

The Miraculous Simone Gray by Opal Reese Chapter 311-320

Chapter 311 She Ruins Things Every Time

Simone observed Jodie putting on a tough act.

Instead of feeling angry, she found it somewhat amusing. This woman seemed like an invincible cockroach.

However, their fates were intertwined. They were cursed to be connected.

For her to die would be a good thing for Jodie.

Yet, for Jodie to die, it could spell trouble for Simone.

However, as Simone gradually stripped away Jodie's fortune, the repercussions would become more severe.

Once Jodie experienced complete misfortune, she would no longer be able to recover.

The person responsible for the curse would also face increasingly severe consequences with each occurrence. Simone gazed at Jodie with indifference and uttered, "Let's wait and see."

Soon, the match officially commenced.

The players on Jodie's team played aggressively and fiercely, swinging their clubs whenever the ball was in play.

They purposely avoided fouls and employed cunning tactics, making it impossible for the referees to penalize them.

In previous matches, they had held back their strength. And now they were like unleashed tigers, seizing the ball without hesitation.

The team leader and another player displayed exceptional strength.

When George and Yusuf faced them, the impact of their clubs left their hands numb, and they helplessly witnessed the ball being snatched away.

The clubs were even knocked out of their hands twice, inflicting repeated blows to their legs and causing intense pain.

Despite Tina's decent skills, her strength was notably inferior to these two opponents, resulting in her being robbed of the ball multiple times.

Simone, Zac, and Bailey encountered similar tough situations.

But their strong skills and clever maneuvers allowed them to prevent the opponents' success

Chapter 311 She Ruins Things Every Time

and even snatch the ball from them.

Several opponents sustained injuries, and Simone's team scored more goals.

Simone and Bailey, in particular, showcased exceptional agility, maneuvering skillfully past opponents and launching effective counterattacks.

Upon recognizing the strength disparity, the opponents targeted George, Yusuf, and Tina- the weakest link.

Jodie initially targeted Tina the most.

Tina was someone she really disliked. Especially since Tina not only failed to support her but also sided with Simone. In Jodie's heart, Tina was a complete traitor. Therefore, she showed no mercy when dealing with traitors.

Tina disliked Jodie as well. In her heart, Jodie was a selfish and ruthless sister.

The two of them experienced several major collisions while on the field. Back and forth, neither gaining the upper hand.

Jodie hadn't anticipated that Tina would be so difficult to deal with.

This won't do; I still need to seize the opportunity to deal with Simone.

In an attempt to gain an advantage, Jodie silently recited a spell and absorbed Andrew's luck.

Jodie wasn't a geomancer. But she had previously used a lucky pendant given by a geomancy master, so reciting the spell activated its effect.

Then, strands of luck flowed from Andrew into Jodie's body.

Simone and Bailey noticed this.

Simone swiftly rode her horse toward the two of them.

After absorbing Andrew's luck, Jodie seized an opportunity and rushed to snatch the ball from Tina in front of her.

Then, using a trick taught by the team captain, she struck Tina's cue forcefully.

While it appeared as though she was snatching the ball, her true intention was to make Tina's cue bounce back onto the horse's leg.

Due to the infusion of luck, Tina's cue rebounded and struck the horse's leg.

The horse experienced pain and neighed frantically.

It then ran wildly, attempting to throw off Tina, who was riding on its back.

Tina was startled as she clung tightly to the horse's neck.

But her grip only made the horse more uncomfortable, causing it to try even harder to shake her off.

Finally, upon losing balance, Tina was thrown off the horse's back.

She screamed in fear, and many in the stands also screamed in shock.

At that moment, a red figure flashed by.

One foot hooked onto the saddle, the body tilted outward.

In a swift motion, Simone caught Tina, who was on the verge of being thrown off, and securely brought her back onto her horse.

The onlookers were left in awe of this unexpected turn of events.

The stands erupted with cheers and applause, echoing the relief felt by the spectators.

The viewers in the live broadcast room were equally astonished and impressed by Simone's quick and heroic response.

"Wow, Simone is so cool and powerful!"

Oh my god, Simone is so amazing'

I was so scared; if Simone hadn't saved Tina, she would have been seriously injured.

'Absolutely! She was thrown so high by the horse; her landing would have resulted in serious injuries.

With Simone by your side, you feel safe.

Simone is so heroic and handsome; I have nothing to say, but I love you!"

Guys, do you think Jodie intentionally hit the horse's leg earlier?"

I believe so; that's how this team plays. Once or twice could be a coincidence, but several times is definitely intentional.

Jojo is indeed cunning; she quickly learned the worst practices of this team.

I'm worried about Simone, but I also hope she gives Jodie a taste of her own action.

Amid the mix of everyone's hope and concern, Jodie observed Simone's quick actions with a flicker of coldness in her eyes.

Simone, you are a troublemaker. You always try to ruin things for me. How annoying! Since you are so eager to confront me, I won't hold back either

On the horse's back. Tina held Simone tightly around the waist, and her previously frightened heart gradually calmed down.

Simone is truly amazing: she is so capable. If I were a man, I would definitely pursue her “Simone, thank you. Otherwise, I would have been in trouble today.”

She sensed that she had experienced a stroke of bad luck earlier,

After realizing that Jodie had tricked her, Tina’s cue rebounded, and she prepared to quickly move away.

With her usual reflexes, the cue would have missed beneath the horse’s belly.

However, her hand twitched for a moment, causing a slight delay, and the cue struck the horse’s leg.

If thrown off, she had a feeling that she would have sustained serious injuries.

She was certain that it was Jodie’s doing.

They were twin sisters, yet Jodie treated her like an enemy and attacked her.

This completely eradicated the last trace of kindness in Tina’s heart.

Although she had wanted to see Jodie face difficulties before, she had never wished harm upon her.

Now that Jodie had made such a heartless move, she would no longer hold back in the future.

Upon sensing Tina’s discomfort, Simone reassured her, “As long as you’re okay.

She then asked, “Do you want to continue with the competition or take a break?”

Tina replied, “I’m fine; I want to continue with the competition. Can I ride the same horse with you to continue the match?”

The competition was temporarily halted, and the horse Tina had just ridden was taken away by the organizers. There was no time to select another horse and become familiar with it.

Simone responded, "Certainly, you can sit behind me, and we can continue the competition.

Tina nodded. "Okay!"

This situation had never occurred before. However, the rules did not explicitly state that two individuals were not allowed to ride the same horse.

Therefore, the organizers approved their request and permitted them to ride together on one horse.

This also sparked envy among Zac and Simone's fans.

Meanwhile, Andrew, who had dismounted to rest and drink water during the break, slipped and fell to the ground while stepping on the stirrup.

Chapter 312 No Way Out

Andrew stumbled, catching everyone's attention.

The referee hurried over to assist him, asking, "Are you alright? Can you continue the competition?"

Though Andrew felt a bit sore from the fall, he said, "I'm fine; let's continue the competition."

It would be too embarrassing for him to quit now.

Also, he had promised Jo that he would protect her.

He intended to keep his word, especially considering the hostile glances Simone and Tina had directed at Jo earlier, indicating potential retaliation in the upcoming matches.

Jodie also rode over on a horse, expressing concern for Andrew.

She pretended to ask, "Andrew, do you need a break?"

Of course, she didn't want Andrew to rest.

Andrew stood up and smiled, saying, "I'm fine; I can still continue the competition. I promised to protect you, and I will definitely do it."

Jodie looked at Andrew with gratitude, "Andrew, you're so kind."

The audience in the stands couldn't hear their conversation, but the viewers in the live broadcast room caught it through the drone's live feed.

They all exclaimed, Andrew truly loves Jodie!

Titus and Luca were speechless.

Luca said, "Andrew has lost his mind again. The way Jodie smiles gives me a somewhat uneasy feeling. Is she going to cause trouble again?"

Before Luca saw through Jodie's actions, Luca would believe the way she treated Tina wasn't intentional. But now, he was sure Jodie deliberately made a move.

How has she become more and more unrecognizable?"

