

Chapter 866 Self-Mockery

When Liam appeared, Yesenia and her family immediately launched into berating him. But seeing Asher had changed into his miniature suit, they understood what Liam had done.

Yet, Yesenia remained adamant, questioning Liam, "You claimed you were ready. So, where's the party? Don't make the child feel embarrassed because of you!"

Seizing the moment, Baxter swiftly appeased her, saying, "Yesenia, don't worry. I've laid out a preliminary plan. My close friend owns a top-tier restaurant, a perfect venue for us to hold the birthday party."

Yesenia promptly agreed to this proposal. She agreed, "Baxter, your foresight astounds."

Then, she shot Liam a disdainful glance, coldly remarking, "Just don't complicate this. Follow Baxter's lead to his friend's restaurant. Let's not risk any embarrassment!"

Although Julie remained silent, her favor towards Baxter's arrangement was apparent from her expression.

Observing this, Liam shook his head resolutely, smiling. "I've made arrangements already. Asher is my son. I'd never let him face embarrassment."

At that moment, Asher stood by Liam, pleading, "I want to go where Daddy planned. Grandma, Mommy, preliminary plan. My close friend owns a top-tier restaurant, a perfect venue for us to hold the birthday party."

Yesenia promptly agreed to this proposal. She agreed, "Baxter, your foresight astounds."

Then, she shot Liam a disdainful glance, coldly remarking, "Just don't complicate this. Follow Baxter's lead to his friend's restaurant. Let's not risk any embarrassment!"

Although Julie remained silent, her favor towards Baxter's arrangement was apparent from her expression.

Observing this, Liam shook his head resolutely, smiling. "I've made arrangements already. Asher is my son. I'd never let him face embarrassment."

At that moment, Asher stood by Liam, pleading, "I want to go where Daddy planned. Grandma, Mommy, please! Let's hurry. Daddy promised us a feast!"

With Asher's decision made, Julie quickly walked to Liam.

While Yesenia continued her tirade, she reluctantly followed them.

The family settled into Julie's new SUV. Liam ignited the engine, the car inching forward. Yet, just as they approached the community gate, they were halted by a luxurious Bentley.

The Bentley's window glided down, revealing Doyle and Lori seated inside.

Lori greeted Julie and Liam with a sneer. "What a surprise! You're also going out. I assume you've made reservations?"

Doyle added, "I'm curious to see a birthday party that's a hundred times better than my daughter's."

Lori laughed openly in a sarcastic tone, saying, "Sweetie, no need to wonder. I checked. Not a single three-star restaurant in Salem has a reservation today. Let alone a four or five-star one. I think they settled for a fast-food joint to celebrate Asher's birthday."

Julie and Yesenia's expressions soured at the blatant mockery.

They hadn't held much hope for Liam's plans. Yet, being caught without a decent restaurant option in front of Doyle embarrassed them.

However, behind the wheel, Liam sneered, "Does a five-star restaurant automatically mean it's good quality? Your taste is questionable."

Lori immediately mocked in response, "That's funny. According to you, even a five-star hotel lacks class. So, pray tell, what place meets your standards? Dragon Manor is top-notch. Do you even have the money to book a place like that? Let me be crystal clear. We can't wait to watch you get embarrassed! I won't waste time with people of lower class like you. Darling, let's go!"

After that, Doyle pressed on the accelerator, and the Bentley swiftly exited the community, leaving Yesenia's family feeling utterly disheartened.

Baxter brimmed with resentment. Unable to contain himself, he vented to Liam, saying, "Liam, it's not that I want to blame you, but you shouldn't have made such grand claims. Now, you've let Doyle embarrass us like this. I used to have a good position in the company, and my uncle used to look out for me. Now, everything was worse."

Yesenia sided with Baxter. "I regret giving you a chance, Liam. I feel so humiliated today!"

Upon hearing this, Liam frowned and scolded

Chapter 866 Self-Mockery

 +120 Points at most impatiently, "Have you said enough? If you have, then please shut up. You'll understand everything once we reach the venue of the party."

