Many ministers were gathered here. All of them were officials of the third rank or higher in Florence's court, wielding significant power.

They all had one thing in common, which was overseeing the insect soldier experimental bases.

In other words, they gathered here with sinister intentions.

Outside the hotel entrance, Luna appeared boldly with the experts from the Shrouded Gate.

"Halt! Paramount Hotel has been reserved by the ministers today. Leave quickly if you're not involved. Otherwise, don't blame us for being impolite!" the guards at the door shouted as soon as Luna and her group arrived.

Boom!

Marcellus snorted coldly and struck with his palm.

His Martial Emperor inner energy surged up, and the guards were all sent flying in the blink of an eye, crashing into walls and door frames. They fell to the ground, moaning and groaning in pain.

Luna entered without changing her expression.

Upon arriving at the main hall, what greeted her was quite surprising.

Instead of showing panic or surprise at her sudden entrance, the ministers all had smirks on their faces. Their expressions were mocking as they sneered. It seemed they had been expecting her.

"You're finally here."

"I wondered who was scheming behind the scenes, and it turns out that it's you!"

"As expected of the Wolf King's woman. You have strength, tactics, and guts, but unfortunately, you've chosen the wrong opponent. You'll pay a heavy price today."

"Today marks the day of your death!"

"The Shrouded Gate? It turns out they're just a woman's plaything. We'll annihilate them!"

The ministers laughed coldly one after another. It seemed that they had set up a trap to lure out the true culprit behind Ryan's death and catch Luna!

As soon as they spoke, powerful auras appeared. They were the martial realm experts from the various families behind these ministers.

Some were spirited, some were proud, and some were imposing. They were all well-known names who united on this day to deal with the Shrouded Gate.

However, facing this situation, Luna showed no fear. Instead, her eyes

As her words fell, a chilling wind suddenly swept through the hall. It roared and raged, spreading violence and bloodthirst across the space.

At that moment, Luna held the Sanguis Blade, and her aura instantly soared. Her heart raced, and her hair fluttered.

She was like a bloodthirsty god awakened by the sacrifice of fresh blood, a demon king reveling in bloodshed, looking down on all living beings and despising the lowly ants.

Chapter 1202

“Insolence!”

“Outrageous!”

“Unbelievable!”

Luna’s imposing aura frightened the ministers, but not the numerous martial realm experts. They all shouted angrily.

“How dare a mere woman boast so much...”

Amidst the angry curses, an old man stepped forward, staring at Luna fearlessly. He said coldly, “Luna Crestfall, you’re arrogant and lawless, disregarding the rules and

He was an expert from the Swallow family and was well aware of Luna’s relationship with Andrius. Since he could not kill Andrius, killing his wife was a good consolation!

As he spoke, he glanced at the other people.

Swoosh!

Whoosh!

Figures approached one after another. They emanated their auras, solid and unyielding. All of them were Martial Kings. They surrounded Luna, showing clear intentions of attacking together.

However, Luna was not afraid at all. On the contrary, a faint smile appeared at the corners of her mouth. She looked disdainful. "Attack!"

Tegan and the others had already approached within a meter of Luna.

At the same time, the other four Martial Kings also made their moves.

Seeing this, Luna's eyes suddenly flashed with a bloody light. A scathing bloodlust was released, sharp like the blades of the winter wind blowing on their faces. Swish-

The next second, the five Martial Kings attacked from all directions, not giving Luna the opportunity to dodge.

The Sanguis Blade in Luna's hand instantly glinted, enveloping her in a red glow and painting the entire room with a blood-red light. The bloody aura was vivid, shining on their faces.

Asinister atmosphere overwhelmed their hearts.

Many ministers were secretly astonished, deeply shocked by Luna's strength.

In the blink of an eye, the five experts reached Luna.

At that moment, fierce winds roared, and inner energy surged continuously. They were unified and all aimed at the center, targeting Luna's vital points.

