I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1729—Alba deactivated the Hammer of Thunder and the stage returned to its previous calmness.

The countless blue lightning also disappeared.

The hammer lay there quietly.

At this moment, Alba felt weak and sore. She only activated the hammer for a while, but she felt drained.

She was still too weak.

After

recomposing herself, she asked, “Are you all satisfied with the hammer’s performance?”

The people at the scene still had not recovered from the shock.

No matter how powerful the hammer was, the performance just now was too eye-catching.

The Hammer of Thunder was definitely an item for posers.

“Miss Fellowes, start the bidding. I can’t wait.” Archimedes’ eyes were heated and he said impatiently.

Alba looked at Archimedes. She felt a little hopeless on the inside.

She knew this guy was about to start again. She did not want the hammer to go to Archimedes, but she had no choice.

She could not take away anyone’s right to bid in the auction unless they had a record of bidding but not paying.

Would Archimedes do that kind of thing judging from his status?

Alba ignored Archimedes and continued, “Everyone, you must know that I am just a peak Ruler Ranker. If you want to make full use of this hammer, you need to be at least at Sovereign Rank. If a Sovereign Ranker uses the hammer, it will surely be more powerful than what you saw just now.”

When Archimedes saw Alba ignoring her, his anger that had not been diminished rose again.

'That b*tch Alba. She's just a chess piece abandoned by her family. How dare she act so recklessly in front of me?'

Even though he was mad, he could not do anything to Alba.

It was not because Alba was a direct descendant, instead, it was because she was Anders' fiancée.

The Palmore family was on the same level as the Ginger family, the family backing the Lightfoot family.

They were all among the six top forces in Star Kingdom

Even though Archimedes was the future head of the family, he could not afford to offend someone like Anders.

Their difference was not only in status.

Both sides were also miles apart when it came to talent.

Although Anders was older than Archimedes, he was not a lot older.

However, his strength was much higher.

"Miss Fellowes, start the bidding. You don't have to introduce it anymore. We saw the hammer's power. It's definitely a top-quality Soulbound Weapon!"

"Yeah, start the bidding! I've been waiting for so long and I've waited for something I like. I have to buy the hammer even if I go bankrupt!"

"Just give up! You want to buy the Hammer of Thunder with those few coins of yours? Stop dreaming! Don't you see that Master Archimedes is still here? Who will win against him? I think we should stop wasting our effort and let Master Archimedes have it."

The person saying this was kissing Archimedes' ass. At the same time, he was blaming Treasure Trove for inviting this first-in-line heir.

To be honest, he misunderstood Treasure Trove.

How would the Fellowes family invite him?

They invited the person in charge of Splendor at West End.

After all, they were in the same area, so this was a courtesy.

However, Archimedes was here coincidentally.

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1730

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1730—Valerio was also facing a headache.

He could not kick Archimedes out, so he could only swallow his grievance.

“Yeah! Master Archimedes was the eldest young master of Splendor, who in this place is richer than him? Since he’s interested, let’s not bid.”

Alba did not know how to answer those people.

She believed Grandpa Val was watching this in the dark. Since he did not show himself, it meant he was agreeing to this.

Therefore, Alba turned a deaf ear and started the bidding.

“Everyone, we will start the bidding now. A mid-level Soulbound Weapon Hammer of Thunder. The base price is 50 billion Star Dollars. The increment between bids should not be less than 1 billion Star Dollars.”

After Alba said that, a voice said.

“500 billion!”

That person was Archimedes.

As soon as he named the price, he increased the base price by ten fold, not giving other people a chance at all.

At the same time, he was showing his determination to get the hammer.

After Archimedes said that, he stood up and turned around. He said to everyone, “Hello, my name is Archimedes Lightfoot. I like this hammer a lot, so please consider my feelings and let me have it. I promise I only want this and I won’t fight you all for anything else. What do you think?”

Splendor was indeed loaded.

However, Archimedes was not a fool. He would still try his best to not spend as much.

A businessman’s aim was to use the least cost to gain the biggest benefit.

After Archimedes said that, he turned around and sat down before anyone could say anything.

He seemed to be asking everyone's permission, but it was a blatant threat.

He just did not say it out loud.

Anyone who dared to fight him for the hammer would be his enemy.

On the stage, Alba was fuming as she looked at the insufferably arrogant Archimedes.

If she were to auction the Hammer of Thunder normally, it would surely be worth more than 500 billion.

She looked at the corner.

Valerio shook his head at her, hinting at her to turn a blind eye and continue the auction.

Alba had no choice. She could only breath in twice to calm herself down.

Archimedes' words worked.

Despite not liking how he behaved, no one dared to stand up and disagree. After all, they knew who he was and none of them could afford to offend him.

Time passed slowly.

Alba hoped that someone would stand up and dampen Archimedes' spirit.

However, after a long time, no one dared to say anything.

Alba looked around but she could not see David.

'Does David not like the Hammer of Thunder?

'Or does he think he doesn't need to offend the Lightfoot family for the sake of a mid-level Soulbound Weapon?

'Indeed, someone as powerful as David would not find trouble deliberately.'

"Miss Fellowes, since no one is bidding for it, then announce the winner now. I can't wait to try its power. I believe I will have a huge increase in my power with the Hammer of Thunder. Hahaha!" Archimedes chortled.

"There's still time. Why are you so worried?" Alba asked blankly.

"Isn't it obvious? Ask them! Which one of you dares to bid against me?"

Alba ignored Archimedes.

She looked at others and said, "Hammer of Thunder, a mid-level Soulbound Weapon, going for 500 billion Star Dollars. Is there no one willing to go higher? I'll count to three. If there's no one else, it'll be sold for 500 billion.

"Three!

"Two!"

When Alba was about to say 'one', a voice said.

"600 billion!"
