

The Wolf's Bride by Coffee's Tea Novel Online Free -

Chapter 1051

“Hahaha...”

The Insect Ruler watched Andrius' party gradually walk away and laughed as they left.

As soon as he was gone, Old Hagstorm's expression immediately turned solemn. To perfectly execute this plan, he had to be extremely cunning and flawless. There was no room for error.

After thinking for a long time, he finally took out his phone and dialed a familiar number.

Luna, who was far away in the Royal Gardens, saw the unknown number on the screen and hesitated for a moment before answering. “Hello, who is this?”

“It's me...” Old Hagstorm's familiar voice said.

At the Sumerian military airport, Andrius saw Luna approaching just as he got out of the plane.

“Hubby!” Before Andrius could ask her anything, Luna said seriously, “I have news about Master”

News about Old Hagstorm!

Andrius frowned and immediately asked, “Quickly, tell me. What's going on?”

“Follow me to New Moon Corporation. I'll show you something.”

“Okay.”

The two immediately got into the Ferrari.

Luna brought Andrius to her office. She turned on her work computer and opened her personal email.

There was an email that had been sent a little over an hour ago, and a short video was attached to the email.

After opening the video, an old man on the verge of death appeared on the screen. It was none other than Andrius master, Old Hagstorm.

“Master really is alive!” Andrius was instantly overjoyed and could not help but exclaim.

However, the next moment, his expression turned completely dark.

A masked man suddenly appeared on the screen. Although he did not show his face, he let out an extremely sinister laugh and said, “Andrius Moonshade, if you want Hagstorm's life, go to the western foothills of Mount Valdez at sunset tomorrow alone.

+15 BONUS

“Remember, sunset tomorrow, alone. If you dare to go against me, then don’t blame me for being ruthless. Hehehe...”

With that, the video abruptly went black, leaving only the chilling laughter echoing.

“Phew...” Andrius took a deep breath, suppressing the anger in his heart, and asked grimly, “Luna, did you trace the source of this email? Can you find his specific IP address?”

“No...” Luna shook her head and said guiltily, “He was very cunning and used multiple proxy servers, hopping around the world.

“Our IT team traced dozens of IPs, but after analyzing them, they found that they were all just zombie computers and not the sender’s real IP.”

Andrius sighed in disappointment at the words. “Since his IP can’t be found, we can only follow his instructions and be led by the nose.”

Luna fell silent, not knowing what to say.

After returning to Dream’s Waterfront, Andrius went to the balcony and called Noir.

“Noir, how is the development of the Lycan Manor going?”

Chapter 1051

“Hahaha...”

The Insect Ruler watched Andrius’ party gradually walk away and laughed as they left.

As soon as he was gone, Old Hagstorm’s expression immediately turned solemn. To perfectly execute this plan, he had to be extremely cunning and flawless. There was no room for error.

After thinking for a long time, he finally took out his phone and dialed a familiar number.

Luna, who was far away in the Royal Gardens, saw the unknown number on the screen and hesitated for a moment before answering. “Hello, who is this?”

“It’s me...” Old Hagstorm’s familiar voice said.

At the Sumerian military airport, Andrius saw Luna approaching just as he got out of the plane.

“Hubby!” Before Andrius could ask her anything, Luna said seriously, “I have news about Master”

News about Old Hagstorm!

Andrius frowned and immediately asked, “Quickly, tell me. What’s going on?”

“Follow me to New Moon Corporation. I’ll show you something.”

“Okay.”

The two immediately got into the Ferrari.

Luna brought Andrius to her office. She turned on her work computer and opened her personal email.

There was an email that had been sent a little over an hour ago, and a short video was attached to the email.

After opening the video, an old man on the verge of death appeared on the screen. It was none other than Andrius master, Old Hagstorm.

“Master really is alive!” Andrius was instantly overjoyed and could not help but exclaim.

However, the next moment, his expression turned completely dark.