Titus raised an eyebrow. "Maybe she was always like this. Only now does she reveal her true colors bit by bit. Haven't you noticed? Since she started playing today, she has stopped pretending

The previous Jodie would never have made such strong remarks against Simone and the others during the live broadcast.

She would never have intentionally attacked Tina in public. It could only mean that she must have realized that there were too many criticisms online, and her chances of redeeming her reputation were slim.

So, she decided to let herself go.

Luca nodded. I've noticed. Not only has she become more assertive, but she has also shown a fierce side. The foolish Andrew, I don't think there is anything wrong with him stepping on the stirrup, but he slipped and fell. I have a feeling that he's about to have a streak of bad luck!"

Because he had experienced his own share of misfortune, Luca could relate to this kind of situation.

Titus shared the same thought. “Definitely, no doubt about it. I just wonder how unlucky he’s going to get.”

It seemed that the foolish Andrew was solely focused on protecting Jodie and hadn’t realized the misfortune that had befallen him.

Titus asked in confusion, “Isn’t he wearing the mystical tool bracelet? How did he start having bad luck again?”

Luca was equally puzzled. “I wonder, too.”

Titus said, “Let’s keep watching.”

As the polo match continued, Simone took the initiative with Tina to go for the ball. Their cooperation was extremely tacit.

After snatching the ball, they passed it to Zac or Bailey, both of whom scored every time they got the ball.

As a result, Simone’s team remained in the lead.

Not only were Simone and Tina in sync on the field, but they also had the same mindset.

They didn’t actively target Jodie. They followed the polo rules and maintained their sportsmanship.

because they knew Jodie couldn’t wait and would come to them willingly.

Indeed, Jodie had been thinking this way, but she hadn’t found the opportunity yet

In the blink of an eye, the first half ended.

Simone’s team was in the lead.

After a fifteen-minute break, the second half began with the teams switching sides.

Jodie said to Andrew, “Andrew, let’s be more proactive in going for the ball, or else we’ll lose.”

She noticed that Andrew had been hesitant when playing against Simone.

She guessed that Andrew was trying to go easy on Simone, which annoyed her. Since he had chosen her, he shouldn't hold back against Simone.

However, she wouldn't say it out loud; she would find other ways to force Andrew to deal with Simone.

Andrew thought for a moment and nodded. "Alright!"

Although he didn't want to target Simone, they needed to win this match to prove themselves.

And he had to protect Jo.

So, in the second half, Andrew constantly circled around Jodie on his broomstick.

Upon seeing this, Simone felt like praying for Andrew.

It appears that Sc*mbag No. 4 believes that absorbing bad luck alone isn't sufficient; he insists on serving as a shield for Jodie from such a close distance.

Next, Jodie started targeting Simone.

She used various sneaky tactics, but Simone evaded them and counterattacked.

However, every time she counterattacked, Andrew suffered the misfortune.

For example, when both sides went for the ball, Simone counterattacked Jodie.

She sent the ball flying toward Jodie's face at an unexpected angle, as if by accident.

From a rule perspective, she hadn't committed a foul.

And when the ball came toward Jodie, her horse would suddenly leap out just enough to dodge the incoming ball. This was because she had absorbed Andrew's luck.

With her absorbing his bad luck and Andrew protecting her on the side, there was no way he could escape.

O

A ball hit him in the face, causing him to scream in pain.

Then half of his face swelled

After applying the medicine mist, he continued to persevere.

And then he kept getting injured.

Either a ball hit his face or body, or he was accidentally struck by someone's golf club.

His face, arms, and legs were all swollen.

Because the game was about to end, he gritted his teeth and persisted.

Then, Jodie used the same method to deal with Simone as she did with Tina.

Simone increased her strength, and not only did she not get hit, but she also fought back in the same way.

The golf club she extended was bounced back.

Jodie's hand went numb from the shock; she didn't expect Simone to be so strong.

She tried to move the golf club, but her arm was weakened by the previous shock.

So, the golf club fell on her own horse's leg..

The horse, in pain and startled, threw Jodie off.

But luckily, Andrew was right next to her.

As she was thrown off the horse, Andrew rode his horse alongside her and reached out to forcefully pull her into his arms.

Jodie didn't fall to the ground; instead, she mounted Andrew's horse.

As she sat on the horse, Andrew, unfortunately, couldn't maintain his balance and fell off.

Fortunately, the horse wasn't moving fast at that moment. So, when he fell off, he only sustained some cuts on his face and hands and wasn't seriously injured.

Jodie naturally understood why Andrew fell off the horse.

He was protecting her from the disaster.

She quickly dismounted and anxiously helped Andrew to his feet.

O

"Andrew, are you okay?"

Andrew's whole body was in pain, especially his face and hands were burning. He replied, I'm a little sore all over."

Jodie glanced at the time remaining in the game. "Andrew, there are only a few minutes left. I'll ride with you on one horse; let's try to catch up with them and aim for overtime."

They were still behind by several points, but there was still hope of catching up.

And even if they couldn't win the game in the end. She had to find a way to deal with Simone, get her injured, and quit the variety show.

Andrew had originally intended to take a break. But upon hearing what she said, he could only grit his teeth and say, "Okay, let's persevere and work hard for a few more minutes."

Simone, who was not far away, witnessed the aura between Andrew and Jodie gradually merging.

The beads on the bracelet he was wearing on his hand began to crack two-thirds of the way.

Although he had been unlucky before, he only suffered minor injuries, which were prevented by this bracelet.

Now, it was evident that the mystical tool couldn't hold on much longer, and if he continued to experience misfortune, he would be in serious trouble.

Simone saw Jodie mounting the horse and reached out to help Andrew onto the horse to sit behind her.

Based on the situation just now, Sc*mbag No. 4 could easily request a break.

This way, accidents on the polo field could also be avoided, and the last few beads on the bracelet could help relieve some pressure.

But now, Sc*mbag No. 4 was seeking his own demise, and there was nothing that could be done.

Chapter 313 Why Did You Do This to Me?

The match was temporarily paused as Andrew and Jodie fell off their horses.

Seeing the situation, their captain reorganized the formation. He could tell that Jodie held a grudge against the two women riding opposite them. However, their strength was no match for the women. Instead of restraining them, they ended up losing possession of the ball.

Because of that, he instructed Jodie and Andrew to restrain the two weakest opponents and keep Zac occupied. They had to focus on dealing with Simone and Bailey if they wanted to turn the situation around.

However, Jodie didn't take the captain's orders to heart and simply nodded in response. "Alright!"

Then, they continued with the match.

Initially, she did attempt to restrain the two and constantly harassed Zac with Andrew. However, the other four players did not perform well. Not only did they fail to stop Simone and Bailey, but they also allowed them to score two goals.

Witnessing this, Jodie felt extremely frustrated. She thought she had chosen a championship team, but little did she know it would turn out this way. The match was about to end soon, but both Bailey and Simone were highly skilled and had not fallen for the tricks of the other four players.

At this point, winning seemed almost impossible for them. It made her feel deep regret and embarrassment about the outcome. She wouldn't have made such bold statements if she had known earlier. Now that victory was out of reach, she could only give up on the match and focus on dealing with Simone.

When Simone snatched the ball from Jodie's teammate once again, Jodie rode her horse and charged toward Simone with Andrew.

Upon noticing that, the other players also rushed over to help Jodie. Zac and his teammates did the same, as they wanted to assist Simone. As a result, both teams gathered together, creating a chaotic scene.

Jodie raised her stick and pretended to go for the ball, but in reality, she swung it toward Simone's horse's leg.

Since the match was about to end, it wouldn't matter anymore, even if she was penalized and sent off the field. After all, there were already so many people criticizing her online. She Couldn't care less if they continued to do so over this incident

Now she only had one thought in mind, which was to take advantage of this opportunity to push Simone and Bailey off their horses. Then, she would ride her horse and stage an accident by trampling over Simone and Tina. It would be even better if she could completely ruin their faces. The more she thought about it, the more excited she became.

Simone had always been on guard against Jodie, so she didn't let her succeed. Instead, she placed her stick swiftly in front of her horse's leg, blocking Jodie's swing.

