Chapter 704 Research

"I'll go and get her!" Riel smashed the bottle he was holding to pieces in anger and turned around with only one thought in mind... To catch the fake Julie.

He barely made a step before a pair of powerful hands grabbed him.

Liam shook his head and said calmly, "Don't. What's the point of catching her now? It won't bring Julie back. I have a plan. Now, we can use her for our own benefit."

Riel frowned slightly and calmed down a little. "What do you have in mind?"

Liam squinted, a faraway look in his eyes as he said with murderous intent, "She has been trying everything possible to make me marry her, right? Well, I guess it's time I gave her what she wanted."

"What? You want to marry her?" Riel was stunned. "Wait a second. What exactly is this plan?"

Liam's face still exuded that cold aura, but he was very confident as he explained, "My grandfather's birthday is in three months. I will use this opportunity to hold a wedding. Naturally, all the big families of Invone will be present.

It is on the wedding day that I will make Timothy and the child of the fake Julie undergo a DNA test, and with that, I can completely destroy the Hewitt family with the excuse that the Hewitt family committed adultery with my wife. Even the Sandoval family won't be able to do anything about it since I will have a good reason to do that."

Riel looked at Liam in awe. Indeed, Liam was intelligent and so poised.

How could he still be able to calmly plan this out when he didn't even know if his sweetheart was alive or dead?

What shocked Riel even more was his intent to kill.

Granted, the Hewitt family was not one of the four major clans of Invone, but it still had a high status. After it got connected to the Sandoval family by marriage, its status had risen greatly, and it was now superior to many clans.

But, Liam spoke as if destroying the Hewitt family was just like stepping on an ant.

After that, Liam ordered Fiona, "Fiona, keep an eye on the fake Julie for me. Make no mistakes and make sure she doesn't get suspicious that we're on to her."

Fiona nodded firmly. "Don't worry. You can trust me."

Liam nodded gratefully and patted Riel on the shoulder. "You are experienced in intelligence work. I need you to help me find Julie in the delta region and the surrounding areas."

Riel nodded and immediately got to work, calling his men in for the mission.

Once he had issued all the necessary instructions, Liam left them and walked into the lab of the hospital.

Before the wedding in three months, he would stay away from the fake Julie as much as he could. Right now, he was immersed in studying the medicine to treat the nerves of Jaxtyn and the others. He couldn't keep putting it off.

Thankfully, it was a great excuse to keep him away from the fake Julie. Three months were enough for him to carry out his research and develop the drug.

The next day.

In her room, Vivian was beaming with joy. She kept reading the message Liam sent to her, smiling harder each time she reread it.

It was actually a short message saying that he would be studying medicine for a while and wouldn't be able to come back. But then, when he finished producing the medicine, he would come and take her back to the capital where they would get married.

Of course, it came as a shocker to her that Liam would suddenly mention marriage. However, she didn't think much on it.

This was what she had always wanted, and it was soon going to happen. All doubts fled and only left a feeling of ecstasy in her heart.

In the lab of the Dark Night Organization's hospital, Liam blocked out all other thoughts from his mind and only focused on analyzing the medicine samples on all kinds of experiments. He did this day and night without any relent, and when he was tired, he would sleep on the small bed in the lab. He didn't even step out for food as it was delivered to him at a fixed time everyday.

He was very focused and careful in his work. If he came out with a good result, Jaxtyn and the others would all stand a chance to one day stand on their own again.
