

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2668

Married at First Sight Chapter 2668-Both mother and daughter had the same virtue.

After a while, Matriarch Farrell suddenly said, "Liberty is here."

Kathryn said, "I know."

She was not surprised at all.

Matriarch Farrell was stunned for a moment, then laughed self-deprecatingly: "Yes, you have assistants around you. These assistants are very powerful. I don't know which of our ancestors came up with it. They set up a training base specifically for us and developed the best right-hand man.

I thought you didn't know anything, and you did. Yes, yes."

After Matriarch Farrell finished speaking, she picked up the cup of warm water and took two sips. She did not put down the cup. She leaned back on the chair, then turned the chair. Her back was to Kathryn, and she looked toward the window. There were already thousands of lights outside.

She said in a faint tone, "I think of your eldest aunt's assistant. He was really powerful—better than the assistant I am using now. Moreover, he also had a good temper and was very handsome. Yes, he was really handsome. Your eldest aunt raised me when I was a young child, and I frequently see her assistant.

As time went by, I liked that assistant very much.

The assistants we used couldn't get married or have children because, after getting married and having a family and children, there would be new weaknesses and new people to protect, and they wouldn't be single-minded anymore.

Unless they married the head of the family and had children with the head of the family, then they could leave descendants.

After the head of the family got married, as long as she was not married to the assistant, the assistant would have to undergo sterilization surgery to prevent them from turning their backs on the head of the family, looking for women outside, and leaving offspring. It would even prevent them from becoming real men.”

Kathryn: “...”

She didn't expect that an assistant like Pedro Fraser would take such a path in the future.

She also felt that the Farrell family ancestors were too cruel.

She thought that the assistants were orphans, had no relatives, only focused on the head of the family, and would be loyal all their lives. She did not expect that they were not even allowed to leave descendants.

Unless they marry the head of the family,

Kathryn: “Mom, was Uncle my eldest aunt's assistant?”

“no.”

Matriarch Farrell denied it.

“Your eldest aunt has no romantic feelings for him.”

Matriarch Farrell liked her eldest sister's assistant, but he didn't love her and just treated her like a child.

The eldest sister trusted her assistant and naturally did not abolish him. However, after her eldest sister got married, she gave birth to Audrey Stone, her eldest daughter. And the assistant had a sterilization operation himself.

Kathryn: “Mom, can't such family rules be canceled? I think it's too cruel.”

The Farrell family had a history spanning hundreds of years. In the old days, servants were not treated as human beings, and she had no control over the behavior of her ancestors. But what era was it then, and were such family rules still retained? Kathryn felt that it was too cruel, and Pedro Fraser, such an assistant, was extremely unfair.

Matriarch Farrell did not speak.

They were the heads of the family, and what they feared most was betrayal and the leakage of power, so naturally they would not change such cruel family rules.

Therefore, the family heads of past generations had never tried to change the family rules. Did they think it was the Lafayette family in Meadspring who could change the family rules so easily? Even the Lafayette family paid a lot of money to change some of the family rules.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2669-“Mom, is my eldest aunt’s assistant still here?”

Kathryn changed the topic.

She knew Matriarch Farrell would not agree to change the family rules.

“After your aunt’s accident, he disappeared without a trace. I don’t know where he went, and I don’t know whether he is alive or dead.”

After she took office, she sent many people to look for that person, but there was no news at all. It was as if he suddenly disappeared from the world.

Even so, she still asked people to look for him.

He might know a lot about what happened back then, and he probably had evidence in his hands.

If Matriarch Farrell doesn’t find him and destroy the evidence, it will be a bomb. Who knows when he will show up and accuse her of murdering her sister?

Even though he was Matriarch Farrell’s crush when she was young, for the long-term plan of her bloodline, as long as she found him, she would kill him and silence him.

For decades, there was no news about him, nor any news about her two nieces. She thought that as long as her nieces died or never appeared, she could safely hand over the position of head of the family to her daughter.

God still left her with hidden dangers.

Although one of the two nieces died, the deceased one left behind two daughters.

The living one married into a wealthy family, had children and daughters, and was powerful, so it was difficult for her to touch her eldest niece.

It was difficult for her to move her niece's two daughters.

There were several powerful families behind them. If she touched them, she would become the enemy of several wealthy families.

Today's Farrell family is no longer what it used to be. Matriarch Farrell did not have the courage to make enemies with several wealthy families.

Matriarch Farrell continued: "I suspect that the death of your aunt and her family was a conspiracy planned by him. He liked your eldest aunt, but since she married your uncle, he may have hated her out of love. People always say that I harmed your aunts. How is it possible? They are my sisters. Your aunts are so many years older than me. I was raised by them. My eldest sister is like my mother. In my heart, she is like my mother. How could I harm her?"