A masked man suddenly appeared on the screen. Although he did not show his face, he let out an extremely sinister laugh and said, “Andrius Moonshade, if you want Hagstorm’s life, go to the western foothills of Mount Valdez at sunset tomorrow alone.

+15 BONUS

“Remember, sunset tomorrow, alone. If you dare to go against me, then don’t blame me for being ruthless. Hehehe...”

With that, the video abruptly went black, leaving only the chilling laughter echoing.

“Phew...” Andrius took a deep breath, suppressing the anger in his heart, and asked grimly, “Luna, did you trace the source of this email? Can you find his specific IP address?”

“No...” Luna shook her head and said guiltily, “He was very cunning and used multiple proxy servers, hopping around the world.

“Our IT team traced dozens of IPs, but after analyzing them, they found that they were all just zombie computers and not the sender’s real IP.”

Andrius sighed in disappointment at the words. “Since his IP can’t be found, we can only follow his instructions and be led by the nose.”

Luna fell silent, not knowing what to say.

After returning to Dream’s Waterfront, Andrius went to the balcony and called Noir.

“Noir, how is the development of the Lycan Manor going?”

Noir was obviously very excited at Andrius call "Andy, the Lycan Manor is growing very rapidly now New soldiers are breaking through to the martial realm every day

"The youngest among them is only nineteen but has already met the standards to join the Lycan Manor

He's the youngest martial realm expert

"Another one managed to go from Great Grandmaster to late stage Martial Lord in just eight days and is now heading toward the Martial King realm His cultivation speed can be said to be the fastest

In total, there are already four late-stage, nine mid-stage, and more than thirty early stage Martial Lords

in the Lycan Manor

"Furthermore, some well-known late-stage Martial Lords have joined the Lycan Manor after being attracted by your reputation

"However, many of them were still in seclusion when we went to Kiyoto this time, so I only brought a part of them"

Andrus was slightly surprised at Noir's report

However, after some time, he understood. Many exceptionally talented individuals from Florence enlisted in the Lycantroops Under Andrius' guidance and teaching, they cultivated with the same dedication and obsession as if they were fighting for their lives.

Previously without systematic cultivation techniques, their progress was slow

However, with the exceptional techniques that Andrus brought from the Medicine Sect, their strengths rapidly soared as they practiced diligently

"Not bad "Andrius praised. "You've worked hard during this period."

"Hehe "Noir chuckled and scratched his head sheepishly

"Let half of the troops stay in Kyoto and have the remaining half go to Sumeria and report by sanna

tomorrow

Andrius knew very well that there was a limit to how much he could handia alone. Thus, he had a rough plan in mind for how to save Old Hagstorm

"Yes, sir?" Noir responded and hung up the phone to make the arrangements.

"Hubby Luna hugged Andrius from behind, her cheek pressed tightly against his back. "Are you realy

+15 BONUS

“Yes.” Andrius nodded and said nothing more.

Old Hagstorm was not only his master but also the person who saved his life and raised him. Andrius would never be able to repay that debt of gratitude even in three lives

Now that Old Hagstorm had fallen into an enemy’s hands, Andrius had to go, no matter if he had to brave

the high mountains or stormy seas

“But Luna said worriedly. “The other party was able to capture your master, which means they must be powerful. I’m worried about you going alone

“We’re husband and wife now You’re no longer alone

“I’ll have the experts from Dragon Manor set up an ambush near Mount Valdez. They’ll be able to help you in critical moments and prevent you from being isolated and helpless,” Luna spoke sincerely

However, Andrius shook his head. “Although the trip to Valdez is dangerous, the terrain there is complex

I can easily escape if I sense something amiss They won’t be able to catch me “Sumeria is different Here, there’re the Crestfalls, New Moon Corporation, and Celestial Enterprise.

They’re our rearguard We need to prevent the enemy from targeting them.

Tell the Dragon Manor to temporarily station in Sumeria to prevent enemies from attacking while I’m away

Andrius’ concerns were not without reason. Such incidents had happened in the past.