After blocking Jodie's stick, Simone looked at her and exposed her intention. "What's the matter? Your sneaky move didn't work, so now you're resorting to blatant fouls to hurt others?"

Jodie cursed inwardly, wondering how Simone could react so quickly. She had almost succeeded just now, but upon hearing Simone's words, she pretended to be innocent. "What are you talking about? I made a mistake just now. It wasn't intentional."

However, it wasn't just the spectators and participants because even Andrew didn't quite believe her words.

Simone sneered. "We're not fools. It doesn't matter if you don't admit it. You've already lost anyway."

Then, skillfully, she snatched the ball from Jodie's teammate's stick.

She intended to run forward with the ball, but Jodie blocked her path on horseback. Seeing that, her teammates followed suit and surrounded her as well.

Then, Jodie made up her mind. She blocked Simone's way and tried to use the stick to hit her horse again. This time, Simone didn't try to stop her. She deliberately let Jodie hit the horse's leg, causing the horse to cry out in pain and shock everyone.

All of them were nervous for Simone and Tina. At this moment, everyone saw Simone holding the reins tightly as if trying to stop the horse from going wild. No one expected the horse to leap up with its legs stretched high, appearing ready to kick in Jodie's direction.

From the looks of it, the horse was not only intelligent but also held a grudge. After getting hit by Jodie, it seemed to retaliate by kicking her. Except for Bailey, no one noticed that Simone used a training technique that caused the horse to behave this way.

she might also be seriously injured. So, instinctively, she turned around and reached out to drag Andrew, who was riding behind her, and pulled his upper body over to block herself.

Perhaps it was due to the instinct to protect herself and the blessing of luck, Jodie suddenly turned exceptionally strong.

Andrew watched helplessly as his beloved sister, whom he had doted on for many years, grabbed him at a critical moment to shield herself from disaster. Because it happened so suddenly, he had no defense and no time to resist. Jodie's timing was perfect.

Andrew was now in front of her, and when she leaned back, the horse's hooves landed on him directly. He felt a sharp pain in his back as if it was about to explode. Following that, he spat a mouthful of blood and screamed in pain, "Ah!" Due to inertia, he and Jodie fell off the horse together.

What made it worse was that he had landed first while Jodie fell on top of him. He became a cushion for Jodie, which worsened his injury.

At this instant, the signal marking the conclusion of the competition echoed, and Simone's team won.

However, everyone's attention was focused on Andrew.

Without further delay, the referee and medical personnel rushed over to attend to his injuries.

The doctor on standby also quickly went up to him.

"His injuries are severe, and he's suffering multiple fractures in his back. He must undergo CT scans and cortical bone trajectory to determine the extent of the injuries. We must also check whether his shoulder blade has shifted or if there are fractures in the vertebrae. If his shoulder blades are displaced, or worse, shattered, or if there are injuries to the cervical or spinal vertebrae, the situation will be more serious, and immediate surgery will be required.

Another doctor added, "He's also suffering fractures in his arms and legs."

Their statements left everyone present in shock.

No one had anticipated such a turn of events. They couldn't help but sigh, realizing how unlucky Andrew was. It was an entirely undeserved disaster! It was clear that Jodie had intentionally hurt Simone's horse's leg, so she deserved to face the consequences. Who would have thought that she would be so ruthless and quick to react by using her own brother as a shield to protect herself from the disaster?

Andrew had withdrawn from the competition after falling off the horse earlier and ignored Jodie's words, he wouldn't have faced such misfortune and become her living shield.

Due to the severity of his condition, the medical staff carefully lifted him onto a stretcher to transport him to the hospital for treatment. As he was being lifted onto the stretcher, his eyes were filled with pain and confusion. Then, he looked at Jodie with a gaze of disbelief and an unprecedented coldness.

Even though speaking caused him sharp pain, he still looked at her and asked. "Why did you do this to me?"

He had protected her, but at a critical moment, she resorted to hurting him. Why did she have to do that?

Chapter 314 Heartbroken Upon Comparison

Jodie couldn't help but feel guilty when she saw Andrew looking at her like that

At that moment, she didn't think much and instinctively reached out to make him a shield from disaster.

He loved her so much and claimed that he would protect her, so she must've done the right thing, right? But of course, she couldn't say these thoughts out loud

With red eyes and a guilty face, she apologized. "Andrew. I didn't mean to I was just impulsive at that moment and wanted to drag you off the horse I never expected that the horse's hooves would step on you so fast. It stepped on you before we could even fall off our horse."

She sounded so certain that she didn't intend to use him as a shield, but her words left everyone speechless.

Did she even act like she was trying to drag Andrew off the horse! Everyone could tell that she had intentionally used him as a shield

No one spoke, but they looked at Andrew in unison. They wanted to know if he would blindly believe Jodie's words again. After all, their words were useless. It was up to him whether to believe her or not.

Andrew didn't expect Jodie to say such things. Even if she admitted it, he would've felt better.

After all, in the face of danger, her actions were somewhat understandable despite the fact that she had hurt him in the process

It was now that he realized that in Jodie's heart, he could be discarded at any time.

After being blamed for the first time, he was now being used as a shield.

No matter how foolish he was, he wouldn't believe that she didn't do it intentionally.

Forcing a bitter smile, he uttered. I actually wanted to take a break a long time ago, but I stayed until the end because I wanted to protect you, and I stood by it by shielding you from this disaster. In fact, even if you didn't pull me over, I would've dragged you off the horse to protect you.

When he saw the horse coming toward them, his first instinct was to embrace Jodie and jump off the horse. When they landed, he would even use his body to shield her.

She was just a young lady, so he could predict what would happen if she got kicked by the horse. At a nun, he deemed it his duty to protect her

She was just a young lady, so he couldn't predict what would happen if she got kicked by the horse. As a man, he decided it his duty to protect her.

Despite that, he didn't expect that his instinct was to protect her while her instinct was to pull him over as a shield.

His previous claims of protecting her now sounded ridiculous, especially since he had repeatedly believed in her before. No wonder everyone else thought he was a fool.

They were right about that.

In a weak voice, he added, "Let's go on our own ways after this."

Jodie breathed a sigh of relief after hearing his first few statements. At the same time, she also regretted acting too quickly.

Andrew had said he would embrace her and protect her even while jumping off the horse, and she believed he would do so. Just as she was about to express her gratitude, she heard his final sentence.

She couldn't believe what she was hearing. What did he mean by going their own ways? Was he thinking of giving up on her? He had promised to protect her! Taking the initiative to jump off the horse with her and being used as a shield meant the same thing, right? Jodie felt a sense of injustice in her heart.

She was about to say something when Andrew noticed the hurt in her eyes, which made him shoot her a colder gaze.

pain.

She didn't even care about how much he was hurt at the moment or ask if he was in. Instead, she felt hurt by his words. All the love and care he had given her over the years seemed to have gone down the drain.

He no longer wanted to see her or listen to her.

"Please take me to the hospital," he said to the medical staff before shutting his eyes.

He was afraid of having a sister like her.

At that moment, Titus, Luca, and Aaron's words echoed in his mind.

He used to ignore their advice, but now, he couldn't help but take them to heart.

It turned out that they had long found out about Jodie's selfish and ruthless nature. Only he had been foolish enough to make excuses for her and believe in her constantly.

He even targeted his own sister for her sake. In the end, it was his biological sister who didn't hurt him. She had even saved him once in the garden. Despite all that, the one he poured all his love into over a decade abandoned him easily.

When Jodie used him as a shield from the disaster, did she ever think that the horse's hooves might kill him? She probably didn't even consider it, as he was nothing to her and was merely someone who could be sacrificed at any time.

After more than a decade, he finally found out her true nature and how good of an actress she was.

As expected, those who weren't related by blood wouldn't appreciate the unconditional love given by them. Instead, they took their love for granted without considering giving back.

He couldn't help but wonder what would have happened if the same situation had occurred with Simone and him. After Andrew finished speaking, the medical staff quickly carried him out and placed him in the ambulance.

In emergencies like this, ambulances were allowed to enter through another gate in Cubilis.

Andrew was taken to the ambulance while Aaron, who was in the stands, hurriedly joined him.

