

Chapter 1033 Termination Of Cooperation

When Shayla saw the group of congressmen repeatedly mocking Liam, her brows furrowed tightly. She could no longer hold back, so she immediately retorted, "From what I see, you guys are the real losers. This is clearly your own matter, but you expect others to deal with it for you. You are a bunch of useless trash!"

The senior members of the congress were immediately angered by Shayla's words. Their face flushed. One of them pointed a finger at Liam and shouted, "Liam, can't you control your subordinates? It seems you have forgotten what this place is. How dare you let someone run wild here! You are getting too indulged!"

Before Liam could speak, Julie snorted coldly and interjected, "You are of no use. You only want others to help you all the time. It's fine with Liam to help you anytime you need him. But when he needs your help, you refuse to help him."

"What you are doing is completely disappointing. Since we're all partners here, we should naturally get mutual benefits. But you are nothing but parasites. You have no intention of contributing at all. Instead, you relentlessly demand more. Don't you feel ashamed of yourselves?" she added.

The congressmen blushed with shame upon hearing Julie's words. They couldn't help looking at each other, all at a loss for words.

The Minister of Defense felt helpless when he saw them arguing. He noticed that they were about to continue fighting, so he stepped forward to stop them.

Then, he turned to Liam and said, "Liam, I want to help you. But I must be honest with you. It is very difficult to fulfill your request. Also, your people are quite rude. They don't even respect the authorities. I hope you can manage them better. They don't understand the stakes involved. But I hope you do. Let them apologize now."

Liam huffed coldly and said in a deep voice, "First, they are not my subordinates. One is my wife, and the other is my friend. Second, I don't think there's anything wrong with what they said. Indeed, cooperation is based on mutual benefit. If you can't give me the help I need, don't expect me to help you."

"Since you have shown us this kind of attitude, I see no point in continuing this discussion. Our cooperation ends here." As he spoke, Liam's voice grew colder. He glanced at the congressmen and scoffed, "I hope all of you here today will not regret what you've done. I will save my child myself. I just hope that if I turn Invone upside down looking for my child, you won't come to make trouble for me."

The congressmen all looked at Liam contemptuously. One of them scoffed, "Liam, do you really think you're something? You think too highly of yourself. You expect us to regret this? Are you even worthy of it? You are nothing but a fraudster, swaggering around under the guise of the Salvation Society. Get out of here! And don't ever show your face in front of me again. Otherwise, I will kill you with my own hands!"

Upon seeing that both parties had completely fallen out, Liam's expression turned cold.

However, he didn't pay attention to them anymore.

He knew that these people would regret it one day.

No matter how defiant they were today, they were bound to regret it eventually.

"Let's go," Liam said to Shayla and Julie with a sullen face.
