

I'm A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1613

Chapter 1613

David did not know what was expensive in Star Kingdom, but he knew that there was one thing that was definitely not cheap.

He also had one.

That was the Soulbound Weapon that could be used by the Eternal Golden Body to increase the combat power of the Eternals.

David had heard Amadi say before that even in Star Kingdom, Soulbound Weapons were a rare elite treasure.

In the entire Star Kingdom, at least 80% of the Eternals did not have Soulbound Weapons.

It was clear how precious this thing was.

That unscrupulous merchant Lou did not have it, otherwise, he would not have admitted defeat the moment David took out the Soulbound Weapon.

"Old Master Whitlock, I want a Soulbound Weapon. I wonder if you have those in Treasure Trove?" David asked.

"You want to buy a Soulbound Weapon?" Elmer asked in surprise.

"Yes! Not only Soulbound Weapons, but I also want to buy many treasures as well. A Soulbound Weapon is just one of them," David replied.

Elmer was taken aback by what he said.

'Did he say he wants to buy many treasures and a Soulbound Weapon is just one of the things he is targeting?

'What treasures does this kid want to buy?

'Are they all on the same level as a Soulbound Weapon?'

Of course, Treasure Trove, as the top five trading companies in the Central Sacred Continent, had treasures that were on the same level as Soulbound Weapons. Moreover, they had a lot of them.

However, they would not take them out easily and sell them privately.

They would only take out some of them during large auctions.

They could only sell the weapons at a high price if the wealthy people fought for them during the auctions.

Most of the weapons would sell for much more than value. Sometimes, their price might even double.

At the same time, it could greatly increase the reputation of the trading company.

This would kill two birds with one stone!

The trading company would not achieve such an effect by selling the weapons directly

Therefore, normal treasures could only be bought at auctions.

Although Elmer felt that David was not simple, he did not expect that the other party would buy a treasure on the same level as a Soulbound Weapon as soon as he opened his mouth.

It seemed that he had underestimated David

The veiled woman had been standing aside without saying a word, but at this moment, there was also a hint of surprise in her eyes.

David could afford a treasure like a Soulbound Weapon at such a young age, and he did not just want one.

It seemed that he was from a very powerful force, and he had a pretty high status.

“David, a Soulbound Weapon is not cheap, are you sure you want to buy it? Are you kidding me?” Elmer asked seriously.

“Of course! Old Master Whitlock, don’t worry, I’m definitely not joking. As long as you are willing to sell, you can demand whatever price you like and I won’t negotiate,” David also replied seriously.

Upon seeing David’s expression, Elmer was sure he was not joking.

Then, he changed the question and asked, “May I know where you’re from?”

David knew that the other party was inquiring about his background.

He wanted to see if David had the strength to afford a Soulbound Weapon.

However, David did not know how to answer this question.

He could not tell the truth.

If Elmer learned of actual situation and that he was from a level 3 civilization, he would surely kick him.

out.

It was also unrealistic to make up a story on the spot.

The other party was among the top five trading companies of the Central Sacred Continent.

Their network would be huge, and they would know whether David was lying just by asking around.

David thought for a while, and it seemed that he could only answer the question vaguely.

Only in this way could he temporarily appease the other party and get permission to participate in the large auction.

“Old Master Whitlock, I know what you are asking, but I’m afraid I will have to disappoint you. I don’t have a strong background and I’ve always practiced with my master. I was only recently released to learn. through experience. As for where my master is, I’m sorry, but I can’t tell you,” David replied.

Chapter 1614

Elmer stared at David.

He wanted to read something from David’s expression or emotion.

However, David’s performance was almost perfect.

He observed for a while but could not find any flaws at all.

David said that he had been practicing with his master the entire time. It was not easy to determine the authenticity of this statement.

There were certain figures that came from a long line of masters in Star Kingdom, but they were very rare. Even Treasure Trove's vast network of information was only aware of two or three individuals.

"David, can you tell me the name of your master? I might know him too," Elmer continued to ask.

"Old Master Whitlock, I'm sorry. Master told me that when I came out, I had to fend for myself. I must not mention his name unless it is my last resort or if I was in a critical life or death moment. Otherwise, I will be punished," David shook his head and replied.

