Chapter 680 The Steel Body

Liam looked at Cannon with bloodshot eyes, his hatred for the other man having reached the peak.

He wasn't just furious over the state of Aikin and his team. His hatred came from the fact that Cannon kidnapped Julie, too.

It was all his fault that Julie had turned into this new person.

All of this bottled up anger and hatred made Liam lose his mind. In a second, he skipped to where Cannon had fallen.

Cannon was struggling to get up when he saw that it was Liam who punched him. His head fell back as he laughed crazily. "It's you again? Damn it! Who the hell are you? You know what? It's thanks to you that I look like this now. You should have a chance to taste it too."

Decidedly, they both had enough reasons to kill each other.

And at this point, they were each confident that they could kill the other.

Due to the complete transformation of Cannon's body, he had become invulnerable. He was immune to any sort of pain.

Even with the punch that he received from Liam, he didn't feel a single thing or suffer any damage. The only effect it had on him was that it sent him flying a few meters back. But now, he was back on his feet and came back to attack.

Liam, who was also coming towards him at a high speed frowned at the abnormality of what he was seeing. Cannon was so fast that even he, Liam, couldn't avoid him. Unlike other times when Liam tried not to use all of his strength, he didn't hold back this time.

"Boom!"

Their fists collided and sent Liam staggering a few steps back. After this, he realized that he had to be a little more cautious.

Not only did Cannon look like a monster now, but his strength had also magically improved.

Besides that, his body wasn't like theirs. It was hard.

Liam was certain that his fighting skills far exceeded that of Cannon's. However, considering the fact that he was only flesh and blood, it would be difficult going against Cannon's steel body.

Despite knowing this, Liam wasn't scared.

Standing straight with his hand behind his back, he took off his mask and said coldly, "Look at me carefully and you'll know who I am. You've been looking for Liam, right? Well, here I am!'"

Before Liam finished talking, he lunged forward for another round of attack.

He'd like to see just how tough Cannon was.

Liam freely let go all of the pent up emotions in his heart. His powerful fists connected with Cannon's body from different angles at an exceptionally rapid speed.

The dull sound of steel being hit rang out.

The harder and faster Liam went with his punches, the paler his face got.

He had put in all of his strength on those punches, but Cannon remained unaffected. Liam was in shock. Cannon's steel body was even more terrifying than he had imagined.

Just like Ajax, Cannon could no longer be regarded as a simple human being. He was also far stronger than Ajax.

Liam realized that it was meaningless for such an unfair battle to continue.

Even if Cannon didn't resist and just stayed put while Liam attacked him, he still wouldn't feel a thing. On the contrary, Liam would get exhausted pretty fast.

Cannon's confidence had now gone up a notch. He felt indestructible. He stretched his body, an evil smile making its way to his face. And the next second, he threw a punch at Liam.

Before he could recover, Cannon quickly grabbed him and laughed wildly, "Go to hell! Go to hell!"
