

The Wolf's Bride by Coffee's Tea

Chapter 1392

Chapter 1392

"It's absolutely not your place to act arrogantly and domineering in Jurth!"

The words genuinely infuriated Jasper.

Just as he was about to retort

"You

A figure rushed over with an entourage of bodyguards. It was Justin.

"Jasper" Justin went straight to Jasper, shouting as he walked, "When are you going to help me get revenge? I can't wait any longer."

He arrived beside Jasper just as he finished speaking,

Then, he inadvertently glanced over and saw Andrius along with the beautiful Kate!

They were the man and woman from this morning!

After confirming their identities, Justin instantly became angry and pointed at Andrius. "It's them! They're the ones who beat me up this morning! You must help me get justice!"

Hearing this, Jasper's eyes looking at the two immediately turned cold.

The whole scene was shrouded in a chilling atmosphere.

However, Jasper simply glared fiercely at Andrius but did not give any orders. The hostility in his eyes kept flickering like a venomous snake choosing its prey, sticking out its forked tongue.

When Justin saw him remain silent, he said unhappily, "What are you waiting for? He hit me, which is the same as hitting you and the Conways! No matter who he is, even if he's the son of God Himself, he must pay the price today! I want everyone to know that we Conways aren't easily bullied!"

However, Jasper remained indifferent in the face of Justin's burning anger. He withdrew his gaze from Andrius' face, then instructed the people around him, "All of you, disperse. Don't gather here."

As he spoke, he led his people toward the private room.

Justin was stunned.

He was beaten, but his brother did nothing and even dispersed the crowd?

Chapter 1392

2/2

What kind of logic was that?

Justin could not hold back anymore and stepped forward. "Jasper! Why? Why aren't you....

Jasper had just been humiliated by Andrius and was already fuming inside. Now that Justin was croaking like a toad, he could not stand it anymore and directly interrupted him, "That's enough!"

He turned around to glance at Andrius and said solemnly, "Some things happened before you arrived. That person's identity isn't simple. I need to assess the situation and investigate thoroughly before deciding how to deal with him."

When Jasper saw that Justin was still unwilling to give up, he added, "Don't worry, bro. I won't let you be beaten for nothing. In the world, no one is able to bully the Conways in Jurith!"

With those words, Justin finally dropped the matter.

"Great! I'll be waiting. Jasper, after you beat him up later, remember to hand him over to me. I want to torture him well to vent my anger!" Justin's words were enunciated one by one, spoken through gritted teeth.

"Of course."

After a while, with the appearance of the host and the staff responsible for financial disputes, the auction officially began.

"Everyone already knows how this is going to go."

After a brief explanation of the situation, the host said, "Now, let's begin the bidding for Horizon Moon. The starting price is two hundred million, and each increment must not be less than ten million."

Chapter 1303