The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1351

Chapter 1351

When Rosalynn arrived, she went straight to Wayne's office.

Just as she sat down at Wayne's desk, she saw the picture on the table. It was a family photo under the brilliant fireworks. Seeing this picture, Rosalynn felt a pain in her heart.

Wayne used to forbid personal items in the office area, let alone his subordinates putting personal items in their workspace. Just then, Sean gently knocked on the office door.

Rosalynn immediately put away the sadness on her face "Come in."

Sean handed all the prepared materials to Rosalynn.

"Everyone's here, we can start the meeting anytime." Sean said.

Rosalynn glanced at the materials in her hand.

These were to be used in today's meeting, the operating conditions of all departments of Bane Corporation in the previous year. Rosalynn was already familiar with these materials.

"No rush" Rosalynn said calmly.

She can't completely follow others' pace, if she falls into their comfort zone, how can she be comfortable herself?

"Yes" Sean fully complied with Rosalynn's words.

Then he left straight away.

In the conference room.

Those who were chatting leisurely began to check the time frequently.

“Didn’t Mrs. Silverman arrive long time ago? Why isn’t she starting the meeting?” Ackland Mason, a skinny man couldn’t help but ask after checking his watch several times.

Another man, clearly Ackland’s companion, chimed in, “Yeah, it’s really rude of her to keep all these shareholders waiting. It was never like this when President Silverman was in charge!”

‘Farrar, what’s your problem? Who told you President Silverman is dead?’ One of Wayne’s shareholders, without hesitation, started cursing.

Farrar’s face stiffened for a moment, “We all know the truth. I don’t wish anything bad on President Silverman, but that’s the way it is, no one can change it.”

Ackland quickly pulled Farrar back and looked at the angry shareholder: Josh, he’s just worried about the company. The new year is coming, we all want to confirm the company’s future arrangements...”

“President Silverman never let you worry about such things before, and he won’t now.” Josh sneered, “Don’t you guys know who Secretary Tesdal is? When she was making a name for herself in Bane Corporation and the Jared Group, you were just a nobody!”

“Josh, no matter how capable Gabriella is, she is the heir to the Jared Group. Bane Corporation can’t fall into her hands, or it will eventually be swallowed by the Jared family!” Farrar said sarcastically, “Of course, we don’t know who will own Bane Corporation when Gabriella remarries.

“Well, you’re really concerned about my marriage. Have you considered my marital issues? A cold voice came from the entrance of the conference room.

Suddenly, the once lively conference room fell into an eerie silence.

Farrar never expected that his casual remark would be heard by the person involved.

He laughed awkwardly: "Secretary Tesdal..."

A crisp slap echoed in the conference room.

Farrar covered his cheek, looking at Rosalynn in disbelief: "You..."

Rosalynn took a disinfectant wipe from Lola and wiped her hand: "That slap was for our personal issues, if you have any more inappropriate remarks, I assure you, you'll face more punishment."

Chapter 1352

She looked at Farrar coldly, "Do you get it?"

Farrar was livid, but he tried his best to keep his composure, his cheeks trembling with the anger.

"1...I get it."

"President Silverman is just recuperating from an injury, he's fine. If I hear anyone spreading rumors again, don't blame me for disregarding your contributions to Bane Corporation and punishing you"

With that, Rosalynn walked straight to the president's seat.

Farrar was so angry he was grinding his teeth.

Ackland and their other buddies were soothing him with their eyes.

But soon, they too lost their cool.

Just as Rosalynn took her seat at the head of the table, Ackland received a message. It was a screenshot of two trending topics.

"Rosalynn publicly declares she will never let Bane Corporation merge with the Silverman Group"

Ackland's face immediately darkened.

They had planned to use this against Rosalynn today.

As soon as Rosalynn sat down, she noticed a group of people whispering among themselves.

Her eyes were icy.

“Are you all ready? Can we start the meeting?” Rosalynn glanced at the group.

Ackland was the ringleader of those planning to attack her today.

This Ackland had some background. He had an uncle who had some dealings with Rosalynn.

That uncle was Wallace Mason.

Ackland joined Báne Corporation in the few years after Rosalynn left, reportedly recommended by Wallace.

But compared to his Uncle Wallace, Ackland was way off the mark.

Soon everyone took their seats.

Lola distributed a report on the company’s overall progress over the past year to all the shareholders

But few were actually reading the contents.

Everyone was quietly waiting.

“Mrs. Silverman, before we begin the meeting, I think you should give us a detailed account of President Silverman’s current condition. Ideally, a representative from our group should be allowed to visit President Silverman.” Ackland smiled gently. “You know, the rumors outside are just too many. We’ve had an uneasy holiday, very worried.”

“President Silverman needs complete rest now, there’s no need for a visit. If President Mason is concerned, he should put more effort into his projects. Rosalynn was ruthless. “The project you took over last year had a 47% loss, the worst in the entire Bane Corporation, dragging down the overall profitability of the Bane Group.