When the ambulance drove away, Aaron looked at Andrew with concern and asked, "Andrew, how do you feel now? Are you seriously injured?" The incident just now had scared him badly.

He was aware of Jodie's cunning and manipulative nature before and even regarded her with some contempt, but he never expected that she could be so heartless and ruthless.

As her brothers, all five of them doted on her, but Andrew was considered the one who was most protective of her.

When Jodie wanted to study abroad, she asked who could accompany her. None of them wanted to go abroad, and Andrew was no exception, but he still ended up going with her; when she expressed her desire to join the entertainment industry, he took a major in directing to support and protect her.

Whatever she wanted to do, Andrew would willingly accompany her.

Even when Simone returned, he remained cold toward her because of Jodie.

But this was Jodie's way of repaying Andrew, the one who loved her the most. The way she calmly pushed Andrew aside to protect herself chilled him to the bone.

Because the incident happened suddenly, there was no time for much thought, so the instinctive action she took surely reflected what she truly felt. That was, Jodie never really cared about Andrew.

Her callousness was difficult to accept, but it was the truth.

He felt grateful that he had distanced himself from Jodie earlier because of everything that had happened before.

Otherwise, he wasn't sure if he would end up like Andrew.

Although they had all been discarded before, most of them were merely scapegoats.

Andrew was truly unfortunate! Hearing Aaron's voice. Andrew slowly opened his eyes.

He observed the worry and anxiety in Aaron's eyes, how he inquired about his injuries, and how he was feeling.

This was the kind of attitude a family member should have.

He reflected on Jodie's expression and reaction to the incident until they left.

There was guilt, gratitude, avoidance, and resentment, but there was no hint of worry or anxiety in her.

Comparing all of this, he felt even more heartbroken.

Unable to control himself, he breathed rapidly in anger. Then, he clutched his chest while trembling in pain.

Chapter 315 They Regret It, Too

Aaron was taken aback when he witnessed Andrew's behavior.

Was he heavily impacted by Jodie's provocation? "Andrew, are you alright?"

Enduring the pain, Andrew replied, "I'm not alright. It hurts a lot."

While Aaron was concerned, he couldn't help but nag at him. "Aren't you being too foolish? I've warned you all along, but you just didn't believe me. She borrowed your luck and even forced you to wear a mystical tool that could backfire you, yet you still haven't learned your lesson."

If only he had listened to them and distanced themselves from Jodie, this wouldn't have happened.

During the competition, he could've used the excuse of falling off the horse and getting injured to rest, but he insisted on following Jodie's advice and riding the horse until the end.

"Have you ever considered that this would be the outcome of persisting until the end?"

Andrew forced a bitter smile. "Who could've expected something like this?"

"Well, only in this way can I see her cold and heartless nature. Otherwise, no matter how hard you try to persuade me, I wouldn't have wanted to think poorly of her."

He still couldn't comprehend Jodie's actions to this moment. "Ever since she came to our house, we have treated her so well. I don't understand why she treats us so cruelly."

Aaron pondered for a moment. "Maybe it's because we spoiled her too much and made her believe that our efforts for her are only natural. It has nothing to do with how we raised her because her nature is simply cold and heartless. When we treat her well, she thinks it's what she deserves, but as soon as we become distant and cold, she feels wronged and blames us."

After listening to Aaron's words, Andrew suddenly had an epiphany.

Was that what it was? No wonder when he got injured, Jodie didn't care about his injuries but instead felt wronged because of his words.

She was blaming him again. He didn't even know how bad his injuries were, yet she still blamed him. It was simply ridiculous. His care and concern for her over the years only made him look like a clown.

Chapter 315 They Regret It, Too

Aaron didn't expect Andrew to ask that question.

He thought for a moment before answering, "She would most likely do her best to protect us. Instinctively, she might push us off the horse and bear the burden herself, or maybe she would pull us off the horse together. One thing's for sure. She definitely wouldn't use us as a shield. Moreover, I reckon she'd do the same before cutting ties with us even if we did recognize her after she went missing after years.

He continued, "You asked me this question because you were comparing Jodie to Simone in your mind, but in reality, you already have the answer, don't you?"

Andrew's smile grew bitter. "Yes."

He had imagined several possibilities in his mind, but none of them involved Simone doing what Jodie had just done.

"Aaron, I regret it now. I regret treating Simone like I did because of Jodie."

Since Simone was blood-related to him, and he had shared a bond with Jodie for over a decade, he took Simone for granted and hurt her without hesitation. He deserved to suffer such consequences.

Aaron also wore a bitter smile on his face. "Yes. We both regret it. But what's the use of regretting? The damage has already been done. Simone will never forgive us. Let me ask you a question. Will you forgive Jodie and treat her as you did before?"

Andrew felt even more distressed upon hearing that question. "No, I won't. It's no wonder that Simone treats us this way. In the past, I couldn't understand why she would cut ties with us, even though we are blood-related; I couldn't fathom how she no longer treated us as affectionately as before and even started to become cold and cruel to us. But after the earlier events, I finally came to a realization. Only the wearer knows where the shoe pinches. It is only now that I understand her choices. Without experiencing others' suffering, one cannot advise others to be kind. I understand now. It's just a pity that I understood it too late."

After saying so much, accompanied by feelings of regret and remorse, Andrew suddenly coughed violently, causing blood to flow from the corner of his mouth.

His whole body twisted in excruciating pain, and the pain was so unbearable that it could almost take his life.

His affection for Jodie completely vanished at that moment.

The doctor immediately took emergency measures for Andrew and advised him not to speak anymore.

Aaron, seeing this, stopped talking to him and presented a look of anxiety.

Andrew's injuries were too severe, and it was unknown if his life was in danger.

In another country. Titus and Luca were dumbfounded when they witnessed what happened at the polo field. They had anticipated that Andrew would have a tough time, but they didn't expect it to be this tragic.

Luca's face was filled with mixed emotions as he commented, "Jodie is simply ruthless."

Only enemies would do such things. How could she treat Andrew, who loved her the most, like this?

Titus was also shocked by Jodie's ruthlessness. "She is a wolf in sheep's clothing, cunning and heartless."

Once again, he was grateful that he wasn't on Jodie's side. Otherwise, he couldn't imagine the consequences he would face. Judging by Andrew's reaction, he must have realized his mistake, Luca remarked.

The last sentence Andrew spat indicated that he had completely lost hope in her.

Titus sneered, "If he continues to protect her, then he is beyond redemption."

After that, the two of them witnessed the scene in the ambulance.

They felt uneasy upon hearing Andrew's statements because they regretted what they had done as well.

However, it was too late for regrets. The damage had already been done, and they couldn't undo Simone's choices.

It was their own doing, and they had to accept it, no matter how reluctant they were.

Watching Andrew coughing up blood with a pale face and how he contorted in pain, the doctors rushed to provide emergency treatment.

His condition instantly worried the two brothers, so they called Aaron and told him to keep them updated on Andrew's condition.

Although they had wanted to watch Andrew suffer, they never expected him to end up in such a miserable state.

At that moment, Titus and Luca experienced a newfound disgust toward Jodie. It was a feeling they had never felt before.

Previously, they had only felt disappointed by her true colors and had only wanted to distance themselves from her, but they hadn't truly considered taking any action toward her

Now, they genuinely loathed her from the depths of their hearts and simply wanted her to leave the house as soon as possible.

Keeping her around would only cause a catastrophe.

In another country, their parents were shocked when they witnessed the scene on the live broadcast

Clearly, they hadn't expected Jodic to behave in such a manner.

While they were furious, they were also deeply concerned about their son's injuries.

Steven, who had initially planned to switch off his phone, decided against it.

Instead, he contacted Aaron and requested to be kept updated on Andrew's condition.

Then, he turned to Salma, whose expression was grim, and said, "I understand that you were hesitant to let go of Jodie before, and you felt relieved since I didn't insist on sending her away. I even hired a tutor to teach her manners. It was not only for her good but also to prove whether she deserved to be one of us. But after everything that has happened, we can no longer keep such a disaster in our house. I have asked my secretary to book tickets for us to return to Cubilis today. We'll visit Andrew there.