Wait!

However, a sudden flash of bloodlust appeared in Luna's eyes.

Crack...

A sharp sound was heard, and a piercing light emanated from the Sanguis Blade as it revealed itself for the first time. Its radiance was dazzling and unique.

The scene...

Chapter 1203

The scene left everyone in the hall dumbfounded.

Even the martial realm experts, who had called Luna arrogant, were now filled with fear, deeply shocked by her strength. She killed five Martial Kings in a single blow... Even experts in the later stages of the Martial Emperor realm might not be able to do that. Her strength was at least that of a Martial God!

“Get her!”

“Don't give her any openings!”

“She must die here today!”

“Kill, kill, kill-”

The remaining Martial Realm experts immediately reached a consensus and rushed forward.

A Martial God was indeed powerful. However, there were Martial Emperors among their ranks. With numbers on their side, they might have a chance!

“Heh...”

After killing five Martial Kings, Luna's aura became even more profound. It was like a towering mountain, and her killing intent was almost tangible!

Her eyes were filled with bloodlust, sweeping over everyone like lightning, without a trace of fear or hesitation.

“No matter how many ants there are, they're still ants...” Luna's lips curled up as she spoke coldly.

The iciness of her tone, made all the ministers in the hall shiver.

The martial realm experts also shuddered. They all displayed their ultimate skills, determined to deal a fatal blow to Luna and kill her here.

However, reality was cruel.

Swoosh...

Swish...

Whoosh...

In their eyes, the strange—looking dagger in Luna’s hand contained the power to destroy heaven and earth. Each swing seemed like the scythe of the Grim Reaper, harvesting lives one after another.

No one was her match, and no one could escape her dagger.

In less than three minutes, all the martial realm experts were dead. Although some tried to escape, no one survived her Sanguis Blade.

The spacious hall was flooded with blood and scattered bodies. There was no solemnity. It was simply a hellish scene.

In contrast, Luna was still elegant without a single drop of blood staining her. Her face was just slightly pale.

After killing numerous martial realm experts, the Sanguis Blade in her hand emitted an even more dazzling red light like a blood— colored sun.

Silence.

A dead silence enveloped the scene.

The ministers in the hall had already lost all their courage in the face of the murderous Luna. They all trembled in their respective positions.

Plop...

Finally, someone could not hold it anymore. Their legs went soft, and they knelt on the ground.

“No...”

“Don't, Ms. Crestfall...”

“Don't kill us. | beg you, don't kill me...”

“| don't want to die. | don't want to die...”

The ministers immediately turned pale, crawling toward Luna.

However, before they could reach her, the members of the Shrouded Gate who had dealt with the soldiers outside rushed in without hesitation to execute Luna's command.

With a swift motion, heads flew. At that point, all of the ministers and martial realm experts were killed. Not a single one was spared.

“Let's go.”

Luna waved casually and once again inscribed two blood-red words on the hall- Shrouded Gate. Then, she put on her mask and led the others to leave.

Swoosh...

Just as they reached the hotel's entrance, a group of people emerged.

The person in the lead had white eyebrows and beard and a gloomy face. It was the forebearer of the Swallow family, Duncan Swallow!

After Tegan was killed, someone called the Swallows for help, saying that the Shrouded Gate was abnormally powerful and that they were no match for them.

Thus, Duncan came. "You're the head of the Shrouded Gate?" Duncan saw Luna at the forefront with a mask and naturally thought that she was the leader. His eyes narrowed slightly.

Then, he glanced at the hall, and his expression abruptly changed. The bodies inside had already piled up like a small mountain. Blood flowed from the entrance, emitting a strong bloody aura.

"What a powerful killing intent..."

Even though Duncan had witnessed all kinds of scenes, he could not help but be shocked at this moment. A stern expression flashed across his face, and his voice suddenly became more intense.