Kathryn, don't listen to other people's nonsense. Some people in the clan also hope that our mother and daughter will turn against each other, not to mention those people outside. Although the Farrell family is not as good as before, it is still among the rich families in Jensburg. It also bothers some people. They don't want to see us well."

Matriarch Farrell defended herself with a few words.

Many people in Jensburg said that she was responsible for the deaths of her eldest sister and younger sister.

She was the one who killed them; did they have evidence?

There was no evidence to prove it, so she refused to admit it. Anyway, the man was missing. There was no news for decades. He might be dead. Even if her eldest sister was alive, she would be almost ninety years old, and that man was two years older than her eldest sister. In his early nineties, and he lived so long?

Even if he lived to be a hundred years old, he would still be old in his early nineties, and it would be impossible for him to go back to Jensburg to testify against her.

Thinking like this, Matriarch Farrell felt a lot more relieved. She was quite afraid that the wealthy families behind Serenity would find that person.

Kathryn said, “Mom, I’m not a three-year-old child; I have the ability to discern. Mom, go to eat; just think it’s for me, and you also have to go to eat. I haven’t fully mastered it yet, and I have to take you with me. Well, if you hurt your body for my dad, it’s not worth it; what should I do?”

Married at First Sight Chapter 2670-Matriarch Farrell put down the cup and said, “I really don’t want to eat. You go to eat quickly. I will sit down and go back. I promise you that I won’t fall down. It’s just a trivial matter. I’ve been in a bad mood for two days. Okay, tomorrow, I promise to be the same mom you know.”

“For my husband, the old man, I’m not willing to live or die for him. After telling you so much, I want to hear what you think. How will you deal with Liberty after she comes here?”

Kathryn: “Maintaining the status.”

Matriarch Farrell was stunned for a moment, then smiled and said, “Okay, okay, you’re indeed my biological daughter!”

When I was in Wiltspoon, I went to meet my eldest niece, Audrey. The meeting between the aunt and niece was a bit explosive. No matter what I said, in her heart I was a murderer, so she was very angry at me.

Audrey asked me to give Liberty a chance and to train her so that she could compete fairly with you. If Liberty loses, you take over as the head of the family. She has nothing to say. If Liberty wins, our team must stay away from the center of power.”

Audrey didn’t make it so obvious. But the meaning was almost the same.

Matriarch Farrell said, “Kathryn, why should we let others sit on the chair where our buttocks are sitting? I didn’t agree to it.

Liberty came to Jensburg this time. She is not a good person. You should watch her carefully, don’t let her contact our tribe too much, and don’t give her a chance to win over the tribe. Also, she must develop business in Jensburg. It’s easier to do things if she has money.

As long as she is not allowed to develop her career without money or benefits, she will not be able to gain a foothold in Jensburg.

In Jensburg, we are the local snakes. Even if Liberty has the support of several wealthy families, so what? It is said that a strong dragon cannot defeat a local snake. It would be better if we could do it without anyone noticing.”

Matriarch Farrell made the gesture of wiping her neck. It meant asking Kathryn to kill Liberty.

Matriarch Farrell added, “But you can’t leave any traces. If you do that, you have to wipe it clean. We can’t afford to offend the big families behind her.”

Kathryn said, “Mom, I am willing to compete fairly with Liberty, and I don’t want to kill anyone. No matter how clean I am, I will always leave traces without knowing it. The so-called Skynet is full of omissions, unless I don’t. If I do it, it will be known sooner or later. I don’t want to die or spend the rest of my life in prison.”

Matriarch Farrell: “I just said that, knowing that you would not do that. Anyway, I will not give Liberty a chance. If she has the ability to compete with you, I have nothing to say.”

Kathryn said, “Mom, don’t kill Liberty behind my back, and don’t fall on me.”

Matriarch Farrell scolded Kathryn: “Why would Mom frame you? Don’t worry, Mom is still very worried about the York family, the Stone family, the Lewis family, and the Bucham family. They are all behind her. I won’t kill her; I won’t even care what she does in Jensburg.

That’s a stumbling block to your rise to power, and it’s your enemy. It’s left for you to deal with. Okay, you go and eat quickly. I’ve got a cigarette, and then go back.”

With that said, Matriarch Farrell lit up a cigarette again and started smoking.

Kathryn couldn’t persuade Matriarch Farrell to eat, so she had to say, “Mom, you need to eat something when you get back. I will call the butler later and ask him to watch you eat some.”

Matriarch Farrell: “I’m starving to death. I haven’t lived enough yet. I still want to see you get married and have children, and see you have successors.”

Kathryn then left with peace of mind.

After leaving the president's office and entering the elevator, Kathryn took out her mobile phone and sent a message to Pedro, asking him to help her make arrangements. She wanted to meet Liberty, but she couldn't let anyone know.