He was extremely worried about his son's severe injuries and whether his life was in danger.

On the other hand, Salma's eyes flickered. Now that her previous thoughts were exposed by her husband, she felt somewhat embarrassed.

This time, Jodie had indeed crossed the line, so she nodded and agreed, "Alright. I will follow your lead. After this reality show shooting is over and she returns to Cebros, I will send her away.

She didn't really want to go back to Cubilis because the commotion caused by this incident would surely lead to criticism from her in-laws at Gray Manor. Her friends and acquaintances in their social circle would also bring this up.

However, when her husband mentioned going back, she dared not defy him. Moreover, she was also quite worried about her son's condition.

Chapter 316 Inflict Further Pain

The viewers were also shocked by Andrew's situation, leaving them in awe of Jodie's heartlessness.

Most people would be terrified and wouldn't even consider using someone nearby as a shield. However, Jodie proved that she was far from ordinary by doing just that.

Some blamed Andrew for his own misfortune. They argued that Jodie treated him poorly. yet he still wanted to grovel at her feet.

So, this was the result.

With Andrew's pitiful state, more people sympathize with him than criticize him. Almost everyone condemned Jodie for her heartlessness.

This incident quickly became one of the top three trending topics without any orchestration.

Andrew's fans even flooded Jodie's Facebook page with scathing comments.

Jonah didn't expect such a turn of events on the variety show.

Due to the viewers' demands and concern for Andrew's condition, they continued the live broadcast with a cameraman.

When Jonah witnessed Andrew writhing in pain and coughing up blood in the ambulance, he couldn't help but feel a twinge of sympathy. It was a truly tragic sight.

Meanwhile, in the polo field, after Andrew was taken to the hospital, everyone's attention shifted to Jodie.

Jodie could sense the fear, disdain, apprehension, and even terror in everyone's gaze. Even though she was shameless, she couldn't bear it at that moment. She felt frustrated.

I wanted to deal with Simone, but why did it end up with Andrew suffering so much? It must be Simone's doing.

She looked at Simone, her eyes filled with resentment. "It's you. You're the one behind this. You manipulated that horse to come and trample on us."

Simone wasn't surprised that Jodie was trying to shift the blame onto her. In fact, it was the expected response from Jodie.

Raising an eyebrow, Simone said, "You abandoned Andrew without hesitation, using him as a shield. But now you want to blame me for the consequences. This is your usual style."

"Why did the horse go berserk and charge at you? Don't you have any idea? If it weren't for you intentionally hitting the legs of the horse I was riding with a stick, would it have gotten angry and gone wild? The first time, I fought back, but you still came for a second time. Can you really blame me for that?"

She looked at Jodie meaningfully and said. "You always have double standards. If you harm others, it's considered reasonable and right. But if others fight back, it's considered wrong. You made a mess of things and harmed Andrew, but you made it someone else's fault."

Just say it directly. Everything you do is right, while everyone else is wrong. Why beat around the bush and shift the blame? At that time, everyone present saw what happened, and was also recorded in the live broadcast. We can let everyone judge and see if it was intentional on your part or mine.

She used horse training techniques to provoke the horse's anger and let it seek revenge on its own. But wasn't it Jodie who deliberately provoked the horse?

Jodie choked. "You-

Then, she firmly said. "I just don't believe that the horse came to kick us on its own."

It must be Simone playing dirty tricks trying to harm me.

Simone sneered. "It's your decision to believe it or not. I just say a few more words to you, and you really think you're something? You worthless thing. According to your logic, you didn't pull Andrew to protect you. It's his body that flew in front of you on its own.

"If you hadn't intentionally hit the horse, it wouldn't have gone berserk. I won't let this matter slide like this. Whether Andrew blames you afterward is your family matter. Now, let's first deal with your intentional violation that caused serious injuries to people."

Simone no longer engaged in a pointless argument with her. Instead, she dismounted with Tina and went to complain to the referee and the organizers about Jodie.

Everyone saw what happened clearly, and they all shouted for Jodie to be held accountable.

They couldn't understand Jodie's way of thinking either.

There were so many people watching here, plus millions of viewers watching the live broadcast.

Did Jodie think they were blind and couldn't see that she deliberately hit the horse, causing the horse to retaliate like this? She could actually argue and shift the blame to Simone, What kind of person would do that?

No, as Simone said, she was a worthless thing. One could also imagine what kind of life Simone had in the Gray Family before

She must have often been framed by Jodie like this while the Gray Family pointed fingers at Simone, calling her toxic.

Then, the netizens started to criticize the Gray Family parents and the five Gray Family brothers.

Many people even said they were glad Simone didn't grow up in the Gray Family because she had the right values, was a good person, and was capable, but the people of the Gray Family, from the brothers to Jodie, all showed their twisted values, completely warped by their upbringing.

It showed that the Gray Family itself was very twisted.

As they criticized, and since the Gray Family brothers were mostly in the entertainment industry, they became trending.

At Gray Manor, Owen and Alice were once again angered.

Unable to hold back, they called their son and daughter-in-law to scold them again..

Then, the elderly couple had their other son book a flight to Cubilis. They wanted to fly over and see their grandson in person.

Although they weren't particularly close to their grandson, Andrew, he was still part of the Gray Family bloodline.

They were still worried about him, especially after such a serious injury.

The rest of the Gray Family also developed a strong aversion toward Jodie.

Even the cousins, who used to have a good relationship with Jodie, couldn't help but feel a sense of dread. This woman is just too malicious.

And they didn't know if Jodie could borrow their luck like she did Andrew. After all, they also shared the same surname.

We should keep our distance from this woman in the future. She's just too terrifying.

Back at the polo field, Simone and the others' complaints were valid.

The organizers completely banned Jodie from participating in polo matches in the future.

Furthermore, after the variety show ended and the production team left, she was not allowed to return to Cubilis.

Cubilis did not welcome individuals with such poor character,

Chapter 316 Inflict Further Pam

Moreover, since it was Jodie who had provoked the horse, causing Andrew's injury, they were not accountable, and Jodie would have to assume full responsibility.

This encompassed all subsequent medical and care expenses for Andrew, which Jodie would have to bear

Jodie was furious, as the outcome placed all the blame on her.

She was bound to face criticism from netizens once again.

Now, she experienced a sense of panic, as if her luck was about to wane and slip away.

Next on the agenda was the award ceremony and the distribution of prize money.

Once the prize money had been distributed, Simone proposed, "Let's go to the hospital and visit Andrew.

She wasn't concerned about Sembag No. 4.

Although he had sustained severe injuries and would undoubtedly require surgery, as well as several months of bed rest before being able to stand up, his life would not be in danger.

She wanted to visit Sc*mbag No. 4 after he had completed his surgery to disclose the truth about another matter and inflict further pain on him.

Chapter 317 No Compare, No Despair

Simone's suggestion to visit Andrew surprised many people.

However, upon further consideration, they realized that Simone was truly a compassionate person.

On the contrary, just look at Jodie, who was filled with resentment. Has she ever considered going to the hospital to see Andrew, who protected her? No compare, no despair.

They wondered what Andrew would think if he found out.

His biological sister, who was hurt, still wanted to visit him. But the foster sister he just protected seemed to have forgotten about him.

Everyone else misunderstood except for Bailey, who looked at Simone meaningfully.

This girl is most likely up to no good.

Meanwhile, Zac's eyes revealed a hint of amusement. Simone is definitely going to strike a nerve.

Both of them knew that Simone wasn't genuinely concerned about Andrew.

Zac spoke up. "Although Andrew's personality is not very likable, we should indeed. him since he's injured like this."

go visit

He then looked at Jodie and asked, "Are you going too? I guess your dear brother probably doesn't want to see you right now."

After hearing that, Jodie's heart skipped a beat.

She had been so consumed by her grievances and anger that she had forgotten about going to the hospital.

Now that Simone brought it up, it was as if she was setting her up for more criticism.

This woman is truly cunning. And that b*stard Zac is definitely doing this on purpose.

If he hadn't initiated the conversation, maybe no one would have paid much attention to her.