"Shrouded Gate Master, you've massacred court ministers and caused chaos in Florence. You won't leave here safely today!" With that, Duncan soared into the air like an eagle, heading straight for Luna. Midway, his old and withered palm curled into sharp claws as he aimed at Luna's head.

Before he got close, his inner energy surged. The two trees near the hotel entrance immediately bent under the pressure. The fierce wind carried a chilling killing intent.

It was clear that Duncan was determined to kill the master of the Shrouded Gate. "Heh..."

Luna had just fought a major battle, but there was no trace of fear as she faced this veteran of the martial world.

That was because after absorbing enough blood, the power emanating from the Sanguis Blade was even more abundant, greatly increasing her strength and confidence!

With a light shout, she floated up like a fairy in the moonlight, elegantly hanging in the air. However, the light from the Sanguis Blade ruined the picturesque scene.

Chapter 1205 While the other experts were in shock, the two clashed again.

Duncan clapped his hands together, bringing up waves of inner energy like a great river surging or a towering mountain. The energy condensed into a visible dark

The Sanguis Blade in Luna's hands swung incessantly, stabbing, piercing, slicing, and cleaving. She displayed a variety of techniques that dazzled the eyes, accompanied by sharp and chilling flashes.

Boom!

After a fierce battle, the fight reached its climax. Duncan accumulated his strength and unleashed the Swallows' ultimate palm technique—Swallow's Iron Sand!

A mist of black energy enveloped his entire body.

Swoosh!

Luna's blood-red light surged, a ferocious aura filling the air and striking with a powerful blow.

Boom!

It was another earth—shattering collision.

Luna was thrown far away. Her palms were numb, and blood oozed from the corners of her mouth. However, she still firmly held onto the Sanguis Blade!

"Hrk..." Duncan also flew back, spitting out blood in mid-air.

"Master!"

"Forebearer!"

“Where do you think you're going...”

Seeing this, Norvin was just about to lead the pursuit, but Duncan stopped him. Don't go after them!”

Norvin did not understand, but he immediately stopped and looked at their forebearer.

“Hurry, take me back to recuperate. Quickly!”

While instructing, Duncan spat out another mouthful of black blood, contrasting starkly against the ground.

In their battle, Luna was seemingly injured by him, but in reality, he was at the end of his strength. If he did not recuperate in time, he might die on the spot.

Norvin saw how weak he was and did not dare to delay. He immediately took Duncan back to the Swallows' residence.

Inside an unnamed hotel.

After being brought back, Luna could not hold back anymore and vomited blood uncontrollably.

Duncan was a late-stage Martial God and even integrated poison into his palm strike. The strike not only displaced Luna's internal organs but also poisoned her. “Master, how are you feeling?”

With her strength, it would be extremely difficult to expel the poison and return to her peak condition.

Thus, he could only say, “Master, there might be someone who can heal you!” Luna immediately narrowed her eyes. “Who?”

Chapter 1206

“This person...” Marcellus' expression instantly became solemn at the mention of that person. His voice held a touch of reverence. “His medical arts have reached the realm of the mystics, and it's said he has mastered the secrets of life and death. He's known as 'Florence's God of Medicine!’”

The God of Medicine!

That title was indeed quite prestigious.

However, Luna was puzzled. She looked at Marcellus and asked suspiciously, "Shouldn't Florence's God of Medicine be my husband who won first place in the Grand Medicinal Competition not long ago? Although he gave the title up to me, it doesn't affect his true medical skills."

Marcellus chuckled at those words.

Then, he began to explain, "Master, you're being biased. In the secular world, the Wolf King's medical skills are indeed unparalleled. Few can compare with him.

"However, in the ancient martial world, there are many reclusive experts who are used to living freely and do not participate in worldly competition. They live on the wind and drink dew, overlooking the heavens and earth. On their respective paths, they are pure and shining.

"The 'God of Medicine' I'm talking about is a mystical figure with incredible medical skills!"