His words had Elmer lost in thought.

"He can't mention his master's name unless it is a last resort or in a life and death situation?"

There was a lot of hidden meaning in this sentence.

'Does it mean that once David encounters a life-and-death crisis, it will be resolved as long as he mentioned his master's name?

'How much strength and fame do you need to have to achieve such an effect?

'Even Pre-Saints wouldn't dare to say that, would they?

'Is this kid's master a powerhouse above True Saint Rank in Saint Realm?

'Impossible!

'A True Saint and above have absolute power in Star Kingdom.

'There aren't many of them in Star Kingdom.

"Of course, we cannot rule out that some are hiding in the dark and unwilling to show themselves.

'If so, David will be the most distinguished guest I have ever received.

"He might be the only disciple of a True Saint.

"In Star Kingdom, such a figure can do anything he wants, going as far as committing crimes against humanity or even insulting a Sacred Saint.

'I can't afford to offend this kid now, regardless of if it's true or not.

"In case it is true, not even Treasure Trove can protect me if I offend him.

“However, I still have to think carefully about whether what David said is true or not and I can’t go over the line

“If it turns out to be false, it’ll be so embarrassing”

Elmer actually somewhat believed David in his heart.

The main reason for this was that he genuinely could not see through this young man.

He was a mid-Sovereign Ranker

He had been in Treasure Trove for many years and had received countless guests of all kinds.

Therefore, he had already developed a pair of discerning eyes.

There were not many young people in Star Kingdom that he could not see through.

Each of them was a top genius in Star Kingdom and they all had the support of super powerful forces behind them.

If David could stand alongside them, he must not be too weak even if he was not telling the truth.

The veiled woman also looked at David curiously

She was not as strong as Elmer, nor was she as discerning as him.

However, she had no problem when it came to comprehension.

David was clearly saying that his master was very powerful. As long as David mentioned his name, any crisis in the Star Kingdom could be resolved.

Anyone who could do this was certainly in Saint Realm, and they might not even be an ordinary Saint. A disciple of such a powerful person naturally aroused her curiosity.

“I see! Since you’ve said that, I won’t ask any more questions, but if you want to buy Soulbound Weapons, I’m afraid you can’t! Although I have them now, I can’t sell them to you!” Elmer said slowly.

“Why not?” David asked with a frown.

“Because even the lowest-level Soulbound Weapon is a treasure. More than 80% of the Eternals in Star Kingdom don’t have Soulbound Weapons and many of them won’t own one in their entire lives. Such treasures can only be found in auctions. They will not only sell for a higher price, but they will also increase the reputation of the company. If you want to buy a Soulbound Weapon, you can only go to an auction.”

“There shouldn’t be any Soulbound Weapons in a general auction, right?”

“Of course! Treasures at the same level as Soulbound Weapons will only appear in auctions held by large trading companies. However, it is not absolute. Some small trading companies will jointly organize auctions to attract attention, and there might also be Soulbound Weapons sold there too.”

“Is Treasure Trove holding any upcoming auctions?”

“Yes, but not here.”

As soon as he heard that there was an auction in Treasure Trove, David immediately became interested and asked, “Where is it going to be held?”

“In the super-large trade zone in the west. The real headquarters of Treasure Trove is over there. There will be a large-scale auction held shortly, and there will be many treasures sold. Low-level Soulbound Weapons can only be regarded as average in this auction,” Elmer said proudly.

As someone who worked at Treasure Trove, Elmer would naturally be proud of the strength of Treasure Trove

David was instantly excited.

‘A low-level Soulbound Weapon can only be considered average?’

“That is to say, there are more advanced treasures than Soulbound Weapons?”

‘Does it mean I can spend more money and get more lavish points?’

David did not think about getting to Saint Realm for now.

He had to raise his strength to Sovereign Rank first.

That way, he would be valued by others.

His current strength was still too low, and he was young.

Therefore, it would be hard to make people believe what he was saying.

“Old Master Whitlock, it is possible for me to participate in this auction?” David asked expectantly.

“Sorry, David! The invitations for the auction were sent out three months ago, and they were all allocated according to the number of seats. You are too late. If you came earlier, I could still get one for you,” Elmer said apologetically.