But now, everyone was looking at Jodie.

Jodie displayed a worried expression and said, "Of course, I'll go too. I was actually thinking that after the event, I would talk to the director and ask them to take me to the hospital. But it's best that we all go together now."

She meant that she hadn't forgotten about visiting Andrew.

Just then, Leon walked over and happened to overhear her words.

With a rare hint of disgust, he looked at Jodie..

"Aaron was so anxious and followed the ambulance to the hospital with Andrew. You really think about the big picture, don't you? Andrew protected you, and you can still wait until the event is over to think about visiting him."

He had been shocked by Jodie's actions on the polo field earlier.

He never expected her to be so heartless and ruthless.

Mom must be blind to protect a woman like her. Doesn't this also mean that birds of a feather flock together? Is Mom also such a woman?

At the same time, he decided to learn from his sister and stay away from Melinda.

Leon's words completely shattered Jodie's facade.

Yes, if she was truly concerned about Andrew, she would have definitely followed the ambulance to the hospital.

Aaron's actions would come from a person who was genuinely worried about their loved ones.

But Jodie was still thinking about waiting until the event was over before going. It was clear that she didn't care about Andrew.

In the livestream, there was once again full-screen mockery and insults toward Jodie.

Andrew's fans even wanted to strangle Jodie.

Jodie's face stiffened, and she resentfully looked at Leon. "Is that so? I didn't know; otherwise, I would have definitely gone with Aaron."

She quickly changed the subject. "Let's hurry and leave."

Leon was becoming more and more outrageous. He deliberately came to expose her secrets.

How did I provoke them? Just because they regretted it and wanted to seek forgiveness from Simone, do they have to step on me?

The more she thought about it, the angrier she became, and her hatred toward Simone grew deeper

Chapter 317 No Compare. No Despair

The moment she returned, she wanted to take everything away from me. She snatched away my brothers one by one making them treat me coldly.

Even Leon, who used to take care of me so much, was taken away and started stepping on me. Simone shouldn't have come back. She shouldn't even be alive.

She clenched her hand tightly in her sleeve.

I can't let Simone, this disaster, continue to stay alive and harm me

Simone could sense the deep resentment and malice from Jodie. This woman will probably cause more trouble in the future. She became more cautious.

But this time, the backlash that followed would be enough for Jodie to enjoy

Simone spoke up. "Let's go to the hospital"

No one paid attention to Jodie's words

As soon as Simone spoke, everyone started moving

This made Jodie feel even more resentful and jealous. These people really treat me as nothing.

This is outrageous.

Jonah had already arranged the carriage. The guests boarded the carriage and would take a car to the hospital once they reached the outskirts of Cubilis.

At this moment. Andrew's condition had temporarily stabilized after being rescued.

He had been taken to the hospital and underwent a series of examinations.

While Andrew was being examined, Aaron watched the livestream with the phone given back to them by the director before getting in the car.

With such an incident happening, they needed to contact their family and handle various expenses, all of which required their phones.

Also, he wanted to see the aftermath and everyone's reactions.

Shortly after. Andrew finished the examination

His injuries were severe, and he needed to undergo surgery immediately.

As he was being wheeled into the operating room, Aaron was signing the consent form.

The livestream was still on, and as a result, both of them saw the scene that had just occurred.

Chapter 317 No Compare, No Despair

They heard what Simone and Jodie said.

Aaron looked conflicted. "I didn't expect Simone to be the first one to suggest visiting you."

He originally thought Jodie would pretend to be anxious and suggest visiting Andrew first.

Who knew that Jodie didn't care about Andrew at all and even dared to wait until the event was over?

Andrew felt even more hurt. He didn't expect it to be like this..

The more he compared, the more it hurt, making him regret and sad.

"I've experienced her heartlessness once again."

He closed his eyes and said, "I don't want to see her."

Then, he was pushed into the operating room.

When Simone and the others arrived at the hospital, Andrew was still in the operating room.

They saw Aaron sitting at the door, lost in thought.

Upon seeing them, Aaron forced a smile. "You're here."

Jodie spoke first with a concerned look. "Aaron, how is Andrew now?"

Aaron looked at her expression, and it seemed like she genuinely cared about Andrew. She's acting so convincingly.

But he didn't believe it. What took her so long?

The smile instantly vanished from his face, and he said coldly, "Thanks to you, he's still alive."

Jodie choked, staring at Aaron in disbelief.

Clearly, she didn't expect him to utter such words.

What did he mean by 'Thanks to her?' It was so ironic.

Feeling unjust as usual, she cried. "Aaron, what do you mean by that? I was so worried about Andrew, hoping he would be okay; and you blame me?" Her tears used to be a weapon. Whenever she cried, her brothers would relent and console her.

But now, Aaron was no longer the kind-hearted brother he used to be,

Previously, when he witnessed her tears, he would feel remorseful and attempt to comfort her.

Now, Aaron simply felt irritated whenever Jodie started crying. It was so bothersome.

He wondered how they had tolerated it before. His expression darkened. “Andrew has appreciated your kindness. He thanked you. This is a hospital, and Andrew is still being treated. Your tearful appearance is so inauspicious.

“He hasn’t passed away yet. Anyone who doesn’t know would assume you’re here to mourn. If you want to cry, please leave this place. Andrew can’t bear your tears.”

The doctor had previously mentioned that Andrew’s injuries were severe, but his life was not in grave danger, which was why he made that statement.

After all, he wouldn’t die, so there was no genuine mourning.

But what he said was true. Jodie burst into tears as soon as she arrived. It was truly inauspicious.

Chapter 318 Stop Pretending

When Aaron made this statement, Jodie couldn’t believe it.

Even the others were taken aback.

It was the first time they had heard Aaron speak so harshly to his beloved sister.

But his words were true.

Had he finally seen through his kind sister’s true nature, so he became harsh?

Jodie, who was still crying in sadness, suddenly froze.

She couldn’t continue crying, nor could she stop.

She also started to resent Aaron. How could he mock me like this? Andrew treated me so well. Of course. I'm worried. But I know he won't die, so what difference does it make if I come to see him earlier or later?

She pressed her lips together and looked at Aaron, saying, "Aaron, I know you blame me. But I really wanted to do the vault with Andrew at that time. You misunderstood me.

"I was truly scared and guilty because I was the one who caused Andrew's injury. If you want to blame me, I accept it. I just want to wait here until Andrew comes out."

She said firmly, "I can only let go of my worries when I see him come out unscathed."

Her words seemed very heartfelt, but no one present believed her.

Aaron smirked. "How could Andrew come out unscathed when he's so badly injured? I don't know if you're too naive or if you simply don't care about him. What's the point of saying all this? When you threw him out to protect you, I didn't see you worry like this."

He took a deep breath. "Jodie, don't treat us like fools. Your actions have shown us that we have loved an ungrateful thing for so many years. You're just a snake to us now. We really can't afford to provoke you.

"We're afraid of you, so we want to keep our distance. Can't you understand that? If it were someone else who did what you did before, they wouldn't have the audacity to come here and pretend to be worried. Only you, a heartless and ungrateful person, would have the audacity to continue pretending.

This time, Andrew not only suffered physical injuries, but you also hurt him emotionally. He won't trust you anymore, so don't try to deceive him. He said he didn't want to see you before going into the operating room, so just leave."

Chapter 318 Stop Pretending

Aaron spoke his mind, feeling relieved and refreshed.

He had been holding in his anger for so long.

Seeing Jodie still pretending, he couldn't bear it anymore. How could there be such a shameless person?

Hearing Aaron's sarcasm, Titus and Luca, who were watching the livestream, felt satisfied.

Among their brothers, Aaron had always been the most gentle and rarely got angry or made sarcastic remarks.

They had to admit that Aaron had also expressed their thoughts, as they also wanted to curse Jodie like this.

They felt like begging her to stop pretending to cry like this.

Did she really think tears could always be used as a weapon against them? They were not that foolish.

And looking at her crying like this, they felt disgusted.

Andrew hadn't even died yet, and she was crying. It was really inauspicious. Was she hoping for Andrew to die quickly?

