Chapter 1714

Since he was in a hurry to escape, he did not pay attention to what happened behind him.

If that old late Sovereign Ranker started pestering him, he would have no choice but to fight.

David would increase his strength after the auction.

If Archimedes dared to annoy him anymore, David would not mind killing him.

In any case, he had already killed the second-in-line heir, Cornelius, and he would never return to good terms with the Lightfoot family, so it would be fine if he killed another one.

David looked at the time and saw that there was still an hour left. David did not want to find another place to wait in case something happened again.

Thus, he walked straight to Treasure Trove's auction venue.

This auction was Treasure Trove's big event.

Its purpose was to get back some of its old clients.

Since they used a lot of time to prepare for it, they invited a lot of guests, made it extra-large, and prepared a lot of their precious treasures.

Treasure Trove had put in a lot of effort into this. They had to get back their previous reputation. When David arrived, people were entering the venue with their invitations.

Since people were entering the place, why should he hesitate?

With that, he walked toward the entrance.

When he got there, a guard stopped him.

“Sir, please show us your invitation card.”

David handed over the invitation card Mick gave him.

After the guard looked at it and made sure there was no problem, he returned David the card and said courteously, “Please go in, Sir.”

At the same time, he made a gesture.

After taking back the card, David strode into the venue to wait for the auction to start.

On the other side, Archimedes noticed he was the one who left the pungent liquid.

Eventually, he realized he had been so scared just now he wet his pants.

He could not accept the reality. He wanted to kill everyone at the scene, but he could not.

Thus, he could only spit through gritted teeth, “If anyone here dares to say a word about what happened here, they will suffer the endless pursuit of my family until their entire bloodline is exterminated.”

Bernard then released his late Sovereign Rank energy to intimidate everyone at the scene.

“Don’t worry, Master Archimedes, we will never speak a word of what happened today.”

“I didn’t see anything.”

“Me too. I didn’t even see Master Archimedes today.”

Everyone said.

If word about what happened today got out, it would be earth-shattering news.

However, they did not dare to do so.

How would they still survive on the Central Sacred Continent if they offended the Lightfoot family?

When Archimedes came up, he was the most dazzling man at the scene.

The young women on the 9th floor were all casting curious looks at him.

After they realized who Archimedes was, their curiosity turned to admiration.

Now, they only viewed him with disgust and disdain.

He was the first-in-line heir of a big family, and also a future head of the family, but he wet his pants after being scared by an unknown kid. No matter how noble he was, he could never reverse that fact anymore.

Someone like this would never get their acknowledgment.

Even if they did not dare to say anything and not dare to pinch their nose because of Archimedes' tyrannical abuse and pressure, they already felt contemptuous toward him.

On the contrary, they grew even fonder of David. That kid was not only handsome, but he was also so powerful that it was scary.

David was not scared after Archimedes told the room he was the first-in-line heir of the Lightfoot family.

At the same time, he even managed to leave unscathed after a late Sovereign Ranker took action, then scared Archimedes into wetting his pants.

Not everyone could pull off such a feat.