Luna became interested.

With the help of the Sanguis Blade, her strength in the ancient martial world had already reached the top. Even if she was not among the very best, it was still enough to dominate the scene.

However, when it came to hidden secrets and hidden information, she still lacked a lot.

Marcellus laughed. Then, he introduced, "True to his name, Adeptus Cirrus is like a wandering cloud in the world, leisurely and at ease, but has cultivated unparalleled

"That's not it." Luna sighed and said, "Now is a crucial moment for the plan. The ancient martial forces may counterattack at any time. I can't easily expose my identity. Otherwise, not only will all our efforts be in vain, but it'll also cause great trouble to my husband."

Marcellus saw how stubborn she was and stopped speaking.

After a short rest, Luna stabilized her injuries and quietly boarded a plane back to Sumeria.

To her surprise, Halle came to pick her up at the airport.

"Luna, how's the situation over there?" Halle asked excitedly.

Although Luna's tone was very calm, her words were chilling. "I've killed all the ministers who wanted to harm my husband."

Killed...

Halle suddenly felt a chill run down her spine.

Chapter 1207

At some point, her former best friend who used to share everything with her became so cold-blooded and ruthless.

Halle was shocked and at a loss.

“Ugh...”

Just then, Luna let out a muffled groan. She clutched her chest and hunched over, almost squatting on the ground. “Luna!”

Halle was stunned and rushed forward to support Luna. She felt Luna’s trembling body and realized that she was injured. Thus, she asked with concern, “You’re hurt. Do you want me to take you to the hospital?”

“No need!”

After adjusting her breath, Luna forcibly stood up and said indifferently, “I know my body. If even I can’t cure myself, then those mediocre doctors won’t be of any use.”

Then, she pushed Halle’s hand away and stood by herself.

Halle opened her mouth but did not know what to say.

While she hesitated, Luna left toward Dream’s Waterfront.

“Luna...”

Their roles had already undergone earth—shaking changes. She felt that Luna was getting farther and farther away, becoming increasingly unfamiliar. She could barely recognize Luna anymore.

In the ancient martial world, apart from the few old coots who refused to die, the leader of the Shrouded Gate stood at the top amongst them, overlooking all others.

“Captain Black, something major happened in Kiyoto today.” The Black Hawk was unsure whether the Shrouded Gate was friend or foe, so he

"Well..."

Andrius was not sure either. After all, there was too little information about the Shrouded Gate.

After thinking for a moment, he slowly said, "In any case, the Shrouded Gate taking action against those officials and attracting the attention of the ancient martial world is a big advantage for us. As for how to deal with it..."

"Don't worry about that first. Our top priority is still the medicinal herbs at tomorrow's auction."

Noir nodded.

The medicinal herbs were crucial for Andrius' recovery. Strength was the best assurance for everything!

The next day, Fierde Auction House held its annual treasure auction as scheduled. To avoid attracting attention Andrius, Noir, and Katalina all wore specially made masks that completely covered their facial features, making it impossible for anyone to recognize them.

By the time they arrived, the place was already crowded. The auction venue was large and capable of accommodating tens of thousands of people at once.

The venue was divided into two levels, with a high platform on the lower level towering in the center of the main building, brightly lit and splendid.

Many seats were scattered around, and guests from all over the world had already taken their seats. They whispered quietly or engaged in lively discussions, creating a bustling scene.

The second level consisted of luxurious rooms, and the threshold for one was in the hundreds of millions, making it impossible for ordinary people to afford.

“| didn’t even touch you, girly. Why are you making such a big fuss?” A fat man with a pot belly comparable to a pregnant woman at nine months narrowed his eyes at Katalina, drooling as he spoke.

Katalina was stunned by those words and could only glare at the man. She prepared to turn around and leave. “Hey, don’t go, pretty girl...” The fat man stepped forward to stop Katalina, a lewd

He slapped and punched the man. Noir used every non-fatal move he could think of on the fat man.