In the hospital, Jodie was being scolded by her beloved brother for the first time.

She widened her eyes, truly unable to accept it, and looked at Aaron in disbelief.

"Aaron, how could you say that about me? I've been your sister since we were little! I feel sad about what happened to Andrew, too. How could you say such things about me?"

In front of so many people and the live-stream audience, Aaron actually called her heartless and ungrateful.

He said he didn't want to provoke her anymore and just wanted to stay away from her.

Jodie was truly panicked at this moment, feeling her brothers were completely out of her control.

How could this be? She regretted even more that she had acted too quickly before. She should have waited for Andrew to protect her.

That way, they wouldn't be able to blame her like this.

Upon hearing Jodie's words, Aaron first looked cautiously at Sinione, who had a calm expression.

Then he said to Jodie, "It's precisely because you grew up with us that we love you even more than our own sister. And it's because of your insinuations, provocations, and manipulation. that our sister's relationship with us has been severed.

"But how have you treated us in return? Every time, you show concern with your words, but you never take any action. Every time something happens, you're innocent, and we are the ones who have to take the blame.

"And you even threw Andrew out to protect you. After going through so much, we have seen your true colors. So, stop pretending. Everyone knows who you really are."

He looked at the people around him and said, "You can ask anyone here. Who doesn't know what kind of person you are?"

Zac chimed in. "We do know; that's why we always keep our distance from your dear sister. Otherwise, we would be the unlucky ones."

He knew best how to use cutting words.

Tina looked at Jodie with a hint of fear. "She's truly malicious and terrifying. She intentionally caused me to fall off the horse before. If it weren't for Simone saving me, I would be in the operating room right now. Jodie, you're like a poisonous flower. Everyone knows it, so there's no need for you to pretend anymore."

Zac agreed. "You always act like this. Even if you're not tired of acting, everyone is fed up with it. It's not just us. Even the viewers in the livestream know what kind of person you are. Your innocent persona has completely collapsed. You're probably being criticized and trending right now. Why don't you just show your true colors and do whatever makes you happy?"

Jodie was rendered speechless. She wanted to silence these two people.

She also knew that she didn't have a good reputation now. So, she decided to fully embrace the dark and rebellious route since she couldn't clear her name.

She glared at Zac and Tina and sneered. "You two are always targeting and isolating me because of Simone. Say whatever you want. I'll wait here for Andrew to come out so I can feel at ease.

Simone rolled her eyes in disbelief. "Are you crazy? How does this have anything to do with me:*

Zac was also feeling frustrated. "What does this have to do with Simone? Isn't it because of your personality that everyone dislikes you? You participate in a variety show but put on a facade. Who enjoys that?

Haven't you heard Jonah say that this variety show is supposed to be genuine? Among all the guests, you're the most insincere and artificial. It's only natural that everyone rejects and dislikes you. Don't you think you should reflect on yourself?"

Even Keira couldn't hold back this time. "Exactly. Why do we not reject Tina and others but keep our distance from you? That's because you're too pretentious and too fake, and you have too many hidden motives. We simply can't like you."

Chapter 319 Would They Handle This Matter?

Leon felt as though he was meeting Jodie for the first time.

What's going on with her way of thinking? He frowned and asked, "What does Simone have to do with any of this? Why are you involving her? For over a decade, you took on the role of the Gray Family heiress and used various schemes to drive her away.

"And that's not enough. Do you still want to keep tabs on her? Also, in these three episodes of the variety show, it was always you who provoked Simone first, and then she fought back. You're truly a double standard. Just good at blaming others."

How did he ever think that Jodie was a good person just because his mother said so? He had to admit that, just like the Gray Family brothers, they were all deceived by her acting, and their judgment was clouded.

Aaron also said coldly. "Jodie, this is a matter between you and our brothers. Why do you have to involve Simone again? We have already hurt her for you. Don't you think that's enough? And do you really think we are fools? After being provoked by you so many times, do you think we will still believe you?"

Disappointment and coldness filled his eyes. "I never expected that the sister I loved for over a decade would have such an ugly side."

Impatiently, he asked again, "Can you stop causing trouble?"

Jodie's expression changed when faced with accusations from so many people.

What she found most difficult to accept was that Leon and Aaron, who used to stand by her side, were now all accusing her and siding with Simone.

She only said one thing about Simone, but they mocked and scolded her so much to protect Simone. It was really enough.

Especially that sentence, 'Can you stop causing trouble?' It used to be directed at Simone.

But now, they were all directing it at her, making her feel hurt and unfairly treated, wanting to cry out in frustration.

She couldn't hold back and shouted, "A-All of you are bullying me. You're all too much!"

Just then, a nurse came out with a cold face and said, ‘Please don’t make noise outside the operating room. Be quiet!’

After she finished speaking, everyone looked at Jodie with disapproval and disgust.

Aaron said with a dark face, “Are you not satisfied with how badly Andrew is already hurt? Do you want to shout and distract the doctor to make him suffer even more? Either shut up or leave immediately.”

He also realized that Jodie wouldn’t leave. She was shameless.

He could only make her shut up.

He guessed that at this moment, Jodie might still be hoping that Andrew would be fooled by her and forgive her.

Since that was the case, let her wait for Andrew’s response.

Jodie was furious, but she also knew that she had to endure it.

She had to wait for Andrew to come out, explain to him, and coax him. If she just left like this, she might really lose Andrew, who truly loved her.

So, she walked to a nearby spot and sat down, looking pitiful and lonely, as she sobbed quietly.

If it were in the past, the Gray brothers would have felt sorry for her.

But now, whether it was Aaron on the scene or Titus and Luca watching the live stream, they all had the feeling of wanting to throw her out.

Zac listened to Jodie’s sobbing and felt disgusted.

He looked at Jodie with disdain and said, "Are your tears an endless ocean? You've been crying since the first episode. It's time to stop. Even if you keep crying, your beloved Aaron won't pay attention to you, so why bother? If you want to cry, save it for when Andrew comes out. Let's see if he will still be moved by your tears."

This time, Aaron agreed. "Yes, I'm annoyed and disgusted watching you cry. You better save your tears for when Andrew comes out. No one is watching now, so no matter how much you cry, it's useless."

The sarcastic remarks from the two of them made Jodie unable to continue crying.

How could there be such heartless men? Don't they know how to cherish a delicate and beautiful romant

Jodie knew she couldn't argue with them, so she bit her lip and stopped herself from crying

This also made the people present feel a sense of relief.

Viewers in the livestream chat were also speechless, and the insults continued to circulate.

After waiting for some time, the lights in the operating room went out, and Andrew was pushed out.

Aaron quickly walked up and asked the doctor, "Doctor, how's my brother?"

The doctor replied. "His injuries are severe. His scapula is shattered, and the ribs on his back. are broken. The surgery was successful, but he will have to stay in bed for at least three to four months before he can get up and walk. And he can no longer engage in strenuous physical activities in the future.

He emphasized. "During these six months, he must take good care of himself. Otherwise, if he gets injured again, he may have to use a wheelchair in the future."

Aaron breathed a sigh of relief as long as the surgery was successful.

"Okay, thank you, doctor."

The group followed and went to the ward.

After a while, Andrew woke up.

There was still anesthesia in effect, so he only felt that his body was stiff and numb without feeling any pain.

As soon as he opened his eyes, he saw Jodie, with swollen eyes, rushing to his bedside.

Her eyes and face were full of concern. "Andrew, you're fine. That's great. I was so worried."

Andrew felt disgusted when he saw her crying face. "I'm almost in a wheelchair, and you're saying I'm fine? What's wrong with you? And I'm not dead yet. If you cry like this, those who don't know the situation might think you were mourning for me."

Jodie's worried face froze.

Zac couldn't help but chuckle. "You're brothers, indeed. You can even say the same things."

Aaron added, "That's right."

Andrew looked at Aaron and said, "Didn't I say I didn't want to see her?"

Aaron shrugged. "She insisted on staying, saying she was too worried about you. She wouldn't be at ease until she saw you come out unscathed. I can't just throw her out, right? This is a Hospital. It's too uncivilized to do that."

When they doted on Jodie, they treated her like a treasure.