“It’s okay, Old Master Whitlock! As long as I can enter the auction, I can stand and I don’t need a seat,” David said quickly

He did not care whether he had a seat or not.

As long as he could enter the auction site and participate in the bidding, even if he was asked to kneel, David would probably agree, let alone stand.

David never wanted to experience the powerlessness and the feeling of being manipulated at will when facing Nek in the Iridescent Sect again.

This upgrade was just the first step to overcoming this.

As long as he could successfully participate in the auction this time, he could raise his strength to Sovereign Rank.

Next, he should consider how to get more lavish points and get to Saint Realm.

“David, those who can enter the auction are all prominent figures in Star Kingdom. It is impossible for trading companies to make our guests stand. It will make Treasure Trove seem ignorant, and if word of this spreads, it will give us a bad reputation.” Elmer shook his head with a smile.

He was right.

Those who could receive invitations and enter the site of such a large auction were not simple.

Even if David did not care, Elmer would not allow him to go in and stand.

Otherwise, if word got out, Treasure Trove would definitely be mocked by other trading companies. Furthermore, even if Elmer wanted David to enter, the people at the headquarters would not allow it. If he did not have an invitation, he would not be able to get in.

“Old Master Whitlock, this auction is very important to me. As long as you let me in, I, David Lidell, will owe you a favor, and I will prepare a big reward for you in the future,” David said seriously.

His participation in the auction was directly related to whether he could quickly become a Sovereign Ranker

Time was very important to David now.

Chapter 1616

Therefore, he had to pay attention.

As long as Elmer could get him into an auction, then he would be a man of his word.

Even if he became a Saint in the future, he would still owe Elmer a favor.

Elmer probably had no idea at this point.

If he rejected David now, he would be rejecting the favor of a Saint or someone at an even higher realm.

This favor was enough for him to prosper and become an existence that no one in Star Kingdom dared to mess with.

“David, I'm sorry! All the invitations have been sent out, and there's nothing I can do about it.” Elmer finally said helplessly.

Frankly speaking, if they had not finished sending out the invitations, he would also have liked to get one to help David.

He wanted to see if what David said is true and if he was the disciple of a True Saint and would also become a Saint in the future.

However, all the invitations had already been sent out, and he could not help David even if he wanted to. “Old Master Whitlock, is there really nothing you can do?” David asked disappointedly.

He could only accumulate wealth slowly if he could not participate in the auction.

He would now know how long it would take for him to reach Sovereign Ranker.

Elmer shook his head, meaning that he indeed had no other way.

“Apart from Treasure Trove, are there any major auctions held by other trading companies recently?” David asked again.

“David, this kind of large-scale auction is very difficult to come by. After all, there are only so many precious treasures to be collected, and trading companies also need to consider everyone’s spending habits. Treasures are not cheap, and except for a few big forces, most people will not buy again in a short while after they bought one or two pieces, so the interval between such large-scale auctions is relatively long to allow everyone time to accumulate funds. Normally, they will only hold a second one in another few years at least,” Elmer explained.

David understood, but at the same time, he was a little disappointed.

However, he did not give up.

If Elmer had no other way, it did not mean others did not.

In any case, the auction had not been held yet, so there was still a chance for him to participate.

Next, he planned to go to the super-large trade zone to see if he could figure out how to get an invitation.

David believed that not everyone who received an invitation wanted to buy these treasures.

There were definitely people who did not want to buy anything.

He just needed to find such a person and buy the invitation from them at a high price.

However, finding this person was not easy because David could not get the list of those who received the invitation

Treasure Trove could not possibly give it to him either.

Therefore, he could only look for them slowly.

“Old Master Whitlock, may I know how long it will be until the auction is held?” David asked.

“Probably a little more than a month,” Elmer replied.

‘A month!

‘There is still time!’

“Thank you, Old Master Whitlock. I won’t bother you then, goodbye!” David was about to leave after finishing speaking.

He still had time.

If he missed this auction, he would miss the opportunity to quickly improve his strength.

When David got up, a crisp voice called out to him all of a sudden.

“Do you really want to participate in this auction so badly?”
