Newell was eager to open the door, but he was shocked to see Liam there.

Behind Liam, a whole crowd had gathered.

Realizing he was without clothes, Newell quickly backed away, scrambling to dress. Trying to act normal, he demanded, "Why are you here? What's this about? You just storm into my room without warning! Leave now! Or I'll call the police!"

Liam, noticing Newell's flustered state, got mad. He mocked, "Cut the act! We know all about your schemes with Baxter and Lenny!"

At this moment, Yesenia pushed through the crowd, angrily pointing at Newell. "Newell, you scum! How can you be so despicable? I can't believe I ever chose you. You bastard! You and Baxter need to get out of my family! Now that the Williams family has fallen, I want a divorce!"

Julie, normally calm, stepped up, her face filled with anger.

"Newell, how could you do this? You're married to my mom, and yet, you had the nerve to think about me! You deserve to die!" she shouted.

Liam watched Yesenia unleash her fury, muttering to himself, "If she only knew about Newell's AIDS, her reaction would be even more intense..."

He then instructed Carsen to bring Lenny and Baxter into the room and confronted Newell coldly, "Are you still trying to deny it, Newell?"

Seeing the two men tied up, Newell went pale, realizing his secrets were out.

He was shaking and at a loss for words.

But Liam didn't wait for his explanation. He turned to Julie and said, "Take Yesenia and go. I'll handle this."

Julie, recognizing the seriousness in Liam's tone, nodded and escorted Yesenia away.

Now, it was just Liam, Carsen, and the three cornered men in the room.

Following Liam's order, Carsen spiked the drink with more drug.

Newell, watching the unfolding events, felt a chill of fear. He glared and warned, "You... What are you doing? You know this is illegal, right?"

Liam replied with a cold laugh. "You were quite lustful, right? Well, now you'll get a taste of your own medicine, along with these two. You and these two are about to become famous in Salem. I've even called the TV reporters. Get ready for your big screen debut! Carsen, make them drink it."

At Liam's command, Carsen quickly stepped forward. He forced Newell, Baxter, and Lenny to drink the drugged water.

After that, Carsen removed their clothes, leaving them in the room, vulnerable and waiting for the drug's effect to kick in.