Luna did not agree

“Hubby She held his arm and said. “You used to worry about me in the past, but I’m a Martial King now

The Dragon Manor under my command also has Martial Emperor level experts. I can help you why do you keep rejecting me?

Andrius had nothing to say to that. The excuses he used before did not seem to hold much weight anymore now that Luna had the strength to protect herself.

“Okay,” Andrius reluctantly agreed. “When the time comes, you just have to wait for my signal.”

Luna smiled in satisfaction. “That’s more like it...”

Andrius smiled and looked up at the stars above, saying, “It’s getting late. We should sleep early.”

“Alright.”

Their slumber was peaceful.

Andrius waited until Luna fell asleep before cultivating on the balcony.

The next day, he was still immersed in cultivation.

“Andy!”

Noir arrived with a group of people.

“Phew...”

Andrius let out a long breath and slowly opened his eyes. He felt relieved when he saw so many experts from the Lycan Manor.

“Noir, you’re just in time. During my absence, make sure to keep an eye on Sumeria. Stay alert and don’t give the enemy any opportunities.”

Noir and the group agreed. “Yes, sir!”

“Also...” Andrius glanced at Luna, who had arrived after hearing the commotion, and casually said, “Keep this place secure as well. Don’t make any mistakes.”

Noir understood and nodded. “Got it, Andy.”

Andrius walked up to her and said, “Luna, the journey to Mount Valdez is long, and I need to scout ahead, so I’m leaving now.”

Luna hesitated and said, “Be careful.”

“I know.”

After bidding farewell to everyone, Andrius went to the airport.

+15 BONUS

However, he did not board a plane to Hertan, which was the closest city to Mount Valdez. Instead, he took a flight to Zeppnir, the capital of Bardan. Bardan was adjacent to Florence and shared its southwestern border with Mount Valdez on the other side. It was much closer to Mount Valdez.

Furthermore, Bardan had a deep admiration for the Wolf King of Florence and could provide him with comprehensive support.

Unbeknownst to him, in the corner of the airport, a spy who had been keeping an eye on Andrius saw him head to Zeppnir and immediately left the airport.

He quickly reported this information to the Insect Ruler.

“Oh?” The Insect Ruler was not very surprised to hear this news and merely smiled faintly, saying nonchalantly, “Andrius certainly is Old Hagstorm’s disciple. He actually used a diversion and went to Bardan. However.....”

The Insect Ruler grinned, a sinister smile on his lips. “Since he has taken the bait, I’ll send people to Bardan to give our Wolf King a warm welcome.

“Hehehe...”

For the sake of secrecy, Andrius arrived at Bardan without telling anyone or making any preparations.

Mount Valdez was extremely mysterious and elusive. Even martial realm experts could be in danger if they wandered around inside.

Andrius had learned this from ‘Records of Profundity’.

Therefore, he did not dare to be careless and secretly arrived at Bardan, intending to seek assistance in terms of resources and manpower from King Laurent and Princess Yule, Anna Faulkner.

Since it was a secret, he could not visit as the Wolf King.

Chapter 1054

After all, the Wolf King’s reputation was well-known. Once he appeared in Bardan, it would undoubtedly draw widespread attention and ruin any element of secrecy.

Outside the royal palace, Andrius submitted a letter of request he had written as a special envoy from Florence to seek a secret audience.

The palace guard glanced at Andrius’ letter and returned it. “Sorry, you cannot enter the palace to meet the king.”

Andrius was slightly stunned and asked, “Why?”

“Princess Yule is seriously ill. His Majesty is gathering renowned physicians from all over and is unavailable to meet you. At the earliest, you can enter the palace in seven days to meet His Majesty.”

Seven days...

That would be too late!

Andrius hurriedly said, “To be honest, I have some medical knowledge and can handle various complex diseases. I can treat Princess Yule.”

The guard glanced at him and had disbelief written all over his face.

Due to Andrius’ identity as a special envoy from Florence, the guard remained polite and said, “Sir, I understand your urgency to meet the king. However, the princess’s illness is not something that anyone can treat. Please don’t make such jokes. If you’re truly capable, you may sign up as a physician.”

