

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1237

Chapter 1237

"David, you're pretty good. You're the only one among the youngsters in the Milky Way to be so relaxed and calm when meeting me," Nimbus said.

Nimbus lamented internally when he saw David grinning at him.

Other factors aside, David would have a bright future based on how he was neither obsequious nor supercilious when facing Nimbus.

There were not a lot of people who would smile like this when they were sitting opposite Nimbus in the Milky Way. Even amongst the elders, no one, including the grandmasters from major forces, would dare to do this.

"Mr. Barlowe, you're too kind. Didn't you say His Majesty is not here, and you are only here as Astrid's father? Since I am friends with Astrid, I don't have to fear you, right, Mr. Barlowe?" David said with a smile.

His emotions did not change because of what Nimbus said.

Moreover, David hid his true strength using the system.

Nimbus would not have said this if he knew David's true strength.

David would never divulge all his trade secrets and display his trump cards too early.

Behind David, Mia's vision turned black when she heard what he said.

If that was the case, David had indeed taken what the emperor said seriously.

'His Majesty was only being polite, but why is David so oblivious?

'I think he has forgotten basic etiquette after exploring for too long.'

At this moment, Mia felt her future turning dark.

However, since she decided to follow David, she would not leave because of this.

Mia decided to talk to David about this after the emperor left so that he would no longer make stupid mistakes like this.

"Splendid! Haha! Uncle Barlowe? David, you surprised me. You have a fearless heart at such a young age, so no wonder you have this level of strength right now. Furthermore, you will have unlimited achievements in the future!"

Nimbus guffawed.

He had been observing David since he got here and was trying to guess who David was.

However, Nimbus had not found anything wrong with David until now.

If David were a Sangruil Sinner spy, he would not be so unmoved when he met Nimbus. Even the grandmasters would not have such strong hearts, let alone a youngster like David. "Mr. Barlowe, stop praising me. You can't praise me too much, or I'll be full of myself. You should have a reason for coming here tonight, right?" David asked the question he had in his heart.

He knew Nimbus did not want Astrid to know about his visit, which was why he came here at this time.

He was trying to avoid Princess Astrid.

Mia did not want to stay here anymore. She would feel like an arrow had shot her whenever David said something. She was almost struggling to breath.

'David! The person in front of you is the emperor of the Milky Way Empire! 'Can't you be humbler and speak nicely?

Aside from Empress Gamora and Princess Astrid, the only person in the Milky Way who dares to talk to Nimbus in that tone is Wilfred, who is hiding in the dark.

'Aside from those three, I don't think there is a fourth person who dares to act this way.

Now, David is the fourth individual. Of course, those Sangruil Sinners are an exception.'

Nimbus was shocked.

He did not expect David to talk to him in that tone.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1238

Chapter 1238 'The ignorant are fearless indeed!' However, since he was the emperor of the Milky Way Empire, Nimbus would not do anything to David over this trivial matter. He was here today to confirm David's identity.

Even though Nimbus could not sense anything wrong with David, this did not mean David was off the hook

He still needed to double-confirm this.

“David, I did indeed come here for a reason.”

“Please tell me, Mr. Barlowe. I will do my best as long as it’s within my power.”

“I have a few questions for you, and I hope you can be honest with me.”

After Nimbus said that, his face turned solemn before David could answer him. Then, he looked at David seriously and asked, “David, who are you?”

David was confused by the question.

“Why are you asking that, Mr. Barlowe?”

Mia’s soul left her body after Nimbus’ expression changed.

Her hands and feet started shaking.

She thought, ‘Oh no! Oh no! David has enraged His Majesty. What should I do? What should I do? Right, Princess Astrid! Only she can save David now.’

“But how can I notify Princess Astrid?”

“David, Astrid was at an impasse when she was in danger. When I went to save her, King Moe of Sangruil stopped me, and there was a split second that I thought Astrid would not make it. Why did you show up at the scene so coincidentally? You saved her so easily and got on her good side. She’s obsessed with you now. Don’t you think this is too much of a coincidence?” Nimbus asked, staring straight at David.