Ackland’s face stiffened.

“Mrs. Silverman, I’ll say it again, you are the heiress of the Jared Group. Even as President Silverman’s wife, he... he shouldn’t have you running Bane Corporation in his absence, right?” Farrar said in a deep voice. “Even if you have such intentions, you should ask us shareholders, shouldn’t you? President Silverman always respected our shareholders’ meeting!”

“That’s right, an employee who doesn’t belong to Bane Corporation directly took the president’s seat... Mrs. Silverman, you probably don’t know much about the internal situation of Bane Corporation, do you?”

I just say it straight. The Jared Group has swallowed countless businesses over the years. Bane Corporation is President Silverman’s life’s work. Since President Silverman fou ended Bane Corporation, I've been with Bane Corporation. It's like a child I've watched grow up. It could have had a better and more vibrant development. I absolutely won't allow the Jared Group to swallow up Bane Corporation!!"

Chapter 1353

The last speaker seemed unusually fired up.

Rosalynn turned her gaze to him.

This guy had been with Bane Corporation since its inception, a techle.

He was honest and adored Bane Corporation, but a bit dim-witted and easily manipulated by cunning folks.

"What the hell are you on about? Secretary Tesdal publicly declared that Bane Corporation would never merge with the Jared Group!" someone retorted sternly.

"When was this?" The guy looked taken aback, glancing first at Rosalynn, then at Ackland seated opposite him.

When he had a drink with Ackland earlier, Ackland had mentioned that once Rosalynn took over Bane Corporation, she was sure to hand it over to the Jared Group. To prove this, he cited many examples of the Jared Group taking over other companies.

He was shaken and pissed off.

Verbal declarations are just formalities. Who's gonna stop her if she actually swallows up Bane Corporation?" Farrar chimed in, seeing the situation unfold. "Exactly!"

"Anyone can make verbal promises..."

"And what's your point?" Rosalynn was only looking at Ackland, completely ignoring the others.

Ackland was taken aback.

Everyone knew Gabriella was a tough cookie.

But why was she being so cooperative today?

Since she asked, he decided to cut the crap and just say it: "Mrs. Silverman, we're not trying to give you a hard time, just thinking about the best for Bane Corporation. President Silverman had a management team, let us continue running the company as he did. You don't need to be involved in the management, but you'll still receive your dividends, until President Silverman recovers and returns. How does that sound?"

He was very polite

Every word he spoke was for the company's best interest.

Everyone agreed after hearing him.

"I think this is a visionary suggestion. It doesn't affect the company's operation and ease our worries. Mrs. Silverman won't lose a cent!"

'Exactly, Mrs. Silverman. You've got enough on your plate. Leave Bane Corporation in our hands. When President Silverman returns, we promise not to let him down.'

Sean's face turned ugly.

He looked at Rosalynn, worry in his eyes.

Rosalynn lowered her eyes, a small smile on her lips: "That indeed sounds like a plan that would keep me worry-free and relaxed.

Ackland and the others exchanged glances.

Ackland said from the beginning that as long as Rosalynn received her regular dividends, she would agree.

Now, Rosalynn taking over Wayne's work would definitely face many difficulties, maybe even false accusations.

But if she just took the money, it would be different. She would have peace of mind, and if Bane Corporation faced problems in operations later, she wouldn't have to take responsibility. A smart person would analyze the pros and cons and make the best choice.

However...

"If all of Bane Corporation's employees were as talented as Sean, I would agree to your proposal instantly," Rosalynn responded coldly, tapping the documents in front of her, "Unfortunately, there are too many problems in Bane Corporation. If I don't personally manage it, by the time President Silverman returns, the company might face significant issues."

Reactions varied in the conference room.

Ackland's gentlemanly demeanor was hanging by a thread.

"Since you guys sought me out, let's settle the accounts before the shareholders meeting," Rosalynn's aura suddenly burst out, her eyes sweeping across everyone in the room.

“Ms. Tesdal, in what capacity do you plan to handle this matter?” Ackland’s voice turned cold.

Farrar added, “Indeed, you were only the president’s secretary for a short time six years ago, and you’re not a Bane Corporation employee now. What right do you have...”

Farrar was cut off by Rosalynn’s icy stare before he could finish.

He felt ashamed.

“I may not be a Bane Corporation employee and I can’t act as Mrs. Silverman, but can I handle this as a major shareholder of Bane Corporation?” Rosalynn sneered, a mocking smile on her lips.

Chapter 1354

The screen lit up instantly

Soon, several Bane Corporation stock transfer confirmations popped up on the screen.

“No way!” Ackland stood up at once.

These stocks belong to Wayne How come they’re under your name? Didn’t you say Wayne is still alive?”

All these were given to her by Sean after Wayne’s incident.

Wayne always said he would leave Bane Corporation to her, but she never took it seriously. Yet, Wayne quietly got it done.

However, this news hadn’t been publicly announced, so Ackland and the others didn’t know.

