

Chapter 843 The Hero

Liam and Asher wandered around the zoo until it was closing time.

Asher was thrilled to be there as he was obsessed with the animals. But that wasn't the only reason Liam was spending all day at the zoo. He was reluctant to face Julie after what happened in the day.

The sky was darkening, and Asher was sweaty and tired. But Liam's bad mood still hadn't lifted.

In the last five years, Julie had changed a lot.

Of course, so had Liam. But what upset him the most was that their relationship had become strained. The way they treated each other had changed too.

Liam was not an unreasonable person. He knew that their quarrel today was just a small one, and he could understand Julie's point of view. After all, she did not know his true identity.

But the fact of the matter was that there was a chasm between Julie and him, and it wasn't going anywhere until the two of them got absolutely honest with each other.

With these thoughts still swirling around in his mind,

Liam left the zoo with Asher in his arms. The zoo was located deep in a forest, and he had to go down the mountain to get a taxi.

When he reached halfway, he found that the road ahead had been blocked by several minibuses.

A crew of leering gangsters were in front of the minibuses. They were circling a frightened girl.

Liam had met the girl earlier in the zoo and knew that her name was Ruth. She was one of the night managers at the zoo and they had bumped into each other several times through the day.

Liam didn't want to meddle in others' business. But just as he was about to leave, Asher jumped out of his arms and ran over calling out Ruth's name.

Liam rushed forward to hold Asher back.

Asher raised his head and said anxiously, "Dad, it's Ruth!"

Seeing the worried look on his son's face, Liam hesitated for a moment. Eventually, he sighed, picked up Asher, and walked towards Ruth.

Ruth, who was surrounded by the hooligans, heard someone calling her name. She was relieved at first, thinking that someone had come to save her, but when she saw it was Asher, she panicked.

"It's dangerous here. Don't come over. Run!" she yelled.

One of the thugs surrounding Ruth couldn't help but mock her, "Yo Ruth, why do you care so much about this child? Is he your bastard?"

Liam's expression darkened as he approached.

"Watch your mouth! You'd better fall at her feet to beg for forgiveness and then get out of here!" he warned.

Hearing this, the gangsters looked at each other and burst out laughing.

The leader of the gang jeered, "Who the hell are you? I have never seen such a show-off before."

"I've already given you a chance to save yourself. I'm counting to ten now. If you don't do as I said, today will be your last day on Earth!" Liam snarled.

"You arrogant son of a bitch! Let me see how powerful you are!" the head of the gang cursed as he moved menacingly towards Liam with a stick.

Liam's narrowed his eyes. He raised his foot and with one swift kick, the thug flew several meters away and crashed into a tree before slumping to the ground.

He just laid there, unable to breathe properly, let alone muster the strength to get back up. Seeing this, the rest of the gangsters were petrified.

Liam glanced at his leg and shook his head. "I have been so out of practice that I don't know how to control my strength," he remarked sarcastically.

Meanwhile, the rest of the gang members had come to their senses. They picked up their weapons and got ready to face their formidable enemy.

"Who the hell are you? How dare you meddle with the Wolf Gang?"

"You want to be a hero? This is the girl our master likes. If you are sensible, leave her and get out of here!"

Pointing to their leader on the ground, Liam retorted, "Like I said, I will count to ten. If you don't run, you will end up like him!"