Nimbus thought David would show a big reaction, regardless of whether he was problematic or not.

However, he was only slightly shocked before smiling helplessly. Then, he answered, “Mr. Barlowe, do you think I saved Princess Astrid because I had an ulterior motive?”

“Don’t you? If not, how can you explain the coincidence?”

“How can I explain this coincidence to you regardless? If I planned to get close to Her Royal Highness using this tactic, wouldn’t that make me Sangruil Sinner?” “We suspect you’re a Sangruil Sinner spy who was sent to infiltrate the empire. Since you have no chance of taking action anywhere else, you decided to take action against Astrid.” “Mr. Barlowe, your suspicion is baseless. I just sent you that monster Fergus who has relied on the Sangruil Sinners and fused with the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan’s genes. Why am I suddenly a Sangruil Sinner myself?” David said bitterly.

He never expected to be doubted like that.

However, he figured it made sense for Nimbus to doubt him after thinking about it.

The main reason was that David had showed up just in time.

The Sangruil Sinners had not shown themselves in centuries, yet they made a comeback the moment David arrived in the Royal Region.

Anyone would be suspicious.

“That’s the reason we’re a little unsure. The empire has examined Fergus, and he has perfectly fused with the Nine–Headed Serpent Clan’s genes. According to what we know, this rarely happens to the Sangruil Sinners, which means he had a bright future. Moreover, the Callisto family hid this so well that the empire didn’t suspect them. The empire has now eliminated them, all thanks to you. If you used the Callisto family to gain our trust, then I imagine that this price is much too high for the Sangruil Sinners,” Nimbus said in confusion.

Not long ago, Azure Dragon and White Tiger Internal Halls had eliminated the Callisto family.

They had indeed sided with the Sangruil Sinners.

When the halls were raiding the Callisto family, they found many Sangruil Sinner core seniors hiding within the Callisto family.

This was definitely a heavy blow to the Sangruil Sinners.

After learning about the Callisto family, Nimbus knew the chances of David being a Sangruil Sinner were close to zero.

However, he still asked this question to see how David would answer.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 1239

Chapter 1239 “Mr. Barlowe. I genuinely can’t explain this to you. I ran into someone chasing after the Dance Fairy when I arrived at the Royal Region, and shortly after, I ran into someone chasing after Princess Astrid. I feel helpless as well. I would feel guilty if I didn’t save them, but if I save them, I would give myself a lot of unnecessary trouble. What do you think I should have done? Who can I vent to?” David said helplessly. “David, I’m sorry for causing trouble to you,” Mia said apologetically behind David. “It’s fine. Mia, you don’t have to apologize. Even though I initially did not want to be troubled, you helped me a lot afterward. You made many things easy for me when I arrived at the Royal Region. If not, I wouldn’t have kept you around,” David comforted.

“David, even if I don’t think you’re a Sangruil Sinner, I have no choice but to be suspicious because this is related to Astrid. That’s why I have to be vigilant about this. Tell me about your experience in detail. You should start from the moment you started to form memories until the present to prove your innocence.” David found this difficult.

‘How should I tell him my experience? I can’t! ‘I can’t tell him the truth.

‘I am from an indigenous living planet, and I can’t tell him how I got to this stage.

‘Moreover, it’s unrealistic for me to make something up. Nimbus is not like Astrid.’

If David made something up, it would be proven to be fake very soon. If so, he would be at a disadvantage.

Even though David was not scared of Nimbus, it would be better to avoid any potential trouble. He did not want to be stuck in a deadlock with the empire.

After all, David would side with the empire if he had to choose between the empire and those half–human, half–beast Sangruil Sinners.

Nimbus wanted to find out David’s background by asking this. Perhaps he had already looked into David. Since David was not from the Royal Region but an indigenous living planet, they would not find anything even if he suddenly appeared in the Royal Region. 1 This was why Nimbus asked him this.

David racked his brain, yet he could not find a suitable explanation. Therefore, he could only reject the request, “I’m sorry, Mr. Barlowe. Everyone has secrets, and I believe you have them as well. Plus, my experience is a little special, so I can’t tell you about it. Please stop asking me to share this.”

