

Chapter 889 Panic Over Asher's Abduction.

Julie's heart raced as she laid eyes on the photo of Asher being tied up, a surge of panic overwhelming her.

A chill swept through her, draining the color from her face and leaving her pallid.

She desperately wanted to share the distressing message with Liam and seek his counsel, but she didn't dare to do it, held back by the ominous threat that disclosing the situation would cost her son's life.

With gritted teeth, she walked out of her room, her mind in a daze as she headed toward Von Merri Hotel.

However, shortly after her departure, a tall figure emerged near her house.

Carsen had received instructions from Liam and had been watching over Julie in secret.

Wearing a grave expression, Carsen felt something was amiss with Julie, causing his heart to tighten. Swiftly, he contacted Liam, relaying all the information he had gathered.

"Liam, Julie's behavior is concerning. She has left Nightingale Villa Area and appears to be headed Upon learning of Julie's anomaly from Carsen, Liam's concern heightened, murmuring, "Julie is behaving strangely? Could it be related to Asher's abduction?"

Thinking about this, Liam added anxiously, "Carsen, follow Julie closely. You can share your location with me in real time. I'll come over as quickly as I can!"

After ending the call, Liam looked pensive and troubled.

In Salem's monitoring center, Liam instructed a man, "Please check Julie's phone to see if she's received any messages!"

Liam started to suspect that Julie might be acting strangely because she was under a threat.

Indeed, once the man revealed the message from Julie's phone, Liam's expression turned instantly frigid.

The atmosphere in the monitoring center plummeted like an icy cellar, sending shivers down the spines of all the staff present.

A torrent of fury swept through Liam.

"How dare they target my family! They're playing with fire! I'll make them pay!"

Liam asked the monitoring department staff to persist in their investigation for valuable leads. Meanwhile, he mobilized a proficient SWAT team and swiftly departed from the monitoring center.

While on the way, Liam messaged Bowen, instructing him to block all roads in Salem. Bowen was tasked with deploying soldiers, even on rural routes, to ensure thorough protection.

Nobody was permitted to depart from Salem under any circumstances.

Thirty minutes later, Julie arrived at the Von Merri Hotel.

She stood at the entrance of Von Merri Hotel, her face contorted in disgust.

Thinking of the disturbing message she had received, she felt the urge to turn away and leave.

Yet, Julie understood that if she didn't proceed, Asher would remain in the clutches of the other party.

After a moment of contemplation, Julie bit her lips and finally entered the hotel, making her way to the door of room 808.

When Julie knocked, the door was quickly opened by someone.

Cowan stood poised behind the door.

Julie was taken aback to see Cowan. Fuming, she questioned him, "Cowan, why would you do this? Tell me, why?"

Cowan laughed as he replied, "Julie, it's a shame your useless husband ruined our last meeting! Let me be clear! I've desired you for a while now. Luckily, it's not too late. You're still mine to play with!"

Upon hearing this, Julie's emotions overwhelmed her, prompting her to slap Cowan.

With a resounding bang, she landed a heavy slap on Cowan's cheek.

Julie's gaze turned icy as she remarked in a hoarse voice, "Cowan, where's Asher? Tell me, now!"

Despite being slapped by Julie, Cowan didn't get upset. Instead, he wore a lewd grin.

Observing the worn-out appearance of Julie, Cowan said, "Julie, you didn't heed my warning. Since you won't comply, I won't reveal where Asher is. You have to cooperate with me, Julie. If you even think to resist, Asher will pay dearly!"

Julie trembled, tears welling in her eyes, and yelled angrily, "Cowan, how could you do this? You're so heartless!"

Cowan smirked disdainfully. "Julie, I've taken Asher captive. Imagine what else I might dare to do next. Now, sleep with me and serve me. I might tell you Asher's whereabouts after I'm satisfied."
