

Chapter 962 A Powerful Woman

Carsen was in utter disbelief. He hadn't expected he would be powerless in front of this woman. He couldn't even fight back.

His eyes widened in disbelief.

After all, this was his first time meeting such a powerful opponent since he left Genesis Island.

Carsen understood that the woman in front of him must be very powerful.

But it was his responsibility to guard the venue of the business meeting. It was his duty to prevent others from making trouble in this place. At the thought of this, he asked in a deep voice, "Why did you break in here? What do you want?"

When the woman heard this, she raised her foot and stepped on Carsen's chest. The sole of her leather boot pressed hard, but her enchanting expression became even more obvious. She even teased, "Well, I'm just bored. So, I came out to find some men to serve me. You are not too strong, but you are still a second-level Primogem Warrior. So, I think you are a good choice. You're enough to play with me for a while. How does that sound? Do you agree to serve me?"

Carsen had never met such a wild woman. Suddenly, he was ashamed and angry at the same time. He couldn't even muster a reply.

When the woman saw his reaction, she felt bored. She snorted coldly and stopped teasing him.

She knew that Carsen was a Primogem Warrior and must have a high position here. He was naturally different from that guard she had knocked down with one move.

So, she dragged him and walked into the hall.

In the hall, the big shots and dignitaries were shocked to see Carsen being dragged by a woman.

What was more shocking was that the woman just threw him casually on the floor. Everyone immediately thought she must be powerful, so they all made way for her without making any noise.

The woman looked around and gave everyone an enchanting smile. She muttered to herself, "What a lively scene!"

Then, she walked towards Liam.

Liam watched the woman approach him with deep eyes. He frowned.

He could feel that the power of the woman in front of him was way stronger than Dotson's.

At the thought of this, Liam became vigilant.

He wondered if this woman was sent by Saint Society to take revenge.

However, before Liam could say anything, Mariana stood up from the crowd and scolded the woman.

"How dare you! Do you know that the man you hurt is my fiancé? Look at you. You can't even wear decent clothes. Are you a prostitute who came out to look for customers? Everyone here is from the upper class. No one will like such a cheap woman like you. How despicable! Get out of here!"

When the woman heard this, she turned and fixed her eyes on Mariana. Then, she smiled brightly.

However, what she did next was in total contrast with her expression.

A cold light flashed before everyone's eyes. It turned out that a dagger appeared in the woman's hand. And with a flick of her wrist, the dagger flew out of her hand.

The dagger swooshed in the air and was about to pierce Mariana's eye.

Mariana was just an ordinary person. There was no time for her to dodge. She could only stand there and watch the dagger fly towards her at an extremely fast speed.

However, something unexpected happened. When everyone thought the dagger would hit Mariana to make her pay for what she had said and done, a hand suddenly caught it.

Everyone turned their heads and stared at the owner of the hand with awe on their faces.

That person was Liam. He had saved Mariana without hesitation.

Liam held the dagger in his hand with a gloomy expression. He looked at the woman and said coldly, "I know Mariana shouldn't have said those words. But don't you think it's too cruel to kill her for it? She is just an ordinary person, and she is definitely no match for you. Do you really have to do that? Who the hell are you? And why are you here?"
