

Chapter 800 General's Order

Liam still couldn't make sense of what was happening. Before Julie could leave for the company, he uttered, "You don't have to go. Maybe he just wants to make trouble for us. If you go there, you won't be making things any better."

Julie stopped in her tracks and sighed. With a frown, she said, "But I can't just watch on the sidelines and do nothing."

"Since I came back in a hurry, I don't know much about what happened during the past five years," Liam said in a soothing tone. "Tell me everything about your company's situation for the past five years. Maybe then, I can give you some proper advice."

Julie nodded and proceeded to tell him everything.

Five years ago, after Julie escaped from the Hoffman family, she received news that the Hoffman family was now at the brink of annihilation. On top of that, Leandro had become the new head of the Hoffman family.

Although she felt despondent, Julie also knew that she couldn't go back to Invone. And since Liam's whereabouts were unknown to her at the time, her only choice was to go back to Salem.

She used to run a clothing company there, so she was quite familiar with the place. If she continued to run her company, she could earn enough money to raise her son.

All this time, she thought her company had shut down. However, when she returned to Invone, she was surprised to see that it was still operating.

At first, she thought that the rivals of the Hoffman family discovered this abandoned company and occupied it in advance, which was why she didn't rush in there at the first opportunity.

However, after observing it for some time, she learned that Yesenia was actually in charge of the whole company.

When Yesenia saw Julie, who had just given birth to her child, her demeanor slightly changed.

Perhaps seeing her grandson reminded her of the time when she gave birth to Julie. A feeling of pity swelled in Yesenia's heart for Julie, which prompted her to return the company to Julie and then introduce her to the Cortez family.

The founder of the new Cortez family was Kohen's younger brother. Decades ago, he moved out and developed the company in another city. Now that Yesenia had reunited with the Cortez family, she was now able to return to Salem.

While Liam was gone, she did take care of Julie for a period of time. Until now, the two of them were still living together.

After listening to what Julie had to say, Liam finally understood why she and Yesenia got along really well. At the end of the day, Yesenia was Julie's mother, and that relationship would never change.

After hearing Julie recall the days back when they used to live together, Yesenia couldn't help but feel moved.

She sank her head, looking deep in contemplation. After a while, she said, "I'll go to the company with you. After all, I'm still Casper's elder. He's bound to show me respect."

Hearing this, Liam also stood up and held Julie's arm. "I'll also go with you."

"You can't!" Yesenia and Julie shouted at the same time.

Liam was taken aback by the resounding refusal. "Why?" he asked.

Yesenia let out a cold snort and answered, "Because you're such a troublemaker! Back then, you used to have the Hoffman family's support, but now, you're nothing but a liability. Given your bad temper, I'm sure that you'll only cause trouble to the company."

Julie, on the other hand, had other reservation. She couldn't forget the fact that it was Liam who had launched the attack. If he showed up, things would just escalate and become worse. Not only that, their child was at home alone. Someone needed to stay behind and take care of him.

"My mother and I will deal with the company's problems," Julie urged in a soft tone. "I don't want to bring Asher with us. Why don't you stay at home with him? After all, you and Asher haven't seen each other for so many years already."

Liam pursed his lips for a while, deep in thought. Finally, he nodded.

He knew what was going on in Julie's mind and didn't want to make things more difficult for her. However, even if he didn't go, he couldn't just stand and do nothing as other people bullied his wife.

"This is Liam. Put me through to the governor of Salem."

After confirming that the call was coming from Liam's phone number recorded in the Ministry of Defense, the receiver quickly transferred Liam's call to the governor.

"Is this the governor of Salem?" he asked. "This is Liam, a five-star general. I have an urgent task for you now..."

A moment later, the governor on the other end of the line almost burst in joy. He nodded enthusiastically as he said, "Don't worry, general. I'll make sure to deal with it."

The governor was very eager to flatter Liam. The last time he had such an opportunity, he failed to capitalize on it. All this time, he was waiting for Liam to call him and ask him for something. Now that the opportunity had arrived, he would do everything in his power to seize it.