In less than thirty seconds, the fat man was bruised and battered, lying on the ground and gasping for breath.

Noir actually held back because he did not want to cause trouble for Andrius.

"I dare you to run your mouth again..." Noir stomped fiercely on the fat man's groin.

"Argh..."

A piercing scream echoed throughout the auction house.

Between the fat man's legs, red and yellow liquids mixed and flowed out slowly, quickly forming a large puddle. "Boss!"

"Boss, how are you?"

"Boss, are you okay? Do you need to go to the hospital?"

"Boss..."

The fat man's bodyguards finally reacted.

Some hurriedly helped him up, but because part of the fat man's balls were already stuck to the ground, pulling him up caused him to scream in pain. It was a blood-curdling shriek.

The other group headed straight for Noir.

"Damn you... How dare you attack our boss! You must be tired of living!"

"Let's get him together, boys!"

"Kill that Florencian!"

Five big and burly bodyguards with fierce expressions rushed forward, intending to teach Noir a lesson.

These people were typical Flandonians with very strong builds. As they charged, their momentum was overwhelming, and their killing intent was palpable.

However, Noir was not afraid at all.

Andrius was no different.

He did not need to use inner energy at all to deal with these small fry. With just his physical strength, he charged into the group of bodyguards like a tiger among sheep. He was unmatched and unstoppable.

informed Noir and Andrius.

Chapter 1210 The two nodded to indicate they understood.

“Mr. Fierde...” Noir stepped forward and explained the situation. “This fat man used vulgar language toward my companion and even tried to harass her. | just taught him a small lesson.” Fierde glanced at the fat man.

His pants were still bloody and soaked, and the ground was still wet. It seemed that not only were his jewels shattered, but the tool for the job was also broken. It would be impossible for him to get it up ever again. He would have to walk with his legs closed for the rest of his life. “Hmph...” The fat man regained some strength and glared at Noir resentfully, wheezing from the pain. “Mr. Fierde, I’m a Flandonian, but they’re just Florencians...”

His name was Hevel, a famous local tycoon in the capital of Flandom. Thus, he was used to getting whatever he wanted. In ordinary times, he did not respect Florencians, so he acted unscrupulously.

However...

"I don't care about that!" Before Hevel could finish, Fierde interrupted him indifferently, "Regardless of the reason, violence is prohibited on my turf. If you insist on settling scores, I can only ask you to leave!"

At those words, Andrius' group naturally fell silent.

After all, their most important goal was the medicinal herbs.

The three went back to their respective seats.

Hevel still looked displeased. He glared at Andrius and the others and limped away to his seat, planning to wait until the auction was over to settle their scores.

However...

"Wait. I didn't say you could leave." Fierde stepped forward to stop Hevel and said coldly, "You harassed a lady in my auction house and stirred up trouble. We no longer welcome you here. Please leave." Hevel's expression instantly changed.

However, he did not dare to fight Fierde. As the owner of Flandom's biggest and not afford to offend.

If he was pulled onto the blacklist...

That would be truly unfortunate.

Thus, Hevel once again shot a venomous glare at Andrius and the others and finally left reluctantly, preparing to go to the hospital to see if his family jewels could be saved. The more he thought about it, the angrier he got.

When he reached the entrance of the auction house, he could not stand it anymore

However, the next moment, he was dumbfounded.

Andrius seemed to have eyes on his back and suddenly reached out his right hand, pinching the silver needle between his index and middle fingers.

"Fuck! What the hell?" Hevel stood frozen to the spot, his eyes filled with disbelief.

Andrius did not care,

Since Hevel dared to attack him, he had to be taught a lesson!

Then, Andrius flicked his fingers, and the silver needle followed its original trajectory, heading straight for Hevel at a speed several times faster than before. Hevel saw the glint of light and was terrified.

This was no ordinary Florencian!

He instinctively fled in panic.