The implication was to get Andrius to stop spouting nonsense. He would have gotten physical if not for Andrius’ special identity.

Andrius was exasperated. Hiding his real identity brought so many problems.

He sighed and asked, “Can you at least tell me where to sign up?”

“At the entrance of the Royal Hospital. After signing up and being examined, if you pass the final test and emerge as the victor, you’ll have the chance to treat Princess Yule.”

The royal guard did not think that Andrius had any real skills and shared the information without care.

“Thanks.”

Andrius immediately headed to the entrance of the Royal Hospital. registration process was simple. He simply picked up a form, filled it, and handed it in.

Andrius casually chose an impressive title for himself—Dr. Providence—and submitted the form.

However, because many people wanted to take advantage of the situation and earn medical fees, the hundred or so ‘physicians’ including Andrius had to undergo further evaluation inside the hospital.

“The first round of the evaluation is quite simple.”

The examination proctor was the director of the hospital, Sergius. He looked at all the doctors and announced loudly, “In the hall next door are over a hundred pregnant women. Each of you will be assigned to one. Your task is to determine if the fetus is a boy or a girl. If you correctly identify the gender, then you pass.

“Remember, you only have one chance. If you fail, you’ll be eliminated immediately. Let’s begin.”

With that, the doctors were led into the hall and paired with a pregnant woman.

The local doctors from Bardan and physicians who came from afar immediately used high-tech methods to examine the pregnant women to provide answers. However, many of them who tried to take advantage of the situation were mercilessly expelled.

As for Andrius...

He said to the pregnant woman in front of him, “Please hold out your hand.”

The woman looked at him in confusion and then at the other pregnant women who were surrounded by various high-tech devices, and reluctantly held out her hand.

Andrius placed a silk scarf over her wrist.

“It’s a boy,” he said confidently after sensing briefly.

The whole process took less than ten seconds. It was much simpler and quicker than the various high-tech and scientific examinations conducted by the other doctors.

Chapter 1055

“Tsk!”

“A doctor from Florence is trying to come here for a free meal.”

“Everyone knows that Florentian medicine practitioners become better as they get older. This boy only looks like he’s in his twenties. He’s really bold to come here and show off!”

“If examining a pulse can accurately determine the gender of the fetus, what’s the point of developing medicine over so many years?”

“Hehe...”

The nearby doctors began mocking Andrius.

Even the pregnant woman in front of him seemed skeptical. Although she hoped for a boy, Andrius did not seem trustworthy at all.

“Silence.” Sergius snorted coldly and signaled the official physicians to verify Andrius’ answer.

A few minutes later, the physician said to Sergius, “Sir, it’s a boy.”

“Good.” Sergius nodded and was just about to announce that Andrius had passed the initial test.

Just then, those who had ridiculed Andrius were dissatisfied and started to protest loudly.

“Sir, your conclusion is too arbitrary and irresponsible.”

“There’s a 50% chance of getting it right no matter if he guesses a girl or boy.

If he’s lucky, he could even guess correctly three or four times in a row. It doesn’t mean he has good medical skills.”

“Exactly. Director Sergius, you must be responsible for His Majesty and Her Highness. We can’t allow anyone to try to take advantage of the situation.”

“Director, you should make him take the test ten times in a row. If he gets it right all ten times, i’ll have nothing to say!”

“I don’t believe that a young Florentian doctor can guess the gender of the fetus ten times in a row. If he succeeds, I’ll write my name backward!”

Sergius frowned.

What those doctors said made sense.

Thus, he immediately had ten more pregnant women brought in.

“Sorry, Dr. Providence.” Sergius said faintly, “It’s not that I don’t trust you, but...”

“Don’t worry, Director.” Andrius was skilled and was not afraid of being tested. He did not want to waste time, so he interrupted Sergius’ words. “I’ll pass the first round if I correctly guess the gender of these ten fetuses, right?”