But once they grew tired of her, they could say anything.

Jodie didn't expect Aaron to become more heartless.

She decided that the next time she needed luck, she would find him.

She glanced at Andrew and said, "Andrew, I'm really concerned about you. Earlier, 1—")

But Andrew didn't want to hear it. "Enough. Don't explain anymore. It's unnecessary."

Jodie bit her lip and said, "I just don't want you to misunderstand. I hope you'll be fine. I also want to make amends for the accident I caused by trying to be clever."

This meant that she didn't intend to drag him on purpose.

After a moment of thought, she said, "I won't participate in the variety show anymore. I'll stay in the hospital to take care of you."

In the upcoming variety show, she would undoubtedly face rejection and ridicule from all the guests.

There would surely be a lot of online criticism, and this time, she wouldn't be able to clear her name.

So, it was better not to continue participating and stay in the hospital to take care of Andrew, hoping to win him back.

Just then, Simone interrupted, "Are you planning to stay in the hospital to take care of him, or do you want to continue taking his luck?"

She looked sympathetically at the pitiful Andrew and said, "He's already so unlucky, in such a miserable state, and you still want to exploit him?"

Since Jodie willingly handed over leverage, she might as well expose the truth.

Those who didn't know would think she couldn't bear to see Andrew in such a sorry state, and that was why she reminded them.

In reality, she just wanted to hurt Andrew even more.

This also put an end to Jodie's hope of exploiting his luck.

It also served as a warning to the other sc mbags to be careful not to accept anything from Jodie lest they lose their luck.

Because Jodie's constantly replenishing luck was not a good thing for Simone.

Of course, besides this, she also wanted to put pressure on the person behind Jodie.

Since Simone exposed Jodie for transporting luck, would the geomancy association handle this matter?

When Simone made this statement, all eyes turned to her, and Jodie felt a pang in her heart. Does Simone know about the pendant? That's impossible. Composing herself, she looked at Simone and uttered in confusion. "I don't know what you're talking about. I just wanted to take care of Andrew in the hospital and be there for him. Why are you interfering? It has nothing to do with you, right?" The implication was for Simone to mind her own business.

Simone raised an eyebrow. "Are you getting anxious? Afraid that your misdeeds will be exposed?"

Jodie clenched her teeth. "I haven't done anything wrong. Don't accuse me."

Andrew had a bad feeling and couldn't help but ask, explain it clearly?"

Simone, what do you mean? Can you

Simone shifted her gaze to him. "Haven't you noticed that the beads on the bracelet you're wearing are almost all shattered?"

Andrew hadn't noticed the issue with the bracelet. As he couldn't raise his hand now, he said. to Aaron, "Take a look at the bracelet I'm wearing."

the

Aaron stepped forward and reached out to take the bracelet he was wearing. Unexpectedly, as soon as he took it off his hand, the beads on the bracelet shattered one by one and fell to the ground. Aaron was a bit confused. "What's going on?" Wasn't this a mystical tool? How did it break?

Jodie panicked more and more when she saw this because she didn't expect that the bracelet Andrew was wearing would actually break. This could be caused by the previous suppression of bad luck.

She quickly changed her mind and immediately looked at Simone. "Simone, did you do this? You're so heartless! Even if Andrew wasn't as good to you as he was to me before, you shouldn't harm him like this. Now that he doesn't have this bracelet to suppress the bad luck, what is he going to do in the future? He's still injured." She pointed to the door. "Leave, you're not welcome here."

She just hoped that Simone and the others would leave quickly, so she took the initiative.

Simone could see her nervousness, fear, and guilt, so she sneered. "Playing the blame game again. Haven't you learned anything?" She looked at Andrew and asked, "Do you believe her? Do you think I tampered with your bracelet?"

This time, Andrew wasn't foolish. He decisively said, "I don't believe it. I know your personality. If you wanted to deal with me, you would come directly. There's no need to resort to such tricks. He also realized that Jodie was putting on a show of force, as if she wanted to quickly drive Simone away, showing that she was feeling guilty.

So, what did she do that was harmful to me? He was eager to know. "Simone, why did this bracelet break? Please tell me."

Simone replied. "Because it was overloaded with suppressing your bad luck, and after the energy of bringing good luck on it was depleted, it naturally broke." She asked again, "Didn't you notice that you started having bad luck again after arriving at the polo field?"

Andrew thought for a moment. "Indeed, especially after the match started, I felt something was off." He slipped and fell, getting injured with every collision. He hadn't thought much about it before, but now, upon careful consideration, it was just like when he started having bad luck in Cebros.

His heart tightened. "What's going on? Did Jodie absorb my luck again?"

Jodie's face changed upon hearing this, and she immediately retorted, "I didn't." She looked at Andrew pleadingly. "Andrew, please don't listen to Simone's nonsense. She's deliberately trying to drive a wedge between us."

Andrew was already heartbroken by her at this point, and he also wanted to know what wicked things she had done to him. With a cold face, he snapped, "Shut up. I only want to hear Simone speak now. If you're going to continue like this, you can leave."

Jodie panicked even more and tried to reach out to grab his hand. "Andrew, I-

But before she could reach him, she was blocked by Aaron, who grabbed her arm and pulled her back a distance. His patience was running out. "Jodie Gray, stop causing trouble, or else you can leave. The doctor just said that Andrew can't endure any more movements. Otherwise, it will worsen his injuries, but you rushed over to grab him like this. Are you not satisfied with how miserable he already is?"

Jodie was just accustomed to making intimate gestures to maintain their relationship and didn't consider whether this would affect Andrew's injuries.

She shook her head while crying, "I-I didn't! I just don't want Andrew to misunderstand me."

Aaron frowned. "Whether there is a misunderstanding or not, we'll find out soon enough. Your eagerness to stop this is a sign of guilt, isn't it?"

Jodie wanted to say more, but Andrew interrupted, "Don't speak for now; let Simone continue. He turned to Simone again. "Please continue."

Simone smiled. "It seems like you've finally smartened up this time."

Speechless, Andrew thought that her words implied that he had been foolish before. This statement also made him realize something. “Are you saying that after going to the polo field.

Jodie absorbed my luck again, and she’s still borrowing the luck that I lent her before?”

Simone answered. “She was done borrowing the previous luck, but after going to the polo field, it was forcibly taken.” She pointed her finger at the necklace hanging around his neck, which was now exposed. “Did she deliberately give you this necklace before going to the polo field?”

As soon as these words came out, Andrew and Jodie’s faces changed. With widened his eyes, he asked. “Is this thing sucking my luck?”

Simone retorted, “What else could it be? You don’t think it’s something good, do you?”

Andrew was initially stunned. Then, he mumbled, “When she gave it to me, she said it was a protective talisman, saying that she didn’t want anything bad to happen to me at the field, so she insisted on giving it to me to wear.”

Simone sniggered, “Only you would believe that. Among you brothers, you are the most gullible.” She looked at Aaron and asked, “If it were you, would you believe it?”

Aaron shook his head. “Definitely not.” He glared at Andrew, his expression filled with anger. “Andrew, why can’t you have a better memory? She has used these things to harm you. multiple times, and yet, you still believe her. You just accept it when she gives it to you. Of course, you suffer from bad luck.”

He wondered why Andrew had been experiencing a string of misfortune since entering the polo field. It turned out that Jodie was once again the culprit. From that moment on, they became more cautious and vowed never to accept anything from Jodie in the future. Titus and Luca, who were watching the live broadcast, shared the same sentiment.

Andrew wore a look of despair on his face. "How could I have known that she would be so cruel to me?" Now, he realized how foolish he had been actually to believe her words and thought it was a protective talisman.

He stared at Jodie, suppressing his fury. "No wonder I told you to wear this necklace as a protective talisman, and you became angry with me, insisting that it was for my own good. So, you wanted to continue draining my luck and making me even more unlucky and miserable. Jodie Gray, I willingly gave you so much of my luck. I accepted that, but why did you still want to harm me, taking advantage of me whenever you could? You won't be satisfied until you kill me, will you?" This was the heart of the sister he had loved for over a decade-so cruel!
