

Chapter 9 Diana's Pov "For sure it's your decision to make. But there is one thing I'm afraid you can't refuse." Marc said behind me. "What is it?" "Mr. Reed is back. He is at the institute now. He wants to see you." William Reed, the younger brother of Professor Penny. Unlike Prof Penny who chose medicine, he is a businessman. The institute was his investment as a gift to Penny. After she passed away, Mr. Reed kept this place for her students to continue their research on difficult medical cases. If he wants to see me, I really can't refuse. "I'll go tomorrow." Early the next morning, I went to the institute accompanied by Victor. Just as William and I were chatting happily, his assistant entered the office. "Mr. Reed, Alpha Nathan just came to the institute and said he wants to visit you." "Wasn't he coming here tomorrow? Why did he suddenly arrive early?" William asked. Victor and I looked at each other, and we both had guesses in our hearts. The reason why Nathan wanted to visit William must be because he knew about the relationship between him and the Healer. He said it was a visit, but actually, he wanted to get in touch with me. As for him coming a day early, he obviously got the news that the Healer would come to the institute today. "Mr. Reed?" the assistant asked. a William thought for a moment and then said, "He is the Alpha of the Dark Moon Pack after all. Let's not let him down. Go and invite him in." "Wait a minute," I called to the assistant who turned to leave. William looked at me, "What's wrong?" "William, do you remember that I told you three years ago that I found my mate?" "Of course, I remember. Speaking of which, I haven't met him yet." William looked at me with a smile, "He is Alpha Nathan, but he cheated on me repeatedly and I broke my mate bond with him a year ago."/ I told William what happened between me and Nathan, and he was angry about what Nathan did to me. "Mr. Reed, should I...?" the assistant asked, observing William's face. "Damn it! Get that bastard out of here, he dares to bully Diana! He's lucky enough Chapter 10 Diana's Pov I hit the brakes. "How many did you say?" "100 million." Victor turned his phone over, and there was a screenshot of the chat between Marc and Nathan. I was shocked. Nathan was actually willing to spend so much money on that woman. "It seems that that woman is very important to Alpha Nathan." Victor sighed, "What you think? Reject him?" do I thought about it silently for a moment. "No, I might as well take it. "This is not your style. I thought you didn't want anything to do with Nathan." "I don't, but this is 100 million. He is willing to pay such an amount, why would I say no to big money? What's more, I lived basically in hell as his Luna for two years and took care of Pack affairs for him. It's time for him to make some repayments. Tell Marc I take this case. And let him tell Nathan to transfer the 100 million deposit to Marc's account as soon as possible." Victor was about to send a message when he suddenly looked up at me. "Deposit?" "Yes." I narrowed my eyes slightly, "The deposit is 100 million, and after I cured that woman, I will ask him to get an additional 200 as compensation." Since Nathan is so willing to add to the number for that woman, I should take this free money. Or I'd be letting Nathan down not reacting to Nathan's deep love towards that woman. "In addition," I added, "I must abide by the rules of my medical treatment. No other people can be present during my treatment, and all surveillance in my path must be turned off. I don't want anyone to know my identity." "Definitely." Victor relayed my request to Marc. After sending the message/he asked, "Do you think Nathan would be willing to pay that much money? Even if he is a fool, he should be able to sense that you are deliberately making things difficult for him." I shook my head. In fact, I don't know what Nathan would do either. To be honest, I'm quite curious as to how far Nathan can compromise for that woman. About five minutes later, the phone buzzed. Marc sent a new message. "Nathan agreed to all your conditions." Victor's eyes flashed with shock, "Oh, and Nathan wants your contact information so that he can more easily understand the progress of the treatment." I suddenly felt a little upset. I should hire an assistant to sign cases and talk to clients for me. To be honest, I really don't want to have any interaction with Nathan. "Let's go buy a burner phone. And Marc can send the new number to Nathan." Victor gave me an "okay" gesture. In the evening, Marc told me the deal was set. As soon as I turned on my new phone, I received a message from Nathan. It is the address of a hospital and the time for consultation. As early as two years ago, I already knew the specific location of that hospital. At the border junction of Blade Moon Pack and Dark Moon Pack I once had a strong curiosity toward that woman that Nathan protected like a treasure in the hospital, so I once wanted to go into the hospital to find out. But Nathan set up layers of bodyguards to prevent anyone from going in. Even if I revealed my identity as Luna, those people would not allow me to step into the hospital. Afterward, Nathan became furious with me and sternly warned me to stay away from that hospital in the future and not to try to harm people in the hospital. I squeezed an ironic smile. I'm afraid Nathan never thought that one day he would actually spend a huge amount of money to beg me to go see her. 'I'm free next Wednesday.' Almost the second after I sent the message, Marc called me. "I just received the 100 million Nathan sent, and I'm transferring it to you." Lionel chuckled in the cradle. I patted Lionel gently. "Are you happy? My little millionaire, this 100 is just an appetizer. That guy will transfer another 200 to me/This is what he owes us." Lionel waved his hands excitedly. In the blink of an eye, Wednesday came. Victor accompanied me to the hospital agreed with Nathan. As I asked, Nathan stopped all surveillance along the way. Even so, I still put on a full disguise. In addition to wearing a blonde wig, hat, mask, and sunglasses, I also wore a business outfit that was completely inconsistent with my everyday style. This blazer just covers my true figure. I can guarantee that even if Marc stood in front of me, he might not be able to recognize me. The phone buzzed twice. It's news from Nathan. 'Are you there yet?' he asks. 'Yeah.' 'Then I'll leave Avia to you.' Nathan replied. I was stunned for a moment. Avia... I remembered that Nathan had called this name in his sleep. It turned out to be her. "Do you need me to accompany you up?" Victor's voice brought me back from my thoughts. "No. Just wait for me in the car. I'll be out in an hour at most." "You are so confident that you can cure her." Victor laughed. "It's not that I have confidence. It's that with my skills if I can't find the cause within an hour, she will probably be hopeless." I picked up the medical kit I had prepared in advance, walked into the hospital lobby, and went straight to the ward that Nathan assigned me. When I pushed open the door of the ward, I was really surprised. This is not so much a hospital room as a luxurious living room. The entrance is a living room of nearly 100 square meters. Sofas, dining tables, leather chairs, and other home furnishings are all available. You can even overlook the entire city through the floor-to-ceiling windows. I pushed open one of the doors and found a cloakroom inside. All kinds of clothes and bags are placed in the cabinet in an orderly manner, all of which are the latest styles of the season. Although the woman in the coma didn't need none of these, Nathan still prepared them, which shows his love for Avia. I was about to close the door when a few sets of clothes hanging in the corner caught my attention. Those were obviously men's pajamas and suits. So... Nathan stays here occasionally! I can't believe that Nathan, who might have dated and slept with countless women, would still have someone so special and precious deep in his heart. I shook my head and finally pushed open the bedroom door. A pale woman was lying on a large bed with soft silk sheets. I walked slowly to the bed. The next moment, my eyes widened. As I expected, Avia is indeed very beautiful. But...she looks very similar to Zoe! Or to be more precise, Zoe and the women who had been favored by Nathan looked very similar to this Avia! At this moment, I realized belatedly- Zoe turns out to be just Avia's substitute!