

With that, he hung up without letting her say a word, hoping that his threat would work.

Julie stared at the phone, feeling a little hesitant and unsure of this.

Not only did she not believe this story, but she hated Kohen's behavior and wasn't a fan of her mother either.

However, she was still Yesenia's daughter and had to be filial. She could at least go and see for herself.

Maybe she would feel more at peace if she did that.

They just wanted to force her to marry that man of the Hewitt family. But no one could force her into anything if she stood her ground.

After work in the evening, Julie drove to the villa of the Cortez family.

As soon as she stepped foot into the house, she felt that something was wrong.

The villa was so quiet. There was not a single servant in sight.

Julie slowly walked to the living room and found Kohen seated alone in it.

Julie looked around with a frown. "Where is my mother?"

Instead of an answer, a wicked smile appeared on Kohen's wrinkled face.

Julie's heart jolted. This was a trap. She was about to turn around and run out of there when out of nowhere a man hit her with a stick and knocked her out.

Kohen laughed out loud and took out his phone to call Timothy.

"Hello, Mr. Hewitt, this is Kohen. I remember you saying you have a crush on my granddaughter. It so happens that my granddaughter is drunk today. Will you like to take care of her?"

Timothy's eyebrows rose in surprise. He had only said it casually last time to annoy Liam. He didn't think Kohen himself would help him get Julie.

Timothy couldn't refuse a gift being offered to him on a platter. He grinned on his end and said, "Sure. However, I'm in Invone now. Can you send Miss Fiber here?"

"Of course, Mr. Hewitt. I'll send her right away," Kohen said firmly before hanging up.

He ordered his men to tie Julie up and give her strong knockout drug. Then, he got ready to send her to Invone.

While they did this, Ulises came back and found about it. "What on earth are you doing?" He flew into a rage.

Chapter 564 King's Wrath

Yesenia, who had been hidden in the room, suddenly sprinted outside. Kohen wordlessly glanced at Ulises and then gave Yesenia a meaningful look.

Immediately, Yesenia knew what he was trying to convey. She turned to Ulises and shouted, "What are you yelling for? Our daughter will be married into the Hewitt family after tonight, and she'll never have to worry about money for the rest of her life."

After hearing what she said and judging from everything he saw, Ulises finally pieced the story together.

In a flash, he lost his temper.

Even after all these years of being married to her, he had not bargained for Yesenia and her father to be so morally corrupt that they would do something like this to his daughter.

Ulises rushed in front of Julie and growled, "How could you do this to Julie and not feel bad about it?"

Yesenia retorted indignantly, "Your conscience won't feed us, Ulises! This is your fault in the first place. If you weren't such a failure, we wouldn't have to rely on our daughter to live a comfortable life. Tell me, is there anything your moral compass can do?"

Ulises could see the Cortez family's true colors now. He glared at the pair of daughter and father and stated, "I don't care what you want to do. Julie is my daughter. If you want to take her away, you'll have to go through me first."

Everyone was taken aback by Ulises's defiance. Yesenia opened her mouth to say something, but he pointed at her and declared, "We'll sign a divorce agreement tomorrow. From now on, my daughter and I will have nothing to do with you and the Cortez family!"

Yesenia, prompted by Ulises' words, snapped, "Do you think I'm afraid of you? I don't have a problem divorcing you, but you're a fool if you think I'll let you take my daughter from me."

Ulises was fuming with madness. Without saying anything more, he walked up to Julie, picked her up, and turned to leave the house.

Kohen's complexion went deathly white. He waved at his subordinates, who quickly charged forward, swinging their fists and kicking their feet.

Ulises did his best to fight back and protect Julie at the same time, but there were too many enemies, and all of them were strong. He was nearly dead by the time the brawl was over.

As if failing to protect his daughter was not bad enough, Kohen also ordered his subordinates to throw him out of the house.

As he lay in the street, he could only watch helplessly as Julie was loaded into a car that would take her to Invone.

Ulises pulled out his phone despite the searing pain in his body and called Liam.

The man was his only hope now.

The call went through, and Ulises immediately told Liam everything he knew before the latter could greet him.

His words nearly drove Liam insane with rage. From the other end of the line, his eyes narrowed.

"What a bunch of scum! Those immoral fuckers..." Liam muttered angrily to himself.

A murderous aura surrounded him. It was not the first time that the Cortez family had crossed the line. This time, he was not going to show them any mercy.

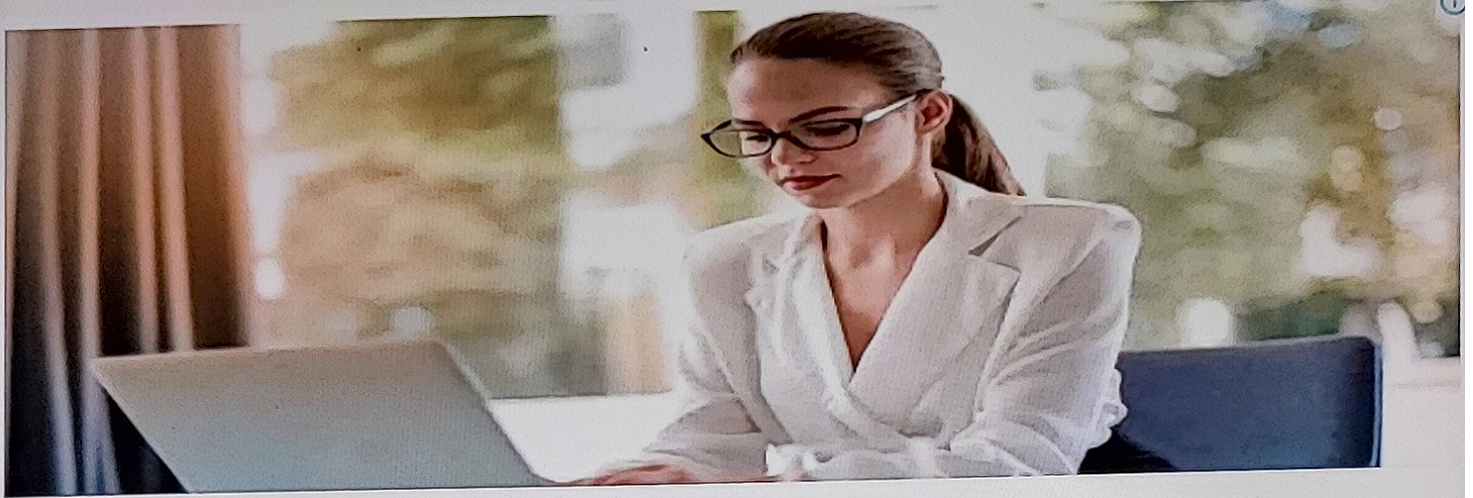

Liam called Riel next. A few days ago, the members of the Dark Night Organization were declared medically fit for discharge after having made a full recovery.

His directive quickly reached every member of the organization. Armed to the teeth, they headed straight for the airport located in the northern part of the city.