“How can I believe you then? Or rather, how can you prove your innocence?” Nimbus asked.

“I have already reached this stage, so what can I do if you still don’t believe me? Moreover, I can’t prove anything,” David spread his hands and said begrudgingly.

“David, I’m not satisfied with your answer,” Nimbus said, his face turning dark. “Since you’re not satisfied, should I leave the Royal Region? I won’t participate in the battle between you and the Sangruil Sinners. I also promise never to return to the Royal Region to see Princess Astrid. We will never interfere with each other’s lives ever again.” “Do you think I will let you leave now that you’re here and refuse to explain yourself?” “Mr. Barlowe, please stop forcing me. I have contributed to the empire by bringing Fergus to Planet Royal for you, right? Are you now preventing me from leaving? How is that reasonable?” David said sarcastically. The two were talking to each other liárshly now. On one side, Mia was beyond nervous. She was worried that Nimbus would kill David if he were not happy. “David, I’m not forcing you. The Sangruil Sinners are bearing down on us menacingly after working with the Nine-Headed Serpent Clans from the Beast Galaxy. If we're not careful, everyone in the Milky Way will be affected, and there will be unimaginable casualties. You must know that the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan loves to eat humans, as this can help them grow quickly. If the Sangruil Sinners gain the right to rule the Milky Way, humans will become the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan's food," Nimbus explained out of the blue.

He did not know why he did this.

Logically, Nimbus should make that scoundrel David's life difficult since David dared to speak to him that way.

However, Nimbus' intuition told him it would be best not to start a conflict with David.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1240

Chapter 1240

Nimbus felt that this was because of Astrid.

No matter what, David had saved Astrid before. If he did something to David, it would be hard to explain to Astrid.

Of course, the most important thing was that Nimbus was very suspicious of David being a Sangruil Sinner spy.

If David showed the tiniest sign of being a Sangruil Sinner, Emperor Nimbus of the Milky Way Empire would not spare him.

Nimbus could still see the bigger picture.

"Mr. Barlowe, I understand. Of course, I'm with you because I'm a human. I will not say no if you need my help, but I genuinely can't explain my background," David said with a bitter grin. "David, are you sure you want to continue being stubborn? Are you sure you don't want to tell me? You will make things hard for me if you do this."

Nimbus did not expect David to be so stubborn even when he had said this.

He was the emperor of the Milky Way Empire.

When had he ever exchanged so many words with a kid?

Nimbus had tried his best to control himself today.

“Alright, Mr. Barlowe. Even if I tell you, you won’t believe me, so I better leave. Don’t worry, I won’t say anything after I leave the Royal Region. I hope you can eliminate the Sangruil Sinners soon to prove my innocence.”

After David said that, he turned to say to Mia, “Let’s

Then, he got up to leave.

The moment he stepped forward, he felt a terrifying energy overwhelming him. David quickly pulled Mia behind him to block this energy from hurting Mia.

If not, the energy just now would cause Mia to pass out.

This was not Nimbus’ full strength.

If he showed his strength as someone at partial Eternal Realm, all of Planet Royal would shake. Even so, Mia still felt as if she had fallen into an ice cave.

“David, you’re too foolish. I am the emperor of the Milky Way Empire, and you’re the first youngster who dares to speak to me this way. Don’t even think about leaving Planet Royal if you don’t tell me your background for me to verify your identity. It’s fine if you don’t want to tell me. I will lock you in the empire’s prison until the end of the war between the empire and the Sangruil Sinners. You can choose for yourself.”

Nimbus was still sitting in the same place, but his energy was different.

This was how an emperor should be.

Just now, he was a father.

go, Mia.”

Even if Nimbus had not completely recovered from his injuries until now, it would be enough for him just to show David his energy. However, the sight of David pleading, which Nimbus expected to see, never appeared. David stood before Mia. The smile on his face gone. “Nimbus, I respected you and called you Mr. Barlowe because you’re Astrid’s father. Now you’re trying to take advantage of your seniority? You don’t want me to leave, huh? I’d like to see if you can stop me!”