversible and could not be stopped.

The only thing waiting for him now was death.

Azul knew that he was going to die.

Naturally, he was ready to fight madly.

“Ah!”

Azul's face was covered in blood as he roared to the sky.