“Look at the dates carefully!” Sean reminded impatiently, “These transfer confirmations were signed by Wayne half a year ago!”

Everyone in the conference room was stunned.

Did Wayne really give all these stocks to her right after they got married?

Not to mention she’s now the CEO, she might even take over Bane Corporation in the future. If she really wanted, she could sell all these stocks to the Jared Group at a low price, and Bane Corporation would be doomed!

Ackland turned pale.

In his mind, a selfish guy like Wayne would never do such a thing!

He never trusted anyone.

But the transfer confirmations had Wayne's signature and the law firm's stamp... everything was legal.

The stocks now belonged to Rosalynn.

Ackland thought they would prevent Rosalynn from interfering with Bane Corporation's operations today, and firmly oppose her letting the Jared Group take over Bane Corporation. In the short term, Rosalynn wouldn't be able to get a foothold in Bane Corporation."

He never expected Rosalynn to hold all of Wayne's stocks.

Plus, those loyal people around Wayne.

Even if they held a shareholder meeting vote, they couldn't resist Rosalynn anymore!

"Do you have any more doubts?" Rosalynn looked at him.

Ackland laughed, "Right after you married Wayne, he gave you all these stocks."

"Yeah, he loves me that much, no matter how busy the other two companies are, I'll do my best to protect the company he built from scratch." Rosalynn said word by word. The excited technical shareholder just now immediately bowed his head in shame.

He was easily instigated by Ackland.

Wayne was such a smart man. How could the woman he's been in love with for so many years be a bad person?.

He was totally measuring others by his own petty heart!!!

"Ms. Tesdal, don't worry, we will fully cooperate with you in the future, protect Bane Corporation together, and wait for Wayne's return after his recovery!" Knowing the situation was against him, Ackland had to temporarily stop taking action against Rosalynn, so he quickly changed his attitude and became Rosalynn's supporter.

However... he tried to get away with it, but Rosalynn didn't want to keep this trouble and wait for him to cause trouble again next time.

"Don't sweat it." Rosalynn said with a smile.

Ackland forced a grin, a bad feeling festering in his gut.

Chapter 1355

'Ackland, as the majority shareholder, can I start auditing the accounts now?' Rosalynn glared at him, asking slowly.

Ackland's forehead began to sweat. He struggled to answer, "I'll admit, I made a few mistakes in decision-making last year, causing some losses for the company. But I promise you, this year, our division will see substantial growth!"

"Do you guys have any idea how much damage Ackland's 'minor mistakes' actually caused?" Rosalynn stopped looking at Ackland, her gaze sweeping across everyone in the room. No one dared to speak.

Rosalynn didn't care, casually dropping a number: "600 million."

Some faces in the conference room started to pale.

"Although for Bane Corporation's annual profits, this number is a drop in the bucket. But if we were a smaller enterprise, 600 million would've been enough to make us rich or break us." Rosalynn turned to Ackland again, "Ackland, which do you think you are? A big winner or a big loser?"

Ackland was taken aback, 'Ms. Tesdal, I don't understand what you mean.'

"Let me spell it out for you, it's not rocket science."

At her words, Lola quickly projected some documents on the screen.

Ackland took one look and his face turned ashen.

"It seems that your blunders led to the company's losses, but in reality, you've been playing dirty and funneled all that money to your illegitimate son's overseas account." Rosalynn tapped the table lightly, her voice icy cold.

"That's not true, someone's setting me up!" Ackland jumped to his feet.

Rosalynn didn't change her expression, her tapping stopped, Really? Isn't the kid my bodyguards found abroad your illegitimate son?"

It was as if Ackland's blood had turned to ice.

"What... What did you do?" His voice shook terribly.

"Calm down, Ackland. I'm a legit businesswoman. I was simply checking my husband's business accounts, found some irregularities and traced the missing funds. It's all above board." Rosalynn shrugged, "Are you afraid I'd do something to the kid in a fit of rage?"

Ackland's face turned deathly pale.

To him, Rosalynn's words were nothing short of a threat..

Farrar, the clueless one, only added fuel to the fire.

"Ms. Tesdal, his family is innocent. Are you kidnapping the kid to blackmail him?"

"Shut up!" Ackland wished Farrar would just disappear.

Farrar recoiled, slowly realizing he had put his foot in his mouth.

"Ms. Tesdal, can we talk in private?" Ackland's face was stiff.

Begging Rosalynn for mercy in front of so many shareholders was humiliating.

Earlier, he was confidently saying that Mrs. Silverman might be leaving the company with a broken heart today.

Now, he felt that the one who might be leaving the company heartbroken was likely to be him.

"There's nothing to discuss. All I've seen are last year's accounts. I'm sure with your skills, this isn't your first rodeo." Rosalynn's tone was frosty, President Silverman probably knew, but he didn't do anything because of Wallace. If it weren't for your audacity today, aiming at my husband's company and trying to boot me out of Bane Corporation, I wouldn't have made a move Ackland, don't get too greedy. What goes around, comes